Jon Simpson . . . at right, still missing.

A yellow tennis shoe led to the discovery Monday morning of the badly decomposed body of 12-year-old Jacob Surber of Lincoln.

The Surber youth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Surber of 2205 S. 24th, is one of two Lincoln youths reported missing from the State Fairgrounds since 2 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 30.

Police and volunteers were still searching the area near 16th and Holdrege for the other youth, 13-year-old Jon Simpson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harding Simpson of 2743 Everett.

Authorities say they suspect foul play.

Near Fairgrounds

Students from Southeast Community Technical College reportedly discovered the Surber youth's body about 10:30 a.m. Monday in a drainage ditch a few feet west of Antelope Creek and one block south of the State Fairgrounds.

The body, clad in blue jeans, a blue T-shirt and yellow tennis shoes, was face down in a few inches of water, according to Lancaster County Atty Ron Lahners

The body had been in the ditch "at least four days," Lahners said Time and place of death have not been established, he added.

Mike Kellogg, a student at Southeast Community Technical College, said he was nearby when another student spotted the body.

Kellogg explained that he and some friends had come to the area during a break in classes to see how work was progressing on the new University of Nebraska fieldhouse.

"He (the friend) saw a yellow tennis shoe sticking out of a pile of branches," Kellogg said, "so he walked over and found a body connected to it."

Kellogg, who said he also "got a glimpse" of the body, said the body appeared to be "pretty badly beaten.

Rock In Skull?

"It looked like whoever did it tried to stuff the body down between concrete slabs or underneath it," he said Kellogg also said it looked like a rock was imbedded in the back of the dead youth's skull

Lahners said an autopsy performed on the body "indicates no broken bones," which would exclude a fractured skull. And because the body was "decomposed to a large extent, it is difficult to ascertain surface wounds," he said

Lahners also denied rumors that tennis shoe prints, not those of the Surber youth, were discovered near the body. "You heard wrong," he told a reporter

By noon Monday a crowd of about 25 people had gathered at the scene, including a neighbor of the missing Simpson youth

"I just saw him home playing the day before (he was reported missing) riding a bike. Then you see this " She shook her head sadly and walked back to her car

Positively Identified

The Surber youth was positively identified from dental records, clothing descriptions and from an identification bracelet found on the body, Lahners said.

Although he would not release information on the cause of death, Lahners said "foul play" is suspected.

Results of the autopsy are to be announced at 10 30 a m. Tuesday by Lahners

The fact that the boy's body was found in a ravine after being missing for nine days "indicates a thorough investigation should be done by this office," he said

Treated As Missing

Because of tips the boys were seen alive last week in Omaha and Broken Bow, Lincoln authorities had been handling the case "as a typical missing persons type report " Lahners said

Lahners said his office is now following up on leads and "eliminating a lot of people" as suspects Aiding in the investigation are members of the Lincoln Police Department, Lancaster County sheriff's office and the Nebraska State Patrol, he said

"We're conducting a portion of our investigation in Omaha," he revealed, "primarily because of the people who said they saw the boys in Omaha "

He said the investigation would be "complicated somewhat" because people with the State Fair carnival have left town However, he added "We have no definite leads pointing into the midway show at all "

Near where the Surber boy's body was found, about 25 Lincoln policemen and firemen continued until dark Monday to search an area two blocks either side of the sewer ditch, from 14th to 17th streets

In addition a police helicopter searched along Salt Creek as far as the Platte River

Looking For Anything

Capt Roger LaPage, who headed the ground search said searchers were looking for "evidence — anything that might be connected to the body and another person "

Lahners requested that anyone who remembers seeing either or both of the young men after about 2 p m Aug 30 contact his office

The two youths were last seen by Surber's sister, who dropped them off near the fairgrounds, at about 19th and Holdrege, Lahners said

The missing Simpson boy is described as a white male, 5 feet 4 inches, 110 pounds, with blonde hair and greenish-blue eyes

When last seen, he was wearing blue jeans, blue tennis shoes and "in all probability" a navy blue and white striped tank top, trimmed in red "

Council Votes 4-3 To Confirm Hansen As Police Chief

By GORDON WINTERS and NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writers

"I think this is the hardest decision I'll ever have to make. I wish I could go away someplace.

"I am going to vote for the confirmation."

The words came from City Council Chairman Max Denney in council chambers that had quieted to a hush after more than 2½ hours of often impassioned testimony mostly in opposition to the confirmation of George K Hansen as police chief

Seconds later, for the first time in more than 30 years, Lincoln had a new police chief.

Expected 4-3 Split

The council split, as expected, with Steve Cook, Bob Sikyta and Richard Baker in opposition and Bob Jeambey, Sue Bailey, John Robinson and Denney in favor.

"I didn't think it would be that strenuous," Mayor Helen Boosalis said shortly after the council meeting at which more than 25 people testified on the issue.

Mrs. Boosalis went to the microphone several times to answer questions and charges as a score of people told the council they wanted acting chief Dale Adams to be named premanent chief

'Give Adams A Chance'

"Don't screw up what good we've already got in this town. Give Dale Adams a chance," Irwin Chesen, manager of the Villager Motel, urged the council

"We have a successful enough police department that you are obligated to reach only one conclusion — it would be folly to bring someone new in "

Nomination of George Hansen, a retired military man who is now director of public safety in Sunnyvale, Calif., "has the appearance of a vote of 'no confidence' " in the administration of Adams and Joseph Carroll, who retired in March after more than 30 years as chief, James Ackerman said.

Ackerman, a vice president of Banker's Life, an attorney and retired FBI agent, asked the council to delay action on the nomination of Hansen, questioning whether the procedure under which Hansen was selected from about 90 other applicants was fair.

Another asking for a delay was attorney Norman Krivosha. He said it was "inconceivable" that the council did not hold a public hearing at which it could meet Hansen before acting

MPs Not The Same

Retired FBI agent Harmon Ogren, speaking from a wheelchair, told the council that Hansen's years in the Army military police did not qualify him to be police chief

The military police he said, were a "glorified foot patrol" and that a different branch of the service was called whenever there was criminal investigation to be conducted

Many of those speaking referred to a recent newspaper poll in which more than 80% of the respondents indicated they felt the city had a good police department, contending this supported the contention that the chief should come from within the department

'Don't Want Him'

On the other side of the issue, former police officer Stuart Wetzler, who was fired in August, told the council "We don't want Mr. Adams. It's that simple "

"We do not want to live under the psychological pressure and physical oppresssion that we have to live with under Dale Adams and his regime."

R E Andersen, of Norden Laboratories and chairman of the five-member committee that unanimously recommended Hansen be appointed among more than 90 applicants, said "I have nothing against Dale Adams

"In the short time I have known him I think Dale Adams is a fine young man I do not believe he is as qualified as Mr George Hansen for this particular position

"Mr Adams needed development that he didn't get in the past leadership and neither displayed the initiative to get," Andersen said

Chief 'Someday'

Andersen added, however, that he believes Adams "someday can be chief of police in Lincoln, Nebraska "

Mrs Boosalis reminded the council that "when I ran for mayor of this city I said over and over again, as clearly as I could, that I was going to seek the best for the City of Lincoln

"I was elected and I said since then I would seek the best whether inside or outside the department," she said

At one point, responding to Adams supporter Roger Yant, Mrs Boosalis said, "If the committee hadn't been that strongly convinced I wouldn't be here sticking my neck out

"I know its dynamite "

One of those testifying before the council was Mrs Fern (Dale) Adams.

"I'm not here to make a plea for the Adamses or to put anyone down," she said

"I do want this worked out so that there is no animosity anywhere and so that there can be peace "

Boy Killed As Mother's Auto Rolls

A 4-year-old boy died Monday from injuries suffered in an auto accident at West A and S.W. 40th

Travis W. Reich, son of Oren and Donna Reich, Rt. 7, died at Lincoln General Hospital after the car he was riding in with his mother rolled over

The Lancaster County sheriff's office reported that Mrs. Reich said she reached down to the floor of the car and moved the steering wheel to the right. When she tried to straighten the car out, she overcompensated to the left and the car flipped over

Mrs. Reich was admitted to Lincoln General Hospital for observation.

Fire In JFK Birthplace Of Suspicious Origin

BOSTON (AP) — A fire of suspicious origin broke out at the birthplace of the late President John F. Kennedy on Monday night. Printed in black paint on the sidewalk in front of the house were the words "Bus Teddy," an apparent reference to the late president's brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

The fire followed the opening day of Boston public schools under an extensive court-ordered integration program. At least 86 persons were arrested in connection with demonstrations both for and against the citywide busing program implemented throughout Boston this year

Attendance at schools was about half the number of students expected to report for classes under the new program.

Sen. Kennedy is one of the few Boston politicians who have publicly supported desegregation of city schools.

The fire at the John Kennedy's birthplace, a historical landmark open daily for public viewing but not inhabited, may have been caused by a flammable substance tossed into the kitchen from a rear first-floor window, according to Fire Chief William Murphy. He estimated damage at $10,000.

Murphy said the fire was being investigated by state fire marshals, the FBI and the Department of Interior, which administers the U S historical site.

Ralph Levy, a neighbor, said firemen told him a firebomb had been thrown into the house. The fire spread from the kitchen to an upstairs bedroom before being extinguished, officials said.

Firebombs were tossed into an elementary school in Boston's historic Charlestown section earlier Monday night, and two men were arrested in the Jamaica Plain section on charges of making firebombs.

As schools opened Monday, buses delivered students throughout the city without incident. However, school attendance was about half the projected level as parents kept thousands of pupils home.

No schoolchildren were injured, and city officials said they thought the opening day had gone relatively well despite disturbances in Charlestown.

"We are generally pleased with what happened today," said Police Commissioner Robert diGrazia "Things went well at the schools Any difficulty we had happened away from the schools."

In Louisville, Ky., armed National Guardsmen and police with firm instructions to prevent any violence rode school buses Monday, but officials said only 68% of pupils expected to attend Jefferson County schools this fall have signed up for classes.

There was no reported violence on Monday or Monday night.

Teachers To Strike In New York City

NEW YORK (AP) — New York City's 65,000 teachers voted overwhelmingly Monday night to strike the nation's largest public school system when their contract expires at midnight.

They cheered, applauded and gave a standing ovation to United Federation of Teachers President Albert Shanker at a tumultuous meeting in Madison Square Garden as he called on them to walk off their jobs in the 1.1 million-pupil school system. Monday was the first day of school in the city.

The blow hit the city as it struggled desperately to avert bankruptcy. While the strike vote was being taken, the state Assembly in Albany approved a $2.3-billion package planned to give New York a three-month breathing spell to ward off default.

The teachers' union had said money was no longer the main issue. Instead, the contract dispute centered on class sizes and other working conditions.

Before the vote, Shanker said a long strike was likely, adding that it was "a very serious matter because once we go out, we will stay out."

Missing Boy's Body Discovered

A yellow tennis shoe led to the discovery Monday morning of the badly decomposed body of 12-year-old Jacob Surber of Lincoln.

The Surber youth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Surber of 2205 S. 24th, is one of two Lincoln youths reported missing from the State Fairgrounds since 2 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 30.

Police and volunteers were still searching the area near 16th and Holdrege for the other youth, 13-year-old Jon Simpson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harding Simpson of 2743 Everett.

Schweiker Asks Senate To Probe Assassination

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Richard S. Schweiker said Monday he is asking the Senate to reinvestigate the 1963 assassination of President John F. Kennedy because Lee Harvey Oswald and Jack Ruby may have had CIA and FBI connections.

New evidence, the Pennslysvania Republican told reporters, shows possible connections between the Central Intelligence Agency and the FBI with Oswald, who was accused of shooting Kennedy with a rifle in Dallas, and Ruby, the nightclub owner, who killed Oswald.

Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and John Tower, R-Texas, chairman and vice chairman of the Senate panel, said later, "We do not think there is sufficient evidence to justify recommending to Congress that there be a reopening of the Warren Commission's work."

Schweiker, a member of the 11-man Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, asked in a resolution to be presented to the Senate that National Archives documents on the assassination, ordered sealed for 75 years, be opened; that funds be allocated for a new investigation; that if necessary the panel's mandate be extended beyond Jan. 31, 1976, until the assassination is further clarified.

Schweiker said the investigation should "focus initially on the role of U.S. intelligence agencies in investigating the assassination for the Warren Commission," which reported there was no conspiracy when Oswald shot Kennedy Nov. 22, 1963, and that Ruby killed Oswald on his own volition.

Schweiker said Ruby was an FBI informer, according to a letter written by the late director, J. Edgar Hoover.

"Recent disclosures have devastated the credibility of the Warren Commission report," Schweiker said.

"We now have evidence the commission's primary investigative arm — the Federal Bureau of Investigation — destroyed and supressed evidence," Schweiker said. "And there are indications the FBI may have influenced witnesses to deliberately mislead the Warren Commission."

Schweiker held up a document from the Warren Commission, previously labelled top secret, which he said meant that CIA Director Allen Dulles "acknowledged that . . . Hoover might lie to the Warren Commission about FBI links with Lee Harvey Oswald, even if asked by the president to answer truthfully."

Schweiker also cited the recent acknowledgment by FBI Director Clarence Kelley that Oswald visited the Dallas FBI office several days before the assassination and turned over a letter threatening to blow up the FBI office or the Dallas police if they persisted in questioning his Russian-born wife.

The letter was destroyed after Kennedy was killed but "this was never revealed to the Warren Commission," Schweiker said.

He said it was "strange" Oswald obtained speedy discharge from the U.S. Marines, obtained a visa to visit the Soviet Union where he renounced American citizenship and, after working in a Soviet factory and marrying a Russian, got back his citizenship, a paid flight to the United States and a new passport.

Younger Says File On Fromme Thick

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger said Monday he would be "disturbed" if the Secret Service did not have all of the information he had on Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme.

Younger said he had a thick file on the woman charged with attempted murder of President Ford and on other members of convicted mass murderer Charles Manson's cult-like family.

After Miss Fromme's arrest Friday, Douglas Duncan, chief of the Secret Service Sacramento office, said he had no files on Miss Fromme, who lived eight blocks from the site of the attempted assassination Friday.

Miss Fromme was arrested Friday after authorities said she pointed a loaded .45-caliber pistol at Ford.

Duncan said he did not know she was in town and that the data his office had on her was "word of mouth."

Younger said the Manson file was available for the Secret Service.

"I will be disturbed if it eventually develops that we had in our files information that the Secret Service didn't have. I'll wonder why they didn't have it," he said.

Younger said in an interview that members of Manson's family are "all dingy in varying degrees" and probably suffer permanent brain damage from drugs.

But Younger said, "You can't go in and lock up all the sick people in the community when the President is coming to town."

"Even if everyone had been informed about Squeaky Fromme, would any court in the world have authorized her apprehension based on the rambling statements she has made?" Younger asked

Younger was Los Angeles district attorney when Manson was prosecuted there. He said he has watched the Manson family activities and his office has background on the group.

Manson was convicted in 1971 of seven murders in connection with the 1969 Sharon Tate-La Bianca slayings and is serving a life sentence at San Quentin Prison.

Earlier, the public defender representing Miss Fromme said he will probably seek a gag order to prevent officials from talking about the assassination attempt.

The U.S. attorney's office said it was informed that E. Richard Walker, appointed to defend Miss Fromme, would ask the U.S. 9th Circuit Court of Appeals in San Francisco to prevent public statements by prosecutors and others.

Walker met with Miss Fromme at the Sacamento County Jail Friday, and two of his investigators visited her again on Monday.

Meanwhile, U.S. Atty. Dwayne Keyes said the owner of the .45-caliber automatic taken from Miss Fromme is not being identified because he will be a witness at grand jury proceedings Wednesday.

"We don't want to release the names of witnesses because the grand jury proceeding is secret, and he will be a witness," Keyes said.

He confirmed, however, a report that the owner was a male friend of Miss Fromme who loaned the gun to her some time ago.

A gag order would not prevent Miss Fromme from speaking out The 27-year-old member of Manson's family has expressed the desire many times to "have a courtroom" in which to express Manson's philosophy.

She apparently would use any future trial as a forum.

Spassky Tests Sincerity

Moscow — Boris Spassky, the former world chess champion, is testing the Soviet Union's sincerity in fulfilling the spirit as well as the letter of the humanitarian provisions of the Helsinki declaration. The 30,000-word document deals mainly with the inviolability of frontiers and noninterference in internal affairs, but it also contains a few paragraphs, inserted at Western insistence, dealing with marriage between citizens of different nations. Spassky wants to marry a French woman, and he believes Soviet authorities might want to block the marriage He has cited the Helsinki declaration in his behalf.

Nixon 'Not Trustworthy'

Washington — The Justice Department said in a brief filed in Federal District Court in Washington that Congress had ample reason to conclude that former President Richard M. Nixon "would not be a trustworthy custodian, even temporarily," of his presidential papers. The brief upheld the law that placed the Nixon papers under government control.

CIA Poison Found

Washington — Despite a presidential order for the destruction of such stockpiles, two containers of a mass poison developed by the Central Intelligence Agency have been discovered hidden in a warehouse at Ft. Detrick, Md. Sources said that poison — apparently developed from shellfish — was preserved from destruction by a CIA employe who disagreed with the order by President Nixon in 1969

Override Said Unlikely

Washington — Key members of both parties agreed Monday that there were probably not enough votes in the Senate to override President Ford's expected veto of legislation that would extend price controls on oil for six months.

Violations Said Likely In Army LSD Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army's general counsel and surgeon general said Monday that tests it sponsored on humans using LSD and other hallucinogenic drugs were part of a search for alternatives to nuclear war but may not have been properly authorized their first eight years.

They testified before the House Armed Services Committee's investigations panel, they have "few doubts" that prescribed medical ethics, safety procedures and prior-consent requirements were violated to some degree in the first decade of the tests, held in the 1950s and 1960s.

General counsel Charles D. Ablard, declined to answer in open session a question as to whether the Central Intelligence Agency used "the results of your research" in actual operations in foreign countries.

Ablard said that the "motivating factor" for the tests in the first place was a report to the Army surgeon general from "a civilian doctor" on Oct. 21, 1951, after the doctor had communicated "with several European medical personnel concerning the effect of 'ego-depressent drugs.'"

Aside from the threat to U.S. troops the drugs presented, and their potential use to get information from American intelligence agents, Ablard said the information more significantly "indicated that an alternative to nuclear weapons might be available, a weapon which might render large forces helpless — but only temporarily — and without any permanent damage to those forces and none to their surroundings."

Lt. Gen. Richard R. Taylor, the Army's surgeon general, said that, to the best of his knowledge, the drugs — which were used in laboratory experiments and on U.S. troops at three forts, in mass field experiments — were never used against foreign forces. The whole research thrust was abandoned in 1967 because of the "unpredictability" of LSD and related psycho-cemical agents, he said.

Taylor said that, while "we may be missing some documents," the Army's investigators of the drug-testing program so far have found no evidence that the portions of it involving psycho-chemical agents such as LSD were properly authorized before 1958 or 1959.

Over-all, Ablard said, the medical profession's ethical codes and procedural safeguards on such human research were well established in the last 25 years during which the experiments occurred, but "I must in all candor admit that they appear not always to have been followed in these tests."

Taylor said, "There is no doubt in my mind there were serious problems in the 1950s... There is evidence that the sound ethical principles directed in past and present Department of Defense regulations appear not always to have been followed . . ."

Women Charge Sellout By Fed

Washington (UPI) — The Federal Reserve Board Monday published a sharply scaled-down set of rules against sex discrimination in credit, prompting charges from women that it had sold out to the banking industry.

The revised regulations, scheduled to take effect Oct. 28 after a period of public comment, eliminated many of the provisions which feminist groups believed were essential to give women better access to credit.

Karen DeCrow, president of the National Organization for Women, promptly wrote an angry telegram to each of the board members, demanding a meeting to express the "outrage of millions of women."

She said the nation's women expect the regulations will be changed and will do everything possible to get better standards.

Ms. DeCrow said she was writing to the board members "to express the outrage of millions of women at your sellout to the banking heirarchy — commercial and mortgage bankers, finance companies, retail department stores, small loan companies and credit card companies."

"By issuing these regulations you have flouted the expressed intent of Congress and betrayed the interests of more than half of our population whose need for equal access to credit was recognized by our legislators," she said.

NOW particularly objected to the board's decision to eliminate an earlier provision that would have required creditors to disclose in writing why an applicant was rejected for credit.

"Without that, the whole battle is helpless," NOW spokesman Linda M. Cohen told UPI.

Some of the controversial provisions:

—Creditors cannot directly ask about child-bearing intentions of a female loan applicant. But the "childbearing" section permits the creditor to "request and consider information concerning the probable continuity" of income.

—As opposed to the original, creditors would have no obligation to explain reasons for denying a loan.

—There is no provision for joint accounts for unmarried persons.

—The effective dates of some of the rules have been delayed, and creditors will be required to keep their records for only one year, not two years as originally proposed.

—Whereas the original proposal stipulated that all joint accounts of married couples be listed under both names, the new rules impose this only on accounts opened After Nov. 1, 1976. Old accounts would be changed only on request of the accountholders.

Schweiker Asks Senate To Probe Assassination

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Richard S. Schweiker said Monday he is asking the Senate to reinvestigate the 1963 assassination of President John F. Kennedy because Lee Harvey Oswald and Jack Ruby may have had CIA and FBI connections.

New evidence, the Pennslysvania Republican told reporters, shows possible connections between the Central Intelligence Agency and the FBI with Oswald, who was accused of shooting Kennedy with a rifle in Dallas, and Ruby, the nightclub owner, who killed Oswald.

Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and John Tower, R-Texas, chairman and vice chairman of the Senate panel, said later, "We do not think there is sufficient evidence to justify recommending to Congress that there be a reopening of the Warren Commission's work."

Schweiker, a member of the 11-man Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, asked in a resolution to be presented to the Senate that National Archives documents on the assassination, ordered sealed for 75 years, be opened; that funds be allocated for a new investigation; that if necessary the panel's mandate be extended beyond Jan. 31, 1976, until the assassination is further clarified.

Schweiker said the investigation should "focus initially on the role of U.S. intelligence agencies in investigating the assassination for the Warren Commission," which reported there was no conspiracy when Oswald shot Kennedy Nov. 22, 1963, and that Ruby killed Oswald on his own volition.

Schweiker said Ruby was an FBI informer, according to a letter written by the late director, J. Edgar Hoover.

"Recent disclosures have devastated the credibility of the Warren Commission report," Schweiker said.

"We now have evidence the commission's primary investigative arm — the Federal Bureau of Investigation — destroyed and supressed evidence," Schweiker said. "And there are indications the FBI may have influenced witnesses to deliberately mislead the Warren Commission."

Schweiker held up a document from the Warren Commission, previously labelled top secret, which he said meant that CIA Director Allen Dulles "acknowledged that . . . Hoover might lie to the Warren Commission about FBI links with Lee Harvey Oswald, even if asked by the president to answer truthfully."

Schweiker also cited the recent acknowledgment by FBI Director Clarence Kelley that Oswald visited the Dallas FBI office several days before the assassination and turned over a letter threatening to blow up the FBI office or the Dallas police if they persisted in questioning his Russian-born wife.

The letter was destroyed after Kennedy was killed but "this was never revealed to the Warren Commission," Schweiker said.

He said it was "strange" Oswald obtained speedy discharge from the U.S. Marines, obtained a visa to visit the Soviet Union where he renounced American citizenship and, after working in a Soviet factory and marrying a Russian, got back his citizenship, a paid flight to the United States and a new passport.

Younger Says File On Fromme Thick

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger said Monday he would be "disturbed" if the Secret Service did not have all of the information he had on Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme.

Younger said he had a thick file on the woman charged with attempted murder of President Ford and on other members of convicted mass murderer Charles Manson's cult-like family.

After Miss Fromme's arrest Friday, Douglas Duncan, chief of the Secret Service Sacramento office, said he had no files on Miss Fromme, who lived eight blocks from the site of the attempted assassination Friday.

Miss Fromme was arrested Friday after authorities said she pointed a loaded .45-caliber pistol at Ford.

Duncan said he did not know she was in town and that the data his office had on her was "word of mouth."

Younger said the Manson file was available for the Secret Service.

"I will be disturbed if it eventually develops that we had in our files information that the Secret Service didn't have. I'll wonder why they didn't have it," he said.

Younger said in an interview that members of Manson's family are "all dingy in varying degrees" and probably suffer permanent brain damage from drugs.

But Younger said, "You can't go in and lock up all the sick people in the community when the President is coming to town."

"Even if everyone had been informed about Squeaky Fromme, would any court in the world have authorized her apprehension based on the rambling statements she has made?" Younger asked.

Younger was Los Angeles district attorney when Manson was prosecuted there. He said he has watched the Manson family activities and his office has background on the group.

Republican Committee Ratifies Kansas City Site

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans ratified Kansas City, Mo., for their 1976 nominating convention Monday and heard their national chairman proclaim that GOP prospects are on the upswing due to President Ford's "outstanding leadership."

Chairman Mary Louise Smith also told the Republican National Committee that she hopes to raise more than $20 million to support GOP candidates in 197 under provisions of the new campaign law that permit multi-candidate committees to supplement funds of individual office-seekers.

Without dissent, the 167-member committee accepted its site selection committee's recommendation to convene the 1976 GOP convention next Aug. 16 in Kansas City despite reservations about the city's Kemper Arena and its hotel capacity.

Kansas City won out over Cleveland, Ohio, which had even more severe hotel problems. Cleveland Mayor Ralph Perk accepted the decision in a brief speech, "you gave us a fair hearing. We came out number two."

California Republican Chairman Paul R. Harle asked how many of the promised 15,755 rooms in the Kansas City area were actually located an hour away in Topeka, Kan. Vice Chairman Edwin G. Middleton of Kentucky estimated that about 2,000-2,500 rooms might be in that category and conceded "it is not an ideal situation."

But he noted it has often taken an hour to get to convention halls in Miami Beach, Fla., site of the last two conventions, and San Francisco, where the GOP met in 1956 and 1964.

President Ford reportedly favored a midwestern site. The decision to go to Kansas City brings the GOP convention to a city that last hosted a national convention in 1928, when Republicans nominated Herbert Hoover. Kansas City was also the site of last December's Democratic mini-convention.

The Republican choice of Kansas City drew criticism from Republican chairperson Audrey Roe Colom of the National Women's Political Caucus because Missouri has not ratified the Equal Rights Amendment. Republican members voted at a convention last June in support of a resolution to require that the GOP convention be held in a state that had ratified the amendment.

The GOP will convene five weeks after the Democrats open their 1976 convention July 12 in New York City. The Democrats chose New York 12 days ago in a close contest with Los Angeles.

She said the national committee will need to raise $20 million to perform its functions next year. General Counsel William C. Cramer upped that estimate to the $23 million-$25 million range.

That would be in addition to $2 million each party will receive for its convention and the $20 million it will get from the presidential campaign fund under the new campaign finance law. The Republicans are undecided whether to accept the $20 million or rely again on private fund-raising.

The arena in Kansas City where the convention will be held has 10,500 permanent seats, with room for 5,000 more temporary ones. The Republicans will have about 4,500 alternates and delegates.

The party named two veteran fund-raisers to take over the duties held for the last 18 months by O. C. Carmichael Jr., a South Bend, Ind., businessman.

Mrs. Smith named Jeremiah Milbank, a New York financier who lives in suburban Connecticut, to head the party's finance committee, the top money post and one he had held previously.

The national committee elected William J. McManus of Washington as treasurer. Carmichael had held both positions before resigning after a disagreement with Mrs. Smith over money-raising activities.

Humphrey Assesses Ford

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., gave the Minnesota state AFL-CIO convention in Minneapolis a new twist Monday. The senator said that while President Ford is sometimes criticized for having played too much college football, he actually "played center and sees the world upside down."

House Republicans Unveil Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republicans Monday unveiled a program they said they would pursue if they get control of Congress. It emphasizes budget balancing, strong defense and review of social and other governmental programs to cut out abuse and duplication.

Heading a panel of GOP congressional leaders at a news conference, Minority Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona, said "the nation needs a Republican Congress" and insisted he thinks his party has a chance to win control in 1976.

The program developed by a special Republican task force and endorsed by the party's House policy committee largely tracks positions already taken by the Ford administration.

Rhodes agreed this is so, but said the GOP legislators proposed innovations in the areas of individual retirement plans, a study of government programs and bureaucracies and unemployment insurance changes.

Much of the program is necessarily general, Rhodes said, and on some of the topics treated legislation could not be developed until Republicans control the congressional machinery.

Rhodes, who organized the idea of a Republican congressional program, emphasized that it implies no break with Ford personally or with his administration. Some White House staffers, he said, had expressed such concern.

But Rhodes said Ford not only did not agree with them, but favored the idea and reviewed the final document at a private meeting with Rhodes.

Bailar Wants Doubling Of $1 Billion Mail Subsidy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar appealed Monday for a doubling of the $1 billion annual subsidy paid by the taxpayers to the U.S. Postal Service.

He said such a hike would be necessary for at least two or three years, pending a thorough review in that period "of those services which the users of the mails cannot rightly be asked to support."

Bailar, in an address to the National Postal Forum, said the service also needs new authority to implement rate increases more swiftly.

The slowness of the current rate-making process, he said, has contributed to the accumulation since fiscal 1974 of a deficit that will total $2.5 billion by the end of the calendar year.

"It is no secret," said Bailar, "that to date the Postal Service has been unable to balance its costs and revenues despite increases in postage rates."

"Something has to be done. In an inflationary period, we must get away from a rate-making process which lasts so long that the year for which rates are to be set is over and done with before the process is completed."

Noting he has already served notice of a "temporary" increase after Christmas that will put the price of a first-class stamp at 13 cents, Bailar said "I assure you that we are as unenthusiastic as you are over the prospect of higher prices for postage."

But even with that anticipated boost in revenues, he said, a doubling of the current $920 million federal subsidy is necessary to serve as "a bridge from an inflation-wracked, deficit-ridden Postal Service to a financially solvent institution."

Without the subsidy, he said, it will be impossible to keep rates "at a level that both business and individual citizens can afford."

The postmaster general urged the establishment of a special study commission to determine which services the taxpayers should be asked to support in the future.

In the meantime, Bailar said, the Postal Service is taking several steps aimed at greater economy and efficiency.

On that score, he announced that the so-called Kokomo Plan, a method for computer analysis and restructuring of carrier routes, is being fully implemented in Portland, Ore., with an eye toward using it nationwide pending the outcome of an almost-certain grievance by mail unions.

The plan, first tested in Kokomo, Ind., has been bitterly protested by the National Association of Letter Carriers. The union's president, James H. Rademacher, says it "amounts to a 20% speedup," of work and can only lead to overtime requirements that will wind up costing more, rather than less, in the long run.

Management claims the plan will produce more equal — and efficient — distribution of work. It involves computerized measurements of the number of letters delivered, miles traveled and other factors on each route. Then the routes are revised so that each, at least theoretically, shares the same burden.

Bailar said another step, the Consumer Service Program, will also produce greater responsiveness by the mails once the program gets underway next month. It provides for widespread distribution of a rating card which the public can use to call attention to delivery or other service difficulties.

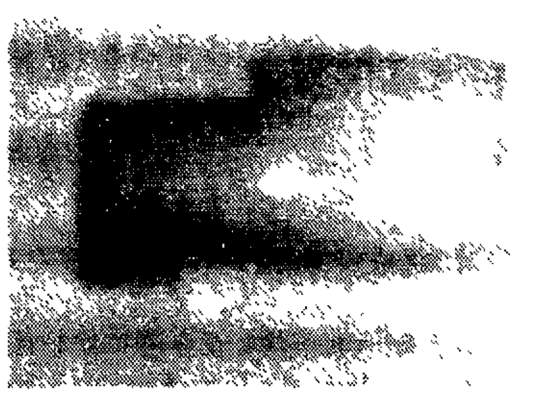
This house appears dark on the Thermogram because there is no detectable heat escaping from the roof (The light area near the center indicates an operating furnace or a fireplace.)

Thermogram showing poorly-insulated home.



Note how light this home shows up on the Thermogram. This means that heat is escaping. This may be due to poor rooftop insulation. The homeowner is wasting money and energy, but probably doesn't know it.

Here's how to make sure you get full value from your heating dollar.
You pay good money to heat your house. But if your house isn't properly insulated you could be wasting money — not to mention energy.

Now you can see with your own eyes if you can save money on heating costs.
Last winter Cengas made arrangements with the Remote Sensing Institute of South Dakota State University to measure the rooftop heat loss of homes and buildings in Lincoln, Beatrice, Columbus, Norfolk and Sioux Falls. Their results were recorded on special tapes, called Thermograms.

Your Thermogram is now ready for your examination. Come in today for a free analysis of your home's insulation effectiveness.
Cold weather will soon be here. To make sure you're ready for it, come in and examine your Thermogram today. There's no additional charge for this valuable service, nor are you under any obligation to buy anything. And, no special appointment is required. You can come in any time at your convenience.

Customers outside the 5-City Survey Area can also receive energy-saving, cost-saving hints.

Republican Committee Ratifies Kansas City Site

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans ratified Kansas City, Mo., for their 1976 nominating convention Monday and heard their national chairman proclaim that GOP prospects are on the upswing due to President Ford's "outstanding leadership."

Chairman Mary Louise Smith also told the Republican National Committee that she hopes to raise more than $20 million to support GOP candidates in 197 under provisions of the new campaign law that permit multi-candidate committees to supplement funds of individual office-seekers.

Without dissent, the 167-member committee accepted its site selection committee's recommendation to convene the 1976 GOP convention next Aug. 16 in Kansas City despite reservations about the city's Kemper Arena and its hotel capacity.

Kansas City won out over Cleveland, Ohio, which had even more severe hotel problems. Cleveland Mayor Ralph Perk accepted the decision in a brief speech, "you gave us a fair hearing. We came out number two."

California Republican Chairman Paul R. Harle asked how many of the promised 15,755 rooms in the Kansas City area were actually located an hour away in Topeka, Kan. Vice Chairman Edwin G. Middleton of Kentucky estimated that about 2,000-2,500 rooms might be in that category and conceded "it is not an ideal situation."

But he noted it has often taken an hour to get to convention halls in Miami Beach, Fla., site of the last two conventions, and San Francisco, where the GOP met in 1956 and 1964.

President Ford reportedly favored a midwestern site. The decision to go to Kansas City brings the GOP convention to a city that last hosted a national convention in 1928, when Republicans nominated Herbert Hoover. Kansas City was also the site of last December's Democratic mini-convention.

The Republican choice of Kansas City drew criticism from Republican chairperson Audrey Roe Colom of the National Women's Political Caucus because Missouri has not ratified the Equal Rights Amendment. Republican members voted at a convention last June in support of a resolution to require that the GOP convention be held in a state that had ratified the amendment.

The GOP will convene five weeks after the Democrats open their 1976 convention July 12 in New York City. The Democrats chose New York 12 days ago in a close contest with Los Angeles.

She said the national committee will need to raise $20 million to perform its functions next year. General Counsel William C. Cramer upped that estimate to the $23 million-$25 million range.

That would be in addition to $2 million each party will receive for its convention and the $20 million it will get from the presidential campaign fund under the new campaign finance law. The Republicans are undecided whether to accept the $20 million or rely again on private fund-raising.

The arena in Kansas City where the convention will be held has 10,500 permanent seats, with room for 5,000 more temporary ones. The Republicans will have about 4,500 alternates and delegates.

The party named two veteran fund-raisers to take over the duties held for the last 18 months by O. C. Carmichael Jr., a South Bend, Ind., businessman.

Mrs. Smith named Jeremiah Milbank, a New York financier who lives in suburban Connecticut, to head the party's finance committee, the top money post and one he had held previously.

The national committee elected William J. McManus of Washington as treasurer. Carmichael had held both positions before resigning after a disagreement with Mrs. Smith over money-raising activities.

Humphrey Assesses Ford

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., gave the Minnesota state AFL-CIO convention in Minneapolis a new twist Monday. The senator said that while President Ford is sometimes criticized for having played too much college football, he actually "played center and sees the world upside down."

Bailar Wants Doubling Of $1 Billion Mail Subsidy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar appealed Monday for a doubling of the $1 billion annual subsidy paid by the taxpayers to the U.S. Postal Service.

He said such a hike would be necessary for at least two or three years, pending a thorough review in that period "of those services which the users of the mails cannot rightly be asked to support."

Bailar, in an address to the National Postal Forum, said the service also needs new authority to implement rate increases more swiftly.

House Republicans Unveil Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republicans Monday unveiled a program they said they would pursue if they get control of Congress. It emphasizes budget balancing, strong defense and review of social and other governmental programs to cut out abuse and duplication.

Heading a panel of GOP congressional leaders at a news conference, Minority Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona, said "the nation needs a Republican Congress" and insisted he thinks his party has a chance to win control in 1976.

The program developed by a special Republican task force and endorsed by the party's House policy committee largely tracks positions already taken by the Ford administration.

Rhodes agreed this is so, but said the GOP legislators proposed innovations in the areas of individual retirement plans, a study of government programs and bureaucracies and unemployment insurance changes.

Much of the program is necessarily general, Rhodes said, and on some of the topics treated legislation could not be developed until Republicans control the congressional machinery.

Rhodes, who organized the idea of a Republican congressional program, emphasized that it implies no break with Ford personally or with his administration. Some White House staffers, he said, had expressed such concern.

But Rhodes said Ford not only did not agree with them, but favored the idea and reviewed the final document at a private meeting with Rhodes.

'Cautious Prosperity'

Can the Nebraska State Fair just concluded tell us anything about the spending habits of midlands residents this year?

It is a risky business, trying to interpret receipt figures from fair concessionaires. The figures might be more accurate than the crowds estimates given out by the fair office, but they may be meaning less in terms of a statement about the general health of the economy.

Nevertheless — Total attendance was up, which might suggest that people were not overly shocked by an increase in the entrance fees. The receipts for midway carnival rides and shows were up, indicating that people will still pay for thrills and chills and to satisfy their curiosity, inflation or no. Some of the farm equipment and building and livestock handling equipment exhibitors did quite well; others did not. Luxury items were not selling. On the other hand, an auctioneer whose dollar volume was up, was selling big ticket items with small markup but junk didn't go well.

Concessions official John Skold described the economic mood at the fair as one of "cautious prosperity." As a general rule, people were buying, but they were bargain-hunting, not purchasing the big, expensive items.

Lest we forget, Hotdog Alley concessionaires were grumbling. Cold drink sales were up because of the heat during the first few days of the fair, but sales of other food items were off the standard pace because of the heat. Even when it cooled down, the concessionaires didn't seem to catch up and many of them doubted the official attendance figures.

According to some, this fair was a real disaster. But then, have you ever talked to a happy hot dog salesman?

Erma Has Friends

Those promoting the Interstate 80 bicentennial sculpture project have held out hope from the beginning that criticism of the controversial designs would wane eventually and Nebraskans would one day be proud of the 450-mile sculpture garden.

We think that will be the case, if the politicians in the Legislature allow the project to come to fruition.

There are signs of late that many Nebraskans who had not been heard from are beginning to see the positive aspects of the project.

One of those signs: Somebody has spoken out in favor of "Erma's Desire," the most maligned of the modernistic designs, which is planned for an Interstate rest stop at Grand Island. Apparently Grand Island doesn't want the sculpture — at least those who don't want it are out shouting those who do and those who don't care. And the Hall County Board of Supervisors in a splendid example, a la the Soviet Union, of political control of the arts, refused to issue a building permit for the sculpture.

But Erma is desired. A "Give Erma a home committee" has been organized in Gibbon. People in that community want the sculpture if Grand Island doesn't. They think it can be a tourist attraction and that Grand Island opponents are missing the boat.

We won't be surprised if that kind of thinking becomes more prevalent.

K.C. Lands A Big One

Inevitably the parallel is being drawn that the Democrats are meeting next year in a traditional stronghold, New York City, to select a candidate for president and the Republicans are meeting in Kansas City, a city symbolic of the GOP's traditional heartland strength.

Pundits will also be tempted to read a lot more into the site selections than really is there:

New York is effete, decaying and bankrupt; may even be in receivership by next year Kansas City is a vigorously pumping heart of the hinterlands, young and vital. What does this portend? Will President Ford, if renominated there, be as successful as Herbert Hoover was in 1928, after being selected in Kansas City? Will the Democrats be as unsuccessful as they were in 1924, when John W. Davis was nominated in New York?

Possibly. But the economy and the Democratic standard-bearer, whoever it is, will be the controlling factors in the election. Where the candidates were nominated will play no part in it. The election results would be the same if both nominees were selected in somebody's basement in Fargo.

We're glad, however, that the GOP chose Kansas City. That's a heckuva sports town with good places to eat and a lot to see, a fun place for the convention even if some of the delegates and press have to sleep nights in Topeka.

ANTHONY LEWIS

The Pardoner's Tale

WASHINGTON — There is a suddenness in the ending of summer. One day the sun, the air, the sea are different. The light goes unexpectedly early, and in the evening there is a Turner sky clouds swirling on the horizon.

That feeling of change evokes a political memory now. It was just a year ago that President Ford pardoned Richard Nixon for all crimes he may have committed, official or personal, while in the White House Like an early frost, that sudden act withered hope, bringing us to a season of discontent.

The immediate political controversy over the pardon has naturally faded away; politicians cannot go on debating a decision that is effectively beyond recall. But the consequences of the pardon have not dissipated. They are as they were foreseen a year ago, if anything, more serious.

A few days before the pardon a conservative commentator, George Will, warned that only letting the law take its course against Nixon could prevent him from "polluting American history" with future talk of his innocense. The pollution has begun.

His desposition in the suit over the tapes and papers, released last month, makes wonderful reading for fans of the unchangeable Nixon. There were the old lies, delivered in as brazenly imperious a tone as ever.

"The Special Prosecutor has been appointed," Nixon said, "and we have cooperated with the Special Prosecutor."

Not a blink at the long record of evasion, resistance and destruction of evidence. Then there was the authentic Uriah Heep tone in his statement that he had 42 million White House documents, President Johnson only 32 million: "That doesn't mean that our administration was better than his, I am not contending that."

Reading the desposition, one was struck again by the utter lack of contrition in this man. There is no consciousness of guilt in him, nor shame, because he does not have within him those standards of truth and decency that are the premises of civilized society. Nothing bothers him, neither the great wrongs he did nor the petty ones from which he still profits — the house improved with public money, the $148,000 promised but not paid on his 1969 taxes

And so we face the prospect of Richard Nixon's pushing his way back into our lives. He is writing memoirs, making television deals, posing for pictures by an old White House photographer who reports that Nixon is "kind of bushy-tailed again."

All that was predictable enough What is sad is to see such ambitious dignitaries as Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois visiting San Clemente. For that symbolizes a graver consequence of the pardon than a Nixon attempt to re-write history: a tolerance for lawlessness in our political life that has survived Watergate.

The fundamental lesson of Watergate, of the successful struggle to force a criminal president from office, was that our safety lies in law. Other democracies have their institutional protections: ours depends in the end on a commitment to the supremacy of law.

Diminishing respect for law has been one of this country's most worrying phenomena for years For just a moment, in the summer of 1974, there was a chance to alter that trend — to confound the cynics who say the rich and the powerful too often escape justice. The pardon destroyed that chance, setting the most dramatic and enduring of bad examples.

The way it was done gave us an all too revealing insight into President Ford. Even a year later, the ineptitude of the business is staggering. The failure to obtain any admission from Nixon invited trouble. The absurd agreement on the tapes and papers, negotiated in secret haste by incompetent lawyers, is still causing confusion.

Americans talk today as if they had given up on politics and politicians. Ours is a politics of weariness, of hopelessness, and it began a year ago.

Crowd-Plunging Technique Passe

WASHINGTON — There are more security devices in this city than in any other capital in the world outside of Moscow, but far less security than in the days when Harry Truman used to leave the White House for his morning walks in the public streets of Washington.

The Secret Service, which probably saved President Ford's life in the latest assassination threat in California, has more than doubled since Truman's administration. Vice President Nelson Rockefeller's big white house off Foxhall Road is now guarded like a military installation. And Henry A. Kissinger's house on Dumbarton Ave. in Georgetown is under constant surveillance, which is odd, since Henry's seldom home.

The security screen extends far beyond the President and the cabinet and their families these days. If you go to any American embassy abroad, Marines guard the doors. The Soviet embassy on 16th Street in Washington is now protected with a high green chain-link fence, with guards under the front hall stairs watching closed-circuit television screens of the exterior walls 24 hours a day. And if you go to lunch here with the Israeli ambassador, he sits in protected corners of carefully selected restaurants with security agents on guard.

Yet despite all these essential precautions, the fear of kidnapping, blackmail, and even assassination rises, and the attitude here is that nothing much can be done about it.

"There are a lot of crazy people in this country," Gov. E. G. Brown of California said, as if he had discovered something. "It's just something you have to live with," the President's wife added. And the President insisted that he would just go on plunging into crowds as before.

"This incident, under no circumstances," he said, "will prevent me from contacting the American people as I travel from one state and community to another." And this, of course, is the standard heroic they-can't-intimidate-me reaction after all these scary incidents.

Still, you have to wonder in this age of television, whether these political handshaking strolls through uncontrollable crowds are not a little out of date and even a little phony. Ford doesn't have to prove he's a friendly man, and these long exhausting political trips, almost a year before the nominating conventions, are in many ways an unnecessary diversion from his really serious presidential responsibilities.

There was a good argument in the old days for presidents to travel around this vast country just to remind the people that the president was a living and breathing human being, but even in those days, most presidents seemed to feel that they should be a little restrained, that they should look as serious as the work they had to do, and maintain a sort of fatherly dignity.

Even when the voters had almost a free run of the White House, Lincoln, for all his earthy humor, usually looked solemn if not downright melancholy. It was not until Teddy Roosevelt came along with his gleaming teeth and boisterous laugh that the tradition of chumminess began to take over, and not until much later that Estes Kefauver of Tennessee introduced the dubious notion that if you could just shake enough hands, you might eventually be able to shake the world.

Thus, in that hideous phrase, "pressing the flesh" of the voters came to be regarded as a substitute for impressing their minds. It was supposed to prove that you had the "common touch," and Lyndon Johnson carried it to the point of eating the scraps off his dinner companion's plate in order to prove that he was "just folks."

These days, however, the President has instant contact with almost every homestead in every city and village in the land, and you can hardly get through the evening network news without seeing and hearing him argue his case. Under these circumstances, it is hard to believe that it is either good government or good politics to spend so much time rushing around the country repeating old arguments and convincing the convinced at party rallies.

The notion that Ronald Reagan can get the Republican presidential nomination away from Ford is patently ridiculous unless you suspect the Republicans of suicidal tendencies. It isn't the votes of conservatives Ford needs to win the election, but of independents and disgruntled Democrats, of whom there are rising millions.

Besides, the old crowd-pushing, handshaking, good-guy technique is no answer to inflation, unemployment and the other concerns of the nation, and it is obviously dangerous. For we are living in a troubled and maybe even a demented age, when more people than usual tend to blame their own anxieties and torments on forces beyond their control, and some even see the President as the symbol of their broken lives.

This doesn't mean that Ford like Johnson has to fly around the country from one safe military base to another in order to be heard or speak always, as somebody suggested the other day, from behind bullet-proof glass lecterns. No president ever had more ways of "contacting" the American people than Gerald Ford, and he doesn't have to stroll through parks and mobs to prove it.

The nation has been waiting for a very long time to hear a really memorable speech about the condition of the nation and the world, but it has not been getting one either from Ford or his opponents.

Declares Star Incompetent

Lincoln, Neb.

In its editorial defending its front-page story on Lincoln's would-be Hitler, The Star — as the media are wont to do these days — self-righteously justifies itself in terms of the First Amendment, the public's right to know, and similar self-serving rhetoric.

Yet this crusading exponent of investigative journalism made a deal with the subject of the interview to suppress his name. Not surprising, then, that readers not sharing The Star's own assurance of its superior virtue should look upon the article as a publicity blurb rather than a news story.

But I am charitable I am willing to lay the blame not so much upon malice as upon the moral and intellectual obtuseness — indeed "incompetence" would not be too strong a word — that generally marks The Star's reporting and editorializing.

Press Has Overstepped

Falls City, Neb.

Part of the reason why America is in deep trouble with its values is because the press has lost sight of its original purpose and meaning

Our Founding Fathers felt convinced a free press was essential to maintaining freedom for American citizens. But nowhere in the Constitution did its authors provide for the press to substitute "license" for "freedom"

Freedom of the press suggests merely that it will not be intimidated or coerced into publishing anything that isn't factual and true Certainly the Constitution did not allow the press to presume a role of opinion-molding. For the idea was — in granting proper respect to American citizens — that if they have the facts, they can shape their own views toward respective issues.

The general press overstepped its boundaries. It became self-serving, arrogant and presumptuous In effect, it became a dictator.

Facts will bear me out. A time will come when any press organ engaging in opinion-molding practices — advocacy, if you will — will lose credibility, stature, respect and readers. Why should anyone continue to read what he cannot believe? There is already a tremendous credibility gap and people are wising up In the end, not only will the free people lose, but the press, too. I suspect we will all file bankruptcy, together!

The Russian American

Lincoln, Neb

Yes, he was a Russian (the title of the new book I am writing). The name was chosen because I heard it — from Maine to the Mexican border and back to Nebraska.

But, oh, what an American, so proud and grateful, and I appreciated seeing him stoop and pick up all trash and place it in containers, whether in New York City or Lincoln, Nebraska.

With regret, I buried him March 19, but how I missed him on September 3 when, returning from the State Fair and waiting for my bus, a trash basket blew down and scattered papers all over. There were men of all ages walking past who stepped around the trash.

I waited to see if only one out of the 40 or 50 men loved America, The Beautiful, enough to do what Nicolas Gregory Miatelin would have done immediately.

Beautiful Nebraska meant so much to this Russian. What an American! I have yet to see his equal.

Yes — Controversy

Salina, Kans.

It has been with a great deal of envy and admiration that this Kansan has been reading of Nebraska's Bicentennial plans to create a sculpture garden along Interstate 80.

I have been keeping abreast of plans for the celebration of the nation's 200th birthday for over a year and I believe that Nebraska has outdone all the other 49 states! Long after the last rocket has glared and the last parade gone by, Nebraska's sculptures will stand as a permanent and lasting tribute to the anniversary.

No doubt there is controversy concerning the abstraction of the designs. Never mind. We all know Nebraska is famous for cowboys, cornstalks and football. What we didn't know is that Nebraska is also able to appreciate and encourage art that stimulates the senses. Picasso's Chicago sculpture is still hotly debated years after it was set in place. The point is, it forces people to see, discuss, become critics, and look at things in a new way, thus expanding perception.

Congratulations to Nebraska on its Bicentennial project that will outlast all the others. Nebraskans should be proud. I can hardly wait for a drive on Interstate 80 with camera and picnic hamper!

Let's Face It

CHICAGO — I had been hearing a great deal about Grace Lee, the famous Chinese face reader, so I decided to call her in for a consultation.

Miss Lee specializes in examining the facial structures of her customers in minute detail She then allegedly is able to pronounce astoundingly accurate facts about the personal character and whims of the person she is studying

CAPONE
'too easy-going'

When Miss Lee arrived at my lavish suite of offices, I explained to her that I did not want to have my own face read, since far too much about my character is already a matter of public knowledge. Rather, I said, I had some photographs of some old acquaintances and friends, and I would like her to look at the pictures and tell me something about those people.

Miss Lee agreed to do it She warned me that she could not guarantee perfection — that working from black-and-white photographs is more difficult than working from life.

I showed her the first picture. She studied it with great diligence. This went on for several minutes. Finally she began to speak.

"Oh, this man is such a thinker," Miss Lee said. "He is gentle and very sensitive. He would never hurt anyone. His eyes have a very kind nature. There is no cruelty in this man."

"Very good," I said, and took the picture away. (The photograph had been of Joseph Goebbels, trusted propagandist to Adolf Hitler.)

I brought out the next picture, and Miss Lee began to peruse it.

"You will notice that there is no contour on the neckline," she said. "His eyebrows form arrows. He might be a policeman, or a detective I don't think this is man who is capable of achieving great success in any line of work he might choose His eyes show no forcefulness or ambition He is far too easy-going . No, he is not nearly forceful enough to be a success."

"Terrific," I said, retrieving the picture. (The photo had been of Al Capone.)

I produced the third picture.

"Now look at the nose, and the thin upper lip," Miss Lee said. "I can see that this is not a man who is very broad-minded. He is not a man who would be comfortable with too many women. He is very faithful sort. He is very sensitive . . . He would make a good husband, but he is too conservative to lead a very exciting love life."

"Amazing," I said taking back the photo. (The picture had been of Charles Whiteman, the mass murderer-sniper who killed 15 persons and wounded 31 others from the top of the University of Texas Tower in 1966.)

I produced a fourth picture.

"Oh, now what a nice, friendly person this one is," Miss Lee said. "So open and pleasant. I would expect this man to enjoy culture and to attend the opera or the ballet on a regular basis."

"Very interesting," I said, retrieving the picture. (The photo had been of Mike Royko, columnist for The Chicago Daily News)

DILLINGER
'a charming person'

I brought out the fifth picture

"This man is a lover of life." Miss Lee said "A charming person. He would never willingly cause pain to anyone, or hurt another person."

"Fine," I said, returning the picture to my stack. (The photograph had been of John Dillinger.)

Bayh Vs. Oil Goliaths

WASHINGTON — Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., in one of the most audacious acts since David challenged Goliath, will attempt to break up the economic power of the big oil companies.

He is preparing for a bruising battle. A private memo, intended for his eyes only, warns that "the oil industry is beginning to mobilize" and that he "can expect fierce opposition."

But Bayh believes the only way to bring competition back to the domestic oil industry is to strip the big companies of their control over all stages of production from the oil well to the gas pump.

He has drafted legislation which would prohibit the majors from engaging in more than one of the four segments of the industry — production, transportation, refining and marketing.

Here's how Bayh's bill would work, according to a confidential analysis:

"In the case of the big eight — Exxon, Shell, Texaco, Amoco, Socal, Mobil, Gulf and ARCO — which have major interests in all four segments of the industry, each company would have to decide which area it wanted to remain in and divest itself of all interest in the other three areas."

The analysis, prepared by staff aide Howard Paster, contends that the oil industry is "essentially non-competitive." The major companies control oil fields, transmission lines, tankers, refineries and service stations.

In other words, as Paster puts it in his memo, they "control the oil from the time it comes out of the ground until it is pumped into the gasoline tank." Reduced to statistics, "the 20 largest oil companies control more than 75% of production, refining and marketing and more than 90% of pipeline capacity."

This gives the oil giants the power to manipulate prices. The Senate memo cites "the infamous July 4th gasoline price increases" as an example.

Although the increases were strictly legal, "the oil companies were able to prevent competition from holding the increases in check by limiting refinery operations during May and June and thus creating a supply-demand imbalance for gasoline immediately prior to the peak driving season," the memo charges.

"If the same companies did not control the flow of crude," the memo contends, "the refinery operations and the retailing of gasoline by such . . . a highly anti-competitive maneuver would not have been possible."

The memo also cites "the refusal of the major oil companies to sell lower-priced domestic crude to independent refineries until forced to do so" by the Federal Energy Administration.

"By trying to limit the independent refineries to higher-priced domestic and foreign crude," asserts the memo, "the majors sought to use their market control to destroy competition."

The ultimate victim of the oil companies' collusion, of course, are the customers who have been pouring more and more of their earnings into the pockets of the oil men.

Bayh believes he has a good chance of pushing his bill through the Senate. The oil barons are also beginning to get a little worried. "The industry originally did not get excited; however, that is changing," the memo advised.

But it warned: "We can expect fierce opposition, not only in the hearings but also in the media and through the shareholders.

"One uncertainty," adds the memo, "is the extent of the inevitable administration support for the industry." Bayh responded to this statement by scribbling in the margin: "We can't win this one on the Hill alone."

But as the consumers dig deeper into their pockets to pay gasoline prices and heating costs, they may raise a howl that will be heard on Capitol hill. Then the Bayh bill may have a real chance.

'Cautious Prosperity'

Can the Nebraska State Fair just concluded tell us anything about the spending habits of midlands residents this year?

It is a risky business, trying to interpret receipt figures from fair concessionaires. The figures might be more accurate than the crowds estimates given out by the fair office, but they may be meaning less in terms of a statement about the general health of the economy.

Nevertheless — Total attendance was up, which might suggest that people were not overly shocked by an increase in the entrance fees. The receipts for midway carnival rides and shows were up, indicating that people will still pay for thrills and chills and to satisfy their curiosity, inflation or no. Some of the farm equipment and building and livestock handling equipment exhibitors did quite well; others did not. Luxury items were not selling. On the other hand, an auctioneer whose dollar volume was up, was selling big ticket items with small markup but junk didn't go well.

Concessions official John Skold described the economic mood at the fair as one of "cautious prosperity." As a general rule, people were buying, but they were bargain-hunting, not purchasing the big, expensive items.

Lest we forget, Hotdog Alley concessionaires were grumbling. Cold drink sales were up because of the heat during the first few days of the fair, but sales of other food items were off the standard pace because of the heat. Even when it cooled down, the concessionaires didn't seem to catch up and many of them doubted the official attendance figures.

According to some, this fair was a real disaster. But then, have you ever talked to a happy hot dog salesman?

Erma Has Friends

Those promoting the Interstate 80 bicentennial sculpture project have held out hope from the beginning that criticism of the controversial designs would wane eventually and Nebraskans would one day be proud of the 450-mile sculpture garden.

We think that will be the case, if the politicians in the Legislature allow the project to come to fruition.

There are signs of late that many Nebraskans who had not been heard from are beginning to see the positive aspects of the project.

One of those signs: Somebody has spoken out in favor of "Erma's Desire," the most maligned of the modernistic designs, which is planned for an Interstate rest stop at Grand Island. Apparently Grand Island doesn't want the sculpture — at least those who don't want it are out shouting those who do and those who don't care. And the Hall County Board of Supervisors in a splendid example, a la the Soviet Union, of political control of the arts, refused to issue a building permit for the sculpture.

But Erma is desired. A "Give Erma a home committee" has been organized in Gibbon. People in that community want the sculpture if Grand Island doesn't. They think it can be a tourist attraction and that Grand Island opponents are missing the boat.

We won't be surprised if that kind of thinking becomes more prevalent.

K.C. Lands A Big One

Inevitably the parallel is being drawn that the Democrats are meeting next year in a traditional stronghold, New York City, to select a candidate for president and the Republicans are meeting in Kansas City, a city symbolic of the GOP's traditional heartland strength.

Pundits will also be tempted to read a lot more into the site selections than really is there:

New York is effete, decaying and bankrupt; may even be in receivership by next year. Kansas City is a vigorously pumping heart of the hinterlands, young and vital. What does this portend? Will President Ford, if renominated there, be as successful as Herbert Hoover was in 1928, after being selected in Kansas City? Will the Democrats be as unsuccessful as they were in 1924, when John W. Davis was nominated in New York?

Possibly. But the economy and the Democratic standard-bearer, whoever it is, will be the controlling factors in the election. Where the candidates were nominated will play no part in it. The election results would be the same if both nominees were selected in somebody's basement in Fargo.

We're glad, however, that the GOP chose Kansas City. That's a heckuva sports town with good places to eat and a lot to see, a fun place for the convention even if some of the delegates and press have to sleep nights in Topeka.

The Pardoner's Tale

WASHINGTON — There is a suddenness in the ending of summer. One day the sun, the air, the sea are different. The light goes unexpectedly early, and in the evening there is a Turner sky, clouds swirling on the horizon.

That feeling of change evokes a political memory now. It was just a year ago that President Ford pardoned Richard Nixon for all crimes he may have committed, official or personal, while in the White House. Like an early frost, that sudden act withered hope, bringing us to a season of discontent.

The immediate political controversy over the pardon has naturally faded away; politicians cannot go on debating a decision that is effectively beyond recall. But the consequences of the pardon have not dissipated. They are as they were foreseen a year ago, if anything, more serious.

A few days before the pardon a conservative commentator, George Will, warned that only letting the law take its course against Nixon could prevent him from "polluting American history" with future talk of his innocense. The pollution has begun.

☆ ☆ ☆

His desposition in the suit over the tapes and papers, released last month, makes wonderful reading for fans of the unchangeable Nixon. There were the old lies, delivered in as brazenly imperious a tone as ever.

"The Special Prosecutor has been appointed," Nixon said, "and we have cooperated with the Special Prosecutor."

Not a blink at the long record of evasion, resistance and destruction of evidence. Then there was the authentic Uriah Heep tone in his statement that he had 42 million White House documents, President Johnson only 32 million: "That doesn't mean that our administration was better than his, I am not contending that."

Reading the desposition, one was struck again by the utter lack of contrition in this man. There is no consciousness of guilt in him, nor shame, because he does not have within him those standards of truth and decency that are the premises of civilized society. Nothing bothers him, neither the great wrongs he did nor the petty ones from which he still profits — the house improved with public money, the $148,000 promised but not paid on his 1969 taxes.

And so we face the prospect of Richard Nixon's pushing his way back into our lives. He is writing memoirs, making television deals, posing for pictures by an old White House photographer who reports that Nixon is "kind of bushy-tailed again."

All that was predictable enough. What is sad is to see such ambitious dignitaries as Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois visiting San Clemente. For that symbolizes a graver consequence of the pardon than a Nixon attempt to re-write history: a tolerance for lawlessness in our political life that has survived Watergate.

The fundamental lesson of Watergate, of the successful struggle to force a criminal president from office, was that our safety lies in law. Other democracies have their institutional protections; ours depends in the end on a commitment to the supremacy of law.

Diminishing respect for law has been one of this country's most worrying phenomena for years. For just a moment, in the summer of 1974, there was a chance to alter that trend — to confound the cynics who say the rich and the powerful too often escape justice. The pardon destroyed that chance, setting the most dramatic and enduring of bad examples.

The way it was done gave us an all too revealing insight into President Ford. Even a year later, the ineptitude of the business is staggering. The failure to obtain any admission from Nixon invited trouble. The absurd agreement on the tapes and papers, negotiated in secret haste by incompetent lawyers, is still causing confusion.

Americans talk today as if they had given up on politics and politicians. Ours is a politics of weariness, of hopelessness, and it began a year ago.

Crowd-Plunging Technique Passe

WASHINGTON — There are more security devices in this city than in any other capital in the world outside of Moscow, but far less security than in the days when Harry Truman used to leave the White House for his morning walks in the public streets of Washington.

The Secret Service, which probably saved President Ford's life in the latest assassination threat in California, has more than doubled since Truman's administration. Vice President Nelson Rockefeller's big white house off Foxhall Road is now guarded like a military installation. And Henry A. Kissinger's house on Dumbarton Ave. in Georgetown is under constant surveillance, which is odd, since Henry's seldom home.

The security screen extends far beyond the President and the cabinet and their families these days. If you go to any American embassy abroad, Marines guard the doors. The Soviet embassy on 16th Street in Washington is now protected with a high green chain-link fence, with guards under the front hall stairs watching closed-circuit television screens of the exterior walls 24 hours a day. And if you go to lunch here with the Israeli ambassador, he sits in protected corners of carefully selected restaurants with security agents on guard.

Yet despite all these essential precautions, the fear of kidnapping, blackmail, and even assassination rises, and the attitude here is that nothing much can be done about it.

"There are a lot of crazy people in this country," Gov. E. G. Brown of California said, as if he had discovered something. "It's just something you have to live with," the President's wife added. And the President insisted that he would just go on plunging into crowds as before.

"This incident, under no circumstances," he said, "will prevent me from contacting the American people as I travel from one state and community to another." And this, of course, is the standard heroic they-can't-intimidate-me reaction after all these scary incidents.

Still, you have to wonder in this age of television, whether these political handshaking strolls through uncontrollable crowds are not a little out of date and even a little phony. Ford doesn't have to prove he's a friendly man, and these long exhausting political trips, almost a year before the nominating conventions, are in many ways an unnecessary diversion from his really serious presidential responsibilities.

There was a good argument in the old days for presidents to travel around this vast country just to remind the people that the president was a living and breathing human being, but even in those days, most presidents seemed to feel that they should be a little restrained, that they should look as serious as the work they had to do, and maintain a sort of fatherly dignity.

Even when the voters had almost a free run of the White House, Lincoln, for all his earthy humor, usually looked solemn if not downright melancholy. It was not until Teddy Roosevelt came along with his gleaming teeth and boisterous laugh that the tradition of chumminess began to take over, and not until much later that Estes Kefauver of Tennessee introduced the dubious notion that if you could just shake enough hands, you might eventually be able to shake the world.

Thus, in that hideous phrase, "pressing the flesh" of the voters came to be regarded as a substitute for impressing their minds. It was supposed to prove that you had the "common touch," and Lyndon Johnson carried it to the point of eating the scraps off his dinner companion's plate in order to prove that he was "just folks."

These days, however, the President has instant contact with almost every homestead in every city and village in the land, and you can hardly get through the evening network news without seeing and hearing him argue his case. Under these circumstances, it is hard to believe that it is either good government or good politics to spend so much time rushing around the country repeating old arguments and convincing the convinced at party rallies.

The notion that Ronald Reagan can get the Republican presidential nomination away from Ford is patently ridiculous unless you suspect the Republicans of suicidal tendencies. It isn't the votes of conservatives Ford needs to win the election, but of independents and disgruntled Democrats, of whom there are rising millions.

Besides, the old crowd-pushing, handshaking, good-guy technique is no answer to inflation, unemployment and the other concerns of the nation, and it is obviously dangerous. For we are living in a troubled and maybe even a demented age, when more people than usual tend to blame their own anxieties and torments on forces beyond their control, and some even see the President as the symbol of their broken lives.

This doesn't mean that Ford like Johnson has to fly around the country from one safe military base to another in order to be heard or speak always, as somebody suggested the other day, from behind bullet-proof glass lecterns. No president ever had more ways of "contacting" the American people than Gerald Ford, and he doesn't have to stroll through parks and mobs to prove it.

The nation has been waiting for a very long time to hear a really memorable speech about the condition of the nation and the world, but it has not been getting one either from Ford or his opponents.

Declares Star Incompetent

Lincoln, Neb.

In its editorial defending its front-page story on Lincoln's would-be Hitler, The Star — as the media are wont to do these days — self-righteously justifies itself in terms of the First Amendment, the public's right to know, and similar self-serving rhetoric.

Yet this crusading exponent of investigative journalism made a deal with the subject of the interview to suppress his name. Not surprising, then, that readers not sharing The Star's own assurance of its superior virtue should look upon the article as a publicity blurb rather than a news story.

But I am charitable. I am willing to lay the blame not so much upon malice as upon the moral and intellectual obtuseness — indeed "incompetence" would not be too strong a word — that generally marks The Star's reporting and editorializing.

Press Has Overstepped

Falls City, Neb.

Part of the reason why America is in deep trouble with its values is because the press has lost sight of its original purpose and meaning.

Our Founding Fathers felt convinced a free press was essential to maintaining freedom for American citizens. But nowhere in the Constitution did its authors provide for the press to substitute "license" for "freedom."

Freedom of the press suggests merely that it will not be intimidated or coerced into publishing anything that isn't factual and true. Certainly the Constitution did not allow the press to presume a role of opinion-molding. For the idea was — in granting proper respect to American citizens — that if they have the facts, they can shape their own views toward respective issues.

The general press overstepped its boundaries. It became self-serving, arrogant and presumptuous. In effect, it became a dictator.

Facts will bear me out. A time will come when any press organ engaging in opinion-molding practices — advocacy, if you will — will lose credibility, stature, respect and readers. Why should anyone continue to read what he cannot believe? There is already a tremendous credibility gap and people are wising up. In the end, not only will the free people lose, but the press, too. I suspect we will all file bankruptcy, together!

Approval Of Candidate Needed By Democrats

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Secretary of State Allen Beermann will require presidential candidate approval in writing for any Democratic national convention delegate candidate who wishes to file committed to any presidential prospect.

Following the guidelines of a U.S. Supreme Court decision and the advice of the State Department of Justice, Beermann's decision implements Democratic national rules on delegate selection processes.

Beermann was requested to take the action by the Democratic National Committee's compliance review commission on behalf of the Democratic state executive committee.

Expressing her "appreciation for Beermann's cooperation and help,'' National Committeewoman Frances Ohmstede of Guide Rock made the decision public Monday.

'Fair Selection'

"This will institute a fair delegate selection process and remove the big hangup on national approval of Nebraska's system," she said.

Nebraska's process had been ruled out of compliance with the national party rules, thus placing the state's delegation in jeopardy of not being seated by the 1976 national convention.

Problems with the selection plan for alternate delegates still must be "worked out," Mrs. Ohmstede said.

Nebraska voters, according to state law, elect the delegates to both the Democratic and Republican national conventions. The next such election is scheduled for May.

Current Choice

Current state law allows delegate candidates to either file uncommitted to any presidential prospect, or committed to support a specific candidate for at least two convention ballots or until he (or she) receives less than 35% of the convention votes.

No limitation is placed on the number of delegate candidates who may file committed to support a presidential prospect, and no permission is required from the candidate.

But a newly adopted delegate selection rule of the Democratic Party requires that all delegate candidates be subject to the approval of the presidential candidate they are identified with on the ballot.

'Diluting The Vote'

"In Nebraska's delegate selection primary, this requirement is particularly vital in order to prevent too many delegate candidates from running for a particular presidential candidate, thus diluting the vote for that presidential candidate," Chairman Robert Wagner of the Democratic compliance reivew commission wrote Beermann.

Frances Ohmstede

Allen Beermann

Wagner also called Beermann's attention to a recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling which held that rules of a national party organization are superior to those established by state law in determining procedures for selection of delegates to a national convention.

Beermann then sought the advice of the attorney general's office.

" . . . It is our conclusion that you should follow the dictates of the national organization and implement this additional requirement," Special Assistant Attorney General Terry Schaaf wrote Beermann on Aug. 19.

'Not In Conflict'

"This procedure is not in conflict with our statutory procedure, but would be an additional requirement."

On Aug. 25, Beermann wrote Wagner that he would institute the requirement of presidential candidate approval.

Any Democratic delegate candidate unable to gain the approval of a presidential candidate could file as uncommitted.

Beermann's ruling does not affect candidates for delegate to the Republican national convention.

Pleased by Beermann's decision, Mrs. Ohmstede said the change should prevent future "stacking of somebody's delegate list to dilute his support" and remove the possibility of "someone filing pledged to a candidate in order to hurt or destroy him."

Party Advertising

The only alternative remedy suggested by the compliance review commission was state party advertising of which delegate candidates had presidential candidate approval, Mrs. Ohmstede said.

That course appeared "unacceptable and unfair," she said.

Democrats will elect 23 delegates at next May's primary election.

Crops Still Need Good Heavy Rain

A good general rain is still needed in most areas of the state to finish out summer crops and to moisten the soil for fall planting, the State-Federal Dvision of Agricultural Statistics reported Monday.

In its weekly crop-weather report, the bureau noted that recent rains improved the state's topsoil moisture supplies with a shortage in 66% of the counties. Subsoil moisture supplies improved slightly to 91% short.

A year ago topsoil moisture was 72% short and subsoil was 82% short, it was pointed out.

Wheat ground preparation is continuing statewide with some planting starting in the northwest, northeast, south central and southwest districts.

Over 85% of the state's corn crop is in the dent stage due to the recent heat, ahead of a normal 75% and last year's 70%. Silage harvest continues in full swing in all areas of the state.

A few reports of corn harvested for grain were received from the southeast district.

Irrigated corn condition remains nearly the same as the previous week with 75% of the counties reporting the crop good, 19% excellent and 6% fair.

Dryland corn condition also remained about the same with 39% of the counties reporting the crop as poor, 51% fair and 10% good.

Sorghum, soybean, alfalfa hay and wild hay crops improved slightly during the past week, the report revealed.

Dry beans are maturing rapidly and are being harvested in the northwest.

Sugar beets are reported progressing well and are in good to excellent condition.

Pasture and range feed supplies also improved during the week to 21% adequate.

Moisture received during the past week throughout the state included:

Burwell	.82	North Platte	.01
Grand Island	.60	Omaha	1 74
Lincoln	1 11	Valentine	.04
Norfolk	.51

Precipitation via sections since the beginning of the growing season, April 1, as compared to longtime averages follows:

Northwest — 9 60 inches (1975); 12 60 inches (normal).
North Central — 12.60; 15 00.
Northeast — 13 70, 17 75
Central — 16.50, 16 45.
East Central — 17 80; 19.25.
Southwest — 13 20; 13.95.
South Central — 19 20; 16 88.
Southeast — 18.70; 20.54.

State Colleges To Need Aid On Bond Obligations

The four state colleges will need some sort of subsidy to meet bond obligations, a legislative subcommittee was told Monday.

A subcommittee of the Appropriations Committee listened to testimony from several witnesses concerning the bond obligations of the state colleges.

If the financial integrity of the state is not to be jeopardized "a subsidy of some sort is required in my opinion," said William E. Colwell of Chadron, president of the jboard of Trustees of the Nebraska jstate Colleges.

The subcommittee, headed by Alliance Sen. Leslie Stull, is to report to the Unicameral on the possibility of any institution defaulting on bond obligation, and on the state's responsibility in that area.

Colwell said that while he believed a subsidy was definitely going to be needed, it would not be a large one.

A report prepared by the trustees said that "an event of technical default exists."

"Actual default would seem inevitable at Peru," the report said. "Wayne and Chadron (state colleges) are questionable as to actual default, with Kearney quite certain that it will not be in actual default."

Colwell said any state subsidiary "would be a small price to pay for what is gained."

The four state colleges possess revenue bonds with a redemption cost value of $22.7 million.

When available reserve funds are applied to the purchase price, the net price is reduced to $18.3 million.

Zalman Named Superintendent For Scotts Bluff

Gering (AP) — The Scotts Bluff County Board of Commissioners has appointed William Zalman to fill out the term of the county superintendent.

Mrs. Cleone Beedy, a former superintendent, had been serving since the death of Monica Walker, who was killed in an automobile accident a few months ago.

Zalman has been a guidance counselor at Gering High School.

PSC Postpones NW Bell Rate Request For 28 Days

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. will have to wait another 28 days before the Nebraska Public Service Commission will consider its latest request for a $7 million rate increase.

On the advice of its attorney, Adrian Fiala, the commission Monday decided it cannot act upon the request until the 90-day cooling-off period has expired.

That rule prevents the commission from considering another rate increase for a firm within 90 days of the date a rate hike was given. In July, Northwestern Bell was given $5.3 million of its $16 million rate increase request.

Nineteen days after subscribers began paying the higher rates, Bell came back saying the rates are not sufficient to produce the 9% rate of return authorized by the commission. To achieve it, they said, another $7 million is needed.

One way the commission could have gotten around the 90-day rule was if it felt Bell had shown "good cause" for action.

But Fiala told commissioners he did not feel good cause had been shown. He and staff accountant Kip Hendrickson said they did not think Bell could say the rates would not produce the needed return after only 19 days experience.

Commissioners noted that the heavy hearing schedule would prevent them from taking any action within 28 days anyhow.

In other action, a three-man commission majority delayed action on Commissioner Duane Gay's proposal to refund roughly $600,000 of United Telephone of the West's earnings to subscribers.

The majority, consisting of Robert Marland, James Munnelly and Jack Romans, agreed to postpone the vote until after Thursday and Friday hearings in Gering on United's request for a rate increase.

Gay called the action "a smokescreen" and said a vote on his motion which originally was offered July 31 has been delayed too long already. The rate increase request and the refund are two distinct issues, he said.

Eric Rasmussen opposed both the delay and Gay's motion on the grounds United had not been given a hearing on whether it's earnings are excessive.

But Gay said the commission reserved possible action against United and other telephone companies last year when it dismissed show cause orders issued for excessive rates of return. The commission said at that time the rates of return fell within a "zone of reasonableness" and agreed to withold action until 1974 earning data were available.

The latest figures, Gay said, show United's earnings have increased beyond the zone of reasonableness.

Rasmussen said he will seek an attorney general's opinion on the due process issue.

Action was also delayed on Continental Telephone Co.'s rate application after Rasmussen and Gay resumed their argument from a week ago on whether $80,000 in construction items should be included in the base for determining rate of return.

Rasmussen has proposed Continental be allowed part of its request, while Gay feels the entire request should be denied. The disagreement revolves around whether improvements in the firm's Byron exchange should be charged to ratepayers.

Rasmussen said improvements were allowed in Gay's proposal for the Blair Telephone Co. and accused Gay of being inconsistent in not allowing certain improvements to be included to Continental's rate base.

CELEBRATING OUR 25th YEAR

Approval Of Candidate Needed By Democrats

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Secretary of State Allen Beermann will require presidential candidate approval in writing for any Democratic national convention delegate candidate who wishes to file committed to any presidential prospect.

Following the guidelines of a U.S. Supreme Court decision and the advice of the State Department of Justice, Beermann's decision implements Democratic national rules on delegate selection processes.

Beermann was requested to take the action by the Democratic National Committee's compliance review commission on behalf of the Democratic state executive committee.

Expressing her "appreciation for Beermann's cooperation and help," National Committeewoman Frances Ohmstede of Guide Rock made the decision public Monday.

'Fair Selection'

"This will institute a fair delegate selection process and remove the big hangup on national approval of Nebraska's system," she said.

Nebraska's process had been ruled out of compliance with the national party rules, thus placing the state's delegation in jeopardy of not being seated by the 1976 national convention.

Problems with the selection plan for alternate delegates still must be "worked out," Mrs. Ohmstede said.

Nebraska voters, according to state law, elect the delegates to both the Democratic and Republican national conventions. The next such election is scheduled for May.

Current Choice

Current state law allows delegate candidates to either file uncommitted to any presidential prospect, or committed to support a specific candidate for at least two convention ballots or until he (or she) receives less than 35% of the convention votes.

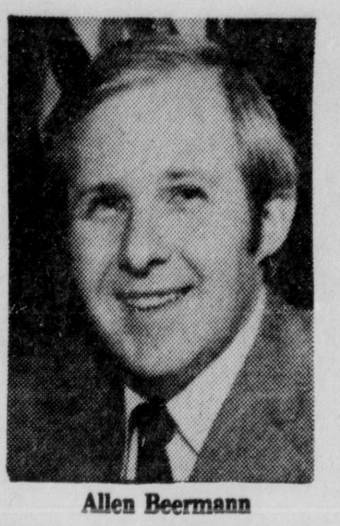
No limitation is placed on the number of delegate candidates who may file committed to support a presidential prospect, and no permission is required from the candidate.

But a newly adopted delegate selection rule of the Democratic Party requires that all delegate candidates be subject to the approval of the presidential candidate they are identified with on the ballot.

'Diluting The Vote'

"In Nebraska's delegate selection primary, this requirement is particularly vital in order to prevent too many delegate candidates from running for a particular presidential candidate, thus diluting the vote for that presidential candidate," Chairman Robert Wagner of the Democratic compliance reivew commission wrote Beermann.

Frances Ohmstede



Allen Beermann

Wagner also called Beermann's attention to a recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling which held that rules of a national party organization are superior to those established by state law in determining procedures for selection of delegates to a national convention.

Beermann then sought the advice of the attorney general's office.

"...It is our conclusion that you should follow the dictates of the national organization and implement this additional requirement," Special Assistant Attorney General Terry Schaaf wrote Beermann on Aug. 19.

'Not In Conflict'

"This procedure is not in conflict with our statutory procedure, but would be an additional requirement."

On Aug. 25, Beermann wrote Wagner that he would institute the requirement of presidential candidate approval.

Any Democratic delegate candidate unable to gain the approval of a presidential candidate could file as uncommitted.

Beermann's ruling does not affect candidates for delegate to the Republican national convention.

Pleased by Beermann's decision, Mrs. Ohmstede said the change should prevent future "stacking of somebody's delegate list to dilute his support" and remove the possibility of "someone filing pledged to a candidate in order to hurt or destroy him."

Party Advertising

The only alternative remedy suggested by the compliance review commission was state party advertising of which delegate candidates had presidential candidate approval, Mrs. Ohmstede said.

That course appeared "unacceptable and unfair," she said.

Democrats will elect 23 delegates at next May's primary election.

Being Merchant Way Of Helping

By TOM COOK
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Ravenna — Merchant isn't a word to Fred Cottrell, it's a way of hleping others.

"A merchant is a man interested in his people and that wants to help them and have them in mind all the time," the 92-year-old Ravenna store owner says.

A business discussion with Cottrell doesn't get into cost overhead, mass merchandising or computer terminology.

"A smile is worth a million dollars and doesn't cost a cent," he says. "I've always bought the best merchandise I could and sold it as cheaply as I could afford to."

'Cold Potatoes'

Cottrell says the merchant is a vanishing breed being replaced by giant stores "that are like a lot of cold potatoes."

But major retail markets in nearby Kearney and Grand Island haven't hurt his business, Cottrell says.

"I get customers from Lincoln, Kearney, Grand Island and all over the state, because I have a reputation for quality merchandise," he says.

Ravenna is a lay-over point for Burlington Northern railroaders, and Cottrell says his work shoes are a big seller because of it.

"I've got some guys from back there in Lincoln that have been buying my shoes for years," he says.

His shelves hold everything from pith helmets to corn flakes, and he says the stoneware, pitcher and wash basin sets and other old-fashioned items on the shelves have become big sellers again.

But he says the increased market for authentic earlier American items has made it harder to replenish the stock.

A Lincoln woman came in recently and bought $150 worth of stoneware, and he says the new shipment still hasn't arrived from back east.

61-Year Business

Cottrell's Store has been a fixture on Ravenna's main street for 61 years, and the owner isn't about to call it quits.

"If I retired, the undertaker would have me in six months," he says.

Cottrell was born in Missouri in 1883 and after homesteading in Kit Carson County, Colo., he opened the first general store in Ravenna in 1914.

Besides managing his store, Cottrell has bought and sold farms for many years and still rents out 840 acres around Ravenna.

Didn't Like Banking

He tried his hand at banking during the 1930's but got frustrated as vice president and quit.

"He (the bank president) kept wanting to put the money into stocks and bonds and I wanted to give it to the people who desperately needed it," he remembers.

Cottrell maintains a large garden to stock the fruit and vegetable counter at his store. It's good, healthy work, he says, and this summer his 63-year-old daughter, who was visiting from California, helped out.

Fred, as his customers know him, also dispenses words of wisdom to those who want to listen.

"I once had a Sunday School teacher who was a grand fellow. He told me if he was sure he had saved one soul that his preaching would have been worth it," Cottrell says. "I feel the same way."

Against Smoking

This summer he has been hard at work to get his grandson from Chicago to quit smoking.

"He asked me if he could smoke in my house," Cottrell says. "I said, wouldn't this be a grand time to quit? Then you can live as long as I do and have a lot of fun.

"I try to tell them that I don't only preach it, I practice it."

Besides long hours at the store, Cottrell attends church every Sunday — after he gets his laundry done. The thought that the end may be near never crosses the oldtimer's mind.

"I had a son-in-law that had to retire at 65," he says. "He's in a lot worse shape than I am."

Reseeding Of Rangeland Worth $30 Million In Beef

By United Press International

A U.S. Agriculture Department Soil Conservation Service spokesman estimated range seeding practices could pump an additional $30 million into the Nebraska cattle industry.

Peter N. Jensen, range conservationist, said the additional revenue would come from beef fed on land he said should never have been plowed under in the first place and used for anything but rangeland.

During the Dust Bowl years, Jensen said over 3.25 million acres were so severely eroded that they were no longer fit for ranching or farming and landowners went broke. As a result, the land was abandoned and received no attention.

"These pracels of poor cropland should have never been plowed due to the fragile soil condition," he said.

The state now has 1.25 million acres that have been reseeded, one million classified as "go-back" acres and another one million that are being used as cropland. Jensen said that land should be converted to rangeland.

"If these two million acres, with a 1.5 animal unit month per acre of grazing, had a $10 value on them, this would mean a gross value of $30 million to Nebraska," he said.

Warren E. Peden, a Panhandle conservationist, said he agreed with Jensen. He said landowners have two options — interseeding or reseeding.

Range interseeding, he said, costs about $8 per acre and takes 6-10 years for pasture to reach quality condition. Reseeding, which involves plowing up all vegetation and planting a sorghum crop, costs between $25 to $35 an acre to establish a rangeland and can be accomplished in about three years, Peden said.

Peden said he thinks ranchers haven't gone that route before because the availability of land hasn't been a problem.

"Now, the cost of land has gone up and ranchers are looking at other alternatives for increased production," he said. "Range seeding places nonproductive acreage in a position to produce four to five times more than sitting idle."

Sugar Beet Tonnage May Drop

Scottsbluff (AP) — Donald Redman, Nebraska area agriculture director of Great Western Sugar, says tonnage of this year's sugar beet harvest could fall slightly below last year. Redman estimated that the Nebraska harvest would bring about 18½ tons per acre, down from 19 tons per acre last year. However, Redman said the weather could still play a factor. He said good weather between now and the harvest, expected to begin Oct. 1, could push tonnage above last year's figures.

Vets Officials Considering Pershing College Facility

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Beatrice — Two state officials have acknowledged that they are considering defunct Pershing College as "at least a possibility" as a veterans home to serve eastern Nebraskans.

Just how feasible the multi-million-dollar campus might be, however, is unknown pending a formal inspection. No date has been set for such a visit, but, says Director of Veterans Affairs Robert W. Brandt, "something might be worked out for a look this week."

Both Brandt and Everett Phillips of Grand Island, superintendent of Nebraska veterans homes, said the school is near the size of a facility needed for eastern Nebraska. Space for at least 500 residents is projected, said Phillips, and Pershing's dormitories were designed to accommodate 700 students.

The officials stressed that they have not been formally approached by anyone about using the college, now owned by the University of Nebraska Foundation. Phillips added that any visit he made would be subject to clearance by Jack Cleavenger, director of public institutions.

Inspection Assured

"So far I've discussed the matter only with Mr Brandt," Phillips said, "but if a request is made for evaluation, the college would be checked against the fire code and such standards as corridor width. We would have to be looking from the standpoint of health care use."

Noting that approximately 50% of Nebraska's veterans live in the Omaha-Lincoln vicinity, Phillips said the thought has been toward a more easterly location than Beatrice. But, he added, "the location might be changed by economics," referring to the possibility that the campus might be offered as a gift.

Closed in 1971, then five-year-old Pershing was given to the University of Nebraska Foundation, which in turn has offered it to Southeast Community College. The latter's board has ordered a feasibility study before an anticipated Sept. 23 vote on whether to accept the offer.

Hiram Scott Used

A portion of Hiram Scott College in Scottsbluff, another private college that closed, was acquired for veterans and will house 300 when fully renovated. That home now has 12 veterans. There are another 400 at the Grand Island home and 164 at Norfolk.

Should Pershing be offered, Phillips said, one of the things to be considered will be the timing. He explained that with the aging of World War II veterans, eastern Nebraska "will be needing space within about three years." Cleavenger said he has "been approached by nobody" regarding the college. But he echoed other sentiments that "there definitely is a demand" for accommodations for veterans.

"So far we can't even get an agreement among everybody on the number of beds eastern Nebraska will need," Cleavenger said. He said any serious deliberations on the matter necessarily would involve both Gov. J. J. Exon and the Legislature.

Noting that an adequate labor supply would be among the criteria for setting up another veterans home, Cleavenger said Beatrice might be advantageous in this regard. He explained that an anticipated reduction in Beatrice State Home population could provide a pool of experienced employes.

Brandt, who lives in Beatrice and commutes to his Lincoln office, said he would welcome an invitation to inspect the college formally. Presumably this would have to come from the NU Foundation.

"It might not even come close to qualifying, but if it did there would be several advantages," he continued. "For example, the college is at the edge of the city, where there is plenty of good country air and no traffic congestion."

W. W. Cook, Beatrice banker and community leader who has been close to the college, said he was unaware that the college was being discussed for possible veterans use. But he added that his first reaction was that "in many ways it would be ideal."

"The rooms are all nice sized, individually heated and cooled and each has its own bath facilities," he added. "If the buildings are suitable and things could be worked out with the university, I think it would be fine. We would just like to get something out there."

Erskine Childers' Estate Reduced

LONDON (AP) — Erskine Childers' estate has been reduced by death duties from $93,660 to $36,737, according to his will published Monday.

Childers, the president of the Irish republic who died last November, had left an estate in England, Wales and Ireland.

He became president in June 1973, succeeding the Eamon de Valera, who died recently.

Wyoming Boy's Funeral Rites Set At Oshkosh

Casper, Wyo. (AP) — Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday at Oshkosh, Neb., for an 8-year-old Casper boy who suffocated when he was buried by dirt at the construction site of a new home.

Natrona County Coroner Dennis Knopik said Brad Munsey died Saturday night at a construction site adjacent to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Munsey.

Knopik said the victim and two friends were in a hole excavated for the basement of the new home when one of the walls collapsed. He said two other boys ran to get help.

But the coroner said the Munsey boy was buried for 10 minutes before rescuers found him and that efforts at mouth-to-mouth resuscitation failed.

Being Merchant Way Of Helping

By TOM COOK
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Ravenna — Merchant isn't a word to Fred Cottrell, it's a way of hleping others.

"A merchant is a man interested in his people and that wants to help them and have them in mind all the time," the 92-year-old Ravenna store owner says.

A business discussion with Cottrell doesn't get into cost overhead, mass merchandising or computer terminology.

"A smile is worth a million dollars and doesn't cost a cent," he says. "I've always bought the best merchandise I could and sold it as cheaply as I could afford to."

'Cold Potatoes'

Cottrell says the merchant is a vanishing breed being replaced by giant stores "that are like a lot of cold potatoes."

But major retail markets in nearby Kearney and Grand Island haven't hurt his business, Cottrell says.

"I get customers from Lincoln, Kearney, Grand Island and all over the state, because I have a reputation for quality merchandise," he says.

Ravenna is a lay-over point for Burlington Northern railroaders, and Cottrell says his work shoes are a big seller because of it.

"I've got some guys from back there in Lincoln that have been buying my shoes for years," he says.

His shelves hold everything from pith helmets to corn flakes, and he says the stoneware, pitcher and wash basin sets and other old-fashioned items on the shelves have become big sellers again.

But he says the increased market for authentic earlier American items has made it harder to replenish the stock.

A Lincoln woman came in recently and bought $150 worth of stoneware, and he says the new shipment still hasn't arrived from back east.

61-Year Business

Cottrell's Store has been a fixture on Ravenna's main street for 61 years, and the owner isn't about to call it quits.

"If I retired, the undertaker would have me in six months," he says.

Cottrell was born in Missouri in 1883 and after homesteading in Kit Carson County, Colo., he opened the first general store in Ravenna in 1914.

Besides managing his store, Cottrell has bought and sold farms for many years and still rents out 840 acres around Ravenna.

Didn't Like Banking

He tried his hand at banking during the 1930's but got frustrated as vice president and quit.

"He (the bank president) kept wanting to put the money into stocks and bonds and I wanted to give it to the people who desperately needed it," he remembers.

Cottrell maintains a large garden to stock the fruit and vegetable counter at his store. It's good, healthy work, he says, and this summer his 63-year-old daughter, who was visiting from California, helped out.

Fred, as his customers know him, also dispenses words of wisdom to those who want to listen.

"I once had a Sunday School teacher who was a grand fellow. He told me if he was sure he had saved one soul that his preaching would have been worth it," Cottrell says. "I feel the same way."

Against Smoking

This summer he has been hard at work to get his grandson from Chicago to quit smoking.

"He asked me if he could smoke in my house," Cottrell says. "I said, wouldn't this be a grand time to quit? Then you can live as long as I do and have a lot of fun.

"I try to tell them that I don't only preach it, I practice it."

Besides long hours at the store, Cottrell attends church every Sunday — after he gets his laundry done. The thought that the end may be near never crosses the oldtimer's mind.

"I had a son-in-law that had to retire at 65," he says, "He's in a lot worse shape than I am."

Reseeding Of Rangeland Worth $30 Million In Beef

Pro-Mid-State Group Expected By Shriner

Grand Island (UPI) — A spokesman for the Mid-State Reclamation District said Monday in response to the formation of opposition groups to the district he feels a pro-district group is in the works

Don Shriner, district general manager, told the district board of directors he'd heard some citizens say they might form such a group, but declined to go into detail for the time being.

Over the weekend, Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb, fired back at groups he called "environmental extremists" and the U S. Fish and Wildlife Service for statements critical of the project

Bob Lowry of Cairo, board president, responded to the Curtis statements with praise He said those statements in favor of the project are "much more effective" than any statements that might come from the board because they were made by an elected official

Lowry said in the next few months there will be a lot of "emotional statements" made by opponents and, "It's good to hear we have the backing of Sen Curtis as well as the facts "

The continuation of the district is at stake in a Nov 4 election in Hall, Buffalo and Merrick Counties

Shriner said as near as he could tell, the major problem to be faced in the election is "voter apathy."

He said someone should organize a drive for voter registration But he said he didn't think the board should be the driving force behind such a move.

As for any special campaign plans on the part of the district, Shriner said he and others would continue to accept speaking requests, using the opportunities to outline the issues as they see them. Those issues, he said, include future state water rights, flood control efforts and water recreation.

Shriner was also asked about the information that opponents of the project have been turning out. He said, "Some of the information being disseminated is an insult to the voter intelligence "

Shriner also questioned the involvement of the Fish and Wildlife Service in the district.

He said, noting the service has been exploring the possibility of acquiring more land along the Platte River from Grand Island to Lake McConaughy for a refuge, that he had heard of instances of service appraisers from Aberdeen, S D , approaching landowners

He said he was told some of those appraisers showed up complete with sample leases Shriner said he questioned where the service got authorization for such activities

Funeral Set Wednesday For Girl Dead Of Burns

From Press Reports

Lynch — Funeral services will be held at 2 p m Wednesday at the Lynch High School Auditorium for Mary Becker, 15, who died Sunday night of burns she received in an Aug 31 accident

The daughter of Dr and Mrs William F Becker of Lynch, she died at the U S Army Burn Center at San Antonio, Tex , where she was flown after being treated at a hospital in Norfolk

Miss Becker and a friend, Eileen Kemmnitz, 17, of Verdell, were filling an auto with gasoline from a 300-gallon tank behind the Lynch clinic when a spark caused an explosion

The top of the gasoline tank was blown off and the girls were sprayed with burning gasoline The auto was undamaged

Authorities said Miss Becker was burn over 100% of her body

Miss Kemmitz was burned over 50% of her body She was given initial treatment at a Lynch hopsital, then was transferred to Norfolk Last Friday, she was flown to St Elizabeth Community Health Center in Lincoln, where she was listed in stable condition Monday

Tests Show Encephalitis Caused By Contamination

Omaha (UPI) — Laboratory tests show mosquitoes aren t the culprit in transmitting a disease diagnosed as encephalitis in Nebraska

Dr Harry McFadden chairman of the University of Nebraska Medical Center's department of microbiology said tests show that in the current cases the virus was passed from person to person

Dr Roberta White the department s virology laboratory director, said the virus entered the patient through the digestive tract The disease resulted from the ingestion of food and water that had been contaminated by human waste

Dr Paul Stoesz State Health Dept Disease Control Division director said there have been about 40 cases of suspected encephalitis in Nebraska About 10 to 15 were in the Omaha area

In addition, Stoesz said, a number of cases of equine encephalitis have been reported throughout Nebraska The virus is transmitted to horses by mosquitoes which get it from wild birds

However, the mosquito doesn't transmit the horse virus to humans, he said and the virus doesn t affect the birds

Hospital officials said Monday two Omaha area residents suspected of having some form of encephalitis remain in critical condition They have been identified as Andy Wilson, a former Bellevue High School football standout, and a young woman hospitalized in Blair

HOLMES ... hired to teach furniture making to architecture students at UNL.

Furniture Making Alive In His Hands

By CYNTHIA JOHNSON
Star Staff Writer

In a sense. Roger Holmes belongs to another era.

An era before the advent of mass production, when manufacture was done slowly, painstakingly by artisans working in small shops.

Yet Holmes, a 26-year-old furniture craftsman, believes that even today there is a "very great . . . unrealized demand" for the type of work he does. And he also believes that a great many young people would like to learn the art of furniture making.

Apparently the University of Nebraska-Lincoln's College of Architecture concurs in those beliefs

The college has hired Holmes as an instructor.

For a number of years, "We have not had access to the proper equipment or personnel" in this area, said Dr. W. Cecil Steward, dean of the college.

Thus, when funds became available through the Areas of Excellence program. Holmes was hired.

A graduate of Northeast High School, he will set up and run a woodworking and metalworking shop for architecture students.

Recently returned from two years in England, where he studied furniture making in a small crafts shop in Devonshire, Holmes said there is a "very strong crafts movement in England."

This is not the case in the United States, he continued, "partially because of the size of the country."

Yet he sees indications that that could change.

"Mass-produced furniture is of pretty poor quality" due to the quantities that are manufactured, he said. Yet "the advertising pitch reflects a dissatisfaction" with such "run-of-the-mill products."

Advertising claims such as "made by craftsmen," "quality material" indicate that a desire for finely crafted furniture exists, Holmes continued.

Furniture craftsmen in England are "inundated" with requests from people in this country who would like to learn the art of furniture making and design, he continued.

Although hand-crafted furniture is admittedly "expensive," Holmes said there is enough money in this country to support a large number of craftsmen.

But before that can happen, a viable demand will have to be created. "If people don't know about it, they can hardly want it," Holmes said.

In his position as instructor in the department of architecture, Holmes hopes to "give students an idea that a certain level of quality is possible."

And he added, "perhaps they'll become interested in creating a demand for this sort of thing.

"Narrowly, it doesn't relate to architecture." Holmes said.

However, in a larger sense, "architects are concerned with the total environment" including the "internal fitmets" of a building, he said.

Steward concurred, saying there is a "heightened interest" among architects in how a building is furnished — the craftsmanship that goes into the product and how well the furniture complements the building design.

In addition, he said architecture students need a "hands on" experience with materials such as wood. Such an experience "carries over into their field" and enhances their "sensitivities for architecture."

A furniture designer and craftsman need not limit himself to creating articles for individual homeowners, Holmes said.

Executive offices and board rooms in large office buildings need furniture too. And that type of job is not out of the question for the craftsman, he said.

Conceivably, the workshop he sets up at UNL could be used for anything from his type of work to creating prototypes of furniture for industrial production, Holmes explained.

Before going to England, Holmes studied philosophy for a year at UNL and a year and a half at Yale University. He has also served in VISTA, and managed his own furniture-making shop here.

Steward said Holmes was chosen from among 10 applicants for the position.

"We were excited about his work in England, and his commitment to this particular area," Steward said.

"It's rather unusual for a young person to decide so precisely what he's interested in, and to go to the lengths" Holmes has to pursue it.

How Do You Tell When He's Stepping Out?

DEAR ABBY All I can say is, thanks a whole bunch" for giving a husband a few tips on how he can tell if his wife has been out with another man (gets all dressed up to go shopping comes home late out of breath with no packages, and her pantyhose inside out)

Well there have been times when I got all dressed up to go shopping came home late and out of breath with no packages, and maybe my pantyhose was inside out because that's the way I put it on but it didn't mean I had been with another man!

I have a very jealous husband, and that item in your column sure didn't help matters much

Since you gave men tips on how to tell if their wives are cheating, how about giving wives a few tips on how to tell if their husbands have been fooling around

CAMILLUS, N Y

DEAR CAM. A cinch: When a husband suddenly starts wearing his best clothes to work, says he's working "overtime" but doesn't have the money to show for it, puts extra miles on the car, sometimes gets lost all day Saturday, smiles and whistles a lot and starts telling you what a great, understanding wife you are — watch out!

DEAR ABBY I am a 52-year-old widow I have a good job, my home is paid for and I'm able to take care of myself

I've been keeping company with a 34-year-old man for two years (We are not living together) We get along very well but I can't see this relationship leading to marriage

I was very lonely before I met him but when we are in public, I feel uncomfortable I'm afraid people will think I am his mother The age difference never seems to bother him, but it bothers me

Also I'm afraid my daughter and son (they are 30 and 27) think I'm making a fool of myself

What's wrong with me, Abby? Other widows my age would give their fight arm to be in my shoes

TOO OLD FOR HIM

DEAR TOO: Your signature is the tipoff. If you feel that you're too old for him, you are. If you can't rid yourself of that feeling, try an older model for comfort.

DEAR ABBY "Warm in Georgia" asked if there was a dress code for church

It seems a young married woman came to church in a halter with her bare middle showing You said, "Common sense and a little old-fashioned respect for a house of worship are all the dress rules necessary"

Well I'm only 17, but I could have given a better answer than yours What the heck difference does it make what that girl wears to church? The point is that she's there worshiping God

I'm sure it makes no difference to God is she was stark naked or wearing her Sunday best

WORSHIPS IN CUTOFFS

DEAR WORSHIPS: It may make no difference to God, but how about a little consideration for the other worshippers?

CONFIDENTIAL TO "ALL FOULED UP IN BOZEMAN": If you were sick, you'd gladly pay a doctor for curing you, wouldn't you? So, why, when you have legal problems, do you try to get help from unqualified people who might involve you even more deeply in debt? Engage a lawyer and pay him for what he knows. It's the best investment you can make.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY. Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Opening lead - three of hearts

There are frequently two sides to a story For example, consider this deal where West led a heart, won in dummy with the ten Declarer could not be sure at this point how he would eventually fare — he was of course unaware that the spades were divided 3-3 — and he elected to return a heart to his king at trick two

West won with the ace and shifted to a low club East took the ace and returned the nine, West winning declarer's queen with the king West now made the excellent play of the jack of spades, forcing declarer to win in dummy and eventually lose two diamond tricks to go down one

Good defense, you might say, but the fact is that that's only one side of the story Let's go back to the point where South muffed his chance to make the contract Instead of returning a heart from dummy at trick two, he should have cashed the A-K-Q of spades, discarding two clubs from his hand, and then played a heart to the king.

West wins the heart with the ace but the defenders soon run out of steam They can cash two club tricks, but the best they can do next is to have West lead a low diamond South ducks in dummy and East, after winning with the queen, has no place to go

The big difference in the play is that declarer, by first cashing the A-K-Q of spades, destroys West's ability to exit with a spade when he later wins the ace of hearts In effect, declarer removes West's fangs by cashing three spade tricks before exiting with a heart.

That's the other side of the story

Clyde Barrow Photo Sells For $500

New York UPI — A snapshot of Clyde Barrow of Bonnie and Clyde fame sold for $500 at an auction at the Waldorf-Astoria

Barrow is shown on the snapshot dated Jan 2 1932 trying to free his automobile which was stuck in the mud

On the back of the picture Barrow wrote

"Too much work Next time I will use a tractor — Bonnie is laughing at me The sheriff can't shoot [illegible]

The auction held by the Charles Hamilton Gallery featured 382 items — including letters photographs programs and menus — bearing the signatures or words of famous persons

Most of the material was devoted to various forms of Americana dating back to the Revolution

Charles Hamilton the autograph specialist who heads the gallery said Only a letter of Jesse James would bring in more than Clyde Barrow

I had a letter of John Dillinger a few years ago Hamilton said 'and it brought in only $300 compared to the signature of Clyde Barrow which brought in $500 while the Jesse James letter sold for $2 500

The Barrow snapshot was bought by a professional collector who asked not to be identified

How Do You Tell When He's Stepping Out?

DEAR ABBY: All I can say is, "thanks a whole bunch" for giving a husband a few tips on how he can tell if his wife has been out with another man: ("gets all dressed up to go shopping, comes home late, out of breath, with no packages, and her pantyhose inside out").

Well, there have been times when I got all dressed up to go shopping, came home late and out of breath with no packages, and maybe my pantyhose was inside out because that's the way I put it on, but it didn't mean I had been with another man!

I have a very jealous husband, and that item in your column sure didn't help matters much.

Since you gave men tips on how to tell if their wives are cheating, how about giving wives a few tips on how to tell if their husbands have been fooling around.

CAMILLUS, N.Y.

DEAR CAM: A cinch: When a husband suddenly starts wearing his best clothes to work, says he's working "overtime" but doesn't have the money to show for it, puts extra miles on the car, sometimes gets lost all day Saturday, smiles and whistles a lot and starts telling you what a great, understanding wife you are — watch out!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 52-year-old widow. I have a good job, my home is paid for and I'm able to take care of myself.

I've been keeping company with a 34-year-old man for two years. (We are not living together). We get along very well, but I can't see this relationship leading to marriage.

I was very lonely before I met him, but when we are in public, I feel uncomfortable. I'm afraid people will think I am his mother. The age difference never seems to bother him, but it bothers me.

Also I'm afraid my daughter and son (they are 30 and 27) think I'm making a fool of myself.

What's wrong with me, Abby? Other widows my age would give their fight arm to be in my shoes.

TOO OLD FOR HIM

DEAR TOO: Your signature is the tipoff. If you feel that you're too old for him, you are. If you can't rid yourself of that feeling, try an older model for comfort.

DEAR ABBY: "Warm in Georgia" asked if there was a dress code for church.

It seems a young married woman came to church in a halter with her bare middle showing. You said, "Common sense and a little old-fashioned respect for a house of worship are all the dress rules necessary."

Well I'm only 17, but I could have given a better answer than yours. What the heck difference does it make what that girl wears to church? The point is that she's there worshiping God.

I'm sure it makes no difference to God is she was stark naked or wearing her Sunday best.

WORSHIPS IN CUTOFFS

DEAR WORSHIPS: It may make no difference to God, but how about a little consideration for the other worshippers?

CONFIDENTIAL TO "ALL FOULED UP IN BOZEMAN": If you were sick, you'd gladly pay a doctor for curing you, wouldn't you? So, why, when you have legal problems, do you try to get help from unqualified people who might involve you even more deeply in debt? Engage a lawyer and pay him for what he knows. It's the best investment you can make.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hansen Looks Forward To Taking Chief's Post

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

"I pray that I can fulfill expectations," George K. Hansen said from his office as public safety director in Sunnyvale, Calif

His response came on the heels of the City Council's 4-3 vote confirming him as Lincoln's next police chief

On the matter of the split vote, Hansen said, "I can understand the feeling in the community of loyalty to people in the department

"I feel proud to have been selected for the job I look forward to associating with the department and an open, straight-forward and cooperative relationship with people in the community," he said.

Asked to comment on published reports that Hansen's son had commented in Lincoln in May that the election of Helen Boosalis as mayor would help his father's chances to be named chief, Hansen replied that he didn't even know Mrs Boosalis at the time

"I knew no one in City Hall," Hansen said "Absolutely the only contact I had was I asked Mr (Walt) Mitchell (city personnel director) if they were serious about recruiting "

Mayor Boosalis, who announced her nomination of Hansen last Wednesday said confirmation of her choice was "the end of a very difficult and trying period "

Monday, she said minutes after the vote, "I am going to go home and lie down five minutes before getting supper "

Mrs Boosalis said she hopes citizens wait to judge Hansen until he has been on the job giving him a chance to "show what kind of job he does "

Her comments came minutes after more than two and one-half hours of testimony before the City Council which was flavored to some degree with comments like that of Irv Chesen, manager of the Villager Motel, who said, "The people of Lincoln don't want this guy (Hansen)."

Many of those who appeared before the City Council were among the approximately 30 persons who met Saturday afternoon to study avenues by which acting Chief Dale Adams could still be installed as chief.

Although a published account of the meeting said there was talk of a petition to recall Mayor Boosalis because of resentment on the issue, those at the meeting squelched the report when contacted after the council vote

"I hope everyone will now unite in support of the new police chief," former Gov Robert Crosby said "I wish him every success and I hope all citizens join me in this wish."

"I don't think it will be forgotten, but I think we have to go on what the elected representatives decided," Chensen said after the vote.

"Sometimes they react to what they hear and sometimes they don't," he said.

Retired FBI agent Harmon Ogren said he believes the selection of Hansen will stifle incentive in the Police Department.

"This will cutoff all hopes of advancement in the future," Ogren said

"The council acted way too quickly," Leo Scherer said after the vote "I think its tragic that the citizens of Lincoln have not had the opportunity to meet this man

Scherer, who resigned last spring as director of the Community Development Department, said he believes that most of the people in Lincoln favored the appointment of Adams or someone within the department.

Businessman Don Strasheim, who called the Saturday afternoon meeting to plan efforts to block the nomination of Hansen, said he believes "the people in Lincoln are big enough to take disappointment in stride

"I hope they (the council) haven't made a mistake. Only time will tell," Strasheim said

Boys Always Together

By H. L. HOFFMASTER
Star Staff Writer

Jake Surber and Jon Simpson did a lot together.

They went to school together, they studied together, they played together, they rested together.

And nine days ago, on Saturday, Aug. 30, they did something else together: they disappeared.

Early reports were that they had walked away from the Nebraska State Fair. Later reports were that they had been spotted in Omaha's Old Market area, then hitchhiking across Iowa.

But Monday, Jake was found, dead in a ravine close to Antelope Creek near the fairgrounds. Foul play is suspected and the search for Jon continues . . fearfully.

Jake, 12, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Surber of 2205 S. 24th. He had two sisters: Kelly, a 10th grade student at Lincoln High School and Jennifer, a third grader at Prescott. Brother David is in the fifth grade at Prescott. Jon, 13, is the son of Mr and Mrs. Harding Simpson of 2743 Everett

From the fourth grade at Prescott School to this year, when they were supposed to enter seventh grade at Irving Junior High School together, Jake and Jon had been held in that special bond of being buddies

Teachers of both the students were captured by that feeling

It was the first thing that Robert Bussman, Florence Schlegelmilch and Mrs Jan Simonson remembered about them

But other words flowed Jake was well-liked, Jon was well-liked Jake was a leader Jon was quiet Jake had a twinkle in his eye and a smile Jon was serious Jake had a lot of friends. Jon had a lot of friends

And they had each other, through a summer of play, through a State Fair, and through what else?

Jake loved animals all his teachers said And they all said "especially Charlie"

Charlie — racoon of reknown — who disappeared last fall, sending Jake into a blues that animal lovers can understand and which his family, his friends and teachers felt too

Charlie was never found Jake has been and his family his friends and teachers are feeling something beyond blue they are feeing something black . something horrid

Intern Quarters Proposed Site Of City's Detoxification Center

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

A proposed detoxification center an alternative to merely jailing drunks, may have found at home at last — on the Lincoln General Hospital campus

One of two intern quarters near the hospital can be converted to use as a detoxification center for about $91,000, Hospital Administrator Robert Brungard told the City Council Monday

The initial remodeling costs would be paid by the private Lincoln Hospital Association, owners of the building, and then would be included in the lease payments paid by the city over a five-year period he said.

Apparently ready to endorse the three-story intern quarter site, the council directed the city attorney s office to prepare a lease agreement and ordinance.

If approved the intern quarters will be the last of several sites explored over the past year for housing the detoxification center.

A proposal to use the student nursing dorm on the Lincoln General campus fell through when the original $100 000 pricetag for remodeling rose to more than $400 000

Other possible sites at the Salvation Army and Bethesdal Hospital never got past the talking stage

The detoxification center would offer "drying out" facilities for alcoholics as well as treatment and counseling and would be an alternative to the current practice of jailing people arrested for public intoxication

The lease cost for the intern s quarters falls within the money budgeted for the project by the City Council for this year

And the space, two upper levels and a basement, will give the program 60 [illegible] more space than proposed in the student nurse s dormitory Brungard said

The projected total cost for the program for one year is $166 775, including lease payments, staffing and equipment

City Attorney Says 'No' To Bailing Out Day Care

City lawmakrs appeared ready Monday to help day care services plagued by dwindling state support

But the city attorney said "no

Based on an attorney general's opinion City Attorney Charles Humble recommended that the city stay out of the funding area until specific legislative problems are cleared up

That leaves the county government holding the bag for a possible $104,000 deficit — the amount of money the day care programs operated under Family Services Association may lose over a nine-month period.

A recent report by an Ad Hoc Day Care Committee recommended that the city and county help bail out these services, which include two day care centers — in Trabert Hall and in Epworth Methodist Church — and more than 30 family day care homes

The day care network, called the Lincoln-Lancaster County Child Care System, tries to provide quality day care for children of mostly single parent families

In the past year it has seen funds from the state dwindle

The county has budgeted some money for the day care operations, but not enough to see them through the nine months said Robert Clark, county-city human services administrator

City Council members did informally agree to work toward state legislation which would make it possible for the city to fund day care services and also asked that the State Welfare Department be lobbied to raise its support for quality day care programs

What Was Shark Doing In Fountain?

DANBURY, Conn. (AP) — What was a three-foot sand shark doing in the city library fountain?

Swimming, police said Monday They said they were called to the fountain by a wide-eyed youngster

The city's dog warden "disposed" of the small-jawed shark.

Mrs. Coffen Elected By LAP Board

The Lincoln Action Program board has a new chairman, Mrs. Jerilyn Coffen.

Mrs. Coffen was elected Monday by a vote of 17-1 to replace Mike Brennan, who resigned last month. Brennan's resignation came after he tried unsuccessfully to fire Jesse Payne, LAP coordinator.

Mrs Coffen said she believes she will fare better than her predecessor and doesn't foresee any personality conflicts between herself and Payne

The LAP board's role is more of a policy making group rather than an administrative body, she said.

Mrs Coffen was previously LAP board chairman from 1969-1971, and was elected chairman of the Low Income Caucus in July

Early reports were that they had walked away from the Nebraska State Fair. Later reports were that they had been spotted in Omaha's Old Market area, then hitchhiking across Iowa.

But Monday, Jake was found, dead in a ravine close to Antelope Creek near the fairgrounds. Foul play is suspected and the search for Jon continues . . . fearfully.

Jake, 12, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Surber of 2205 S. 24th. He had two sisters: Kelly, a 10th grade student at Lincoln High School and Jennifer, a third grader at Prescott. Brother David is in the fifth grade at Prescott. Jon, 13, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harding Simpson of 2743 Everett.

From the fourth grade at Prescott School to this year, when they were supposed to enter seventh grade at Irving Junior High School together, Jake and Jon had been held in that special bond of being buddies.

Teachers of both the students were captured by that feeling.

It was the first thing that Robert Bussman, Florence Schlegelmilch and Mrs. Jan Simonson remembered about them.

But other words flowed: Jake was well-liked, Jon was well-liked. Jake was a leader. Jon was quiet. Jake had a twinkle in his eye and a smile. Jon was serious. Jake had a lot of friends. Jon had a lot of friends.

And they had each other, through a summer of play, through a State Fair, and through what else?

Jake loved animals, all his teachers said. And they all said: "especially 'Charlie'!"

Charlie — racoon of reknown — who disappeared last fall, sending Jake into a blues that animal lovers can understand and which his family, his friends and teachers felt too.

Charlie was never found. Jake has been and his family, his friends and teachers are feeling something beyond blue . . . they are feeing something black . . . something horrid.

Intern Quarters Proposed Site Of City's Detoxification Center

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

A proposed detoxification center, an alternative to merely jailing drunks, may have found at home at last — on the Lincoln General Hospital campus.

One of two intern quarters near the hospital can be converted to use as a detoxification center for about $91,000, Hospital Administrator Robert Brungard told the City Council Monday.

The initial remodeling costs would be paid by the private Lincoln Hospital Association, owners of the building, and then would be included in the lease payments paid by the city over a five-year period, he said.

Apparently ready to endorse the three-story intern quarter site, the council directed the city attorney's office to prepare a lease agreement and ordinance.

If approved, the intern quarters will be the last of several sites explored over the past year for housing the detoxification center.

A proposal to use the student nursing dorm on the Lincoln General campus fell through when the original $100,000 pricetag for remodeling rose to more than $400,000.

Other possible sites at the Salvation Army and Bethesdal Hospital never got past the talking stage.

The detoxification center would offer "drying out" facilities for alcoholics as well as treatment and counseling and would be an alternative to the current practice of jailing people arrested for public intoxication.

The lease cost for the intern's quarters falls within the money budgeted for the project by the City Council for this year.

And the space, two upper levels and a basement, will give the program 60% more space than proposed in the student nurse's dormitory, Brungard said.

The projected total cost for the program for one year is $166,775, including lease payments, staffing and equipment.

Amount Of Damage Requiring Accident Report Raised By City

A driver who has a minor crash on Lincoln streets will not have to report that accident to the police department unless the property damage is at least $250.

The City Council raised the money figure for accidents which must be reported from $100 to $250 Monday afternoon. The law will not take effect, however, until signed by the mayor.

All accidents involving any injury must still be reported.

In other business, the council:

Ordinances Third Reading

— Accepted plat of Woodhaven 1st Addition, generally 56th and Pioneers Blvd.

— Create paving and improvement districts in Colonial Hills Sixth Addition including 58th between LaSalle St and Woodhaven.

City Attorney Says 'No' To Bailing Out Day Care

City lawmakrs appeared ready Monday to help day care services plagued by dwindling state support.

But the city attorney said "no."

Based on an attorney general's opinion, City Attorney Charles Humble recommended that the city stay out of the funding area until specific legislative problems are cleared up.

That leaves the county government holding the bag for a possible $104,000 deficit — the amount of money the day care programs operated under Family Services Association may lose over a nine-month period.

A recent report by an Ad Hoc Day Care Committee recommended that the city and county help bail out these services, which include two day care centers — in Trabert Hall and in Epworth Methodist Church — and more than 30 family day care homes.

The day care network, called the Lincoln-Lancaster County Child Care System, tries to provide quality day care for children of mostly single parent families.

In the past year it has seen funds from the state dwindle.

The county has budgeted some money for the day care operations, but not enough to see them through the nine months, said Robert Clark, county-city human services administrator.

City Council members did informally agree to work toward state legislation which would make it possible for the city to fund day care services and also asked that the State Welfare Department be lobbied to raise its support for quality day care programs.

What Was Shark Doing In Fountain?

DANBURY, Conn. (AP) — What was a three-foot sand shark doing in the city library fountain?

Swimming, police said Monday. They said they were called to the fountain by a wide-eyed youngster.

The city's dog warden "disposed" of the small-jawed shark.

Mrs. Coffen Elected By LAP Board

The Lincoln Action Program board has a new chairman, Mrs. Jerilyn Coffen.

Mrs. Coffen was elected Monday by a vote of 17-1 to replace Mike Brennan, who resigned last month. Brennan's resignation came after he tried unsuccessfully to fire Jesse Payne, LAP coordinator.

Mrs. Coffen said she believes she will fare better than her predecessor and doesn't foresee any personality conflicts between herself and Payne.

The LAP board's role is more of a policy making group rather than an administrative body, she said.

Mrs. Coffen was previously LAP board chairman from 1969-1971, and was elected chairman of the Low Income Caucus in July.

You're looking at the fuels used to produce natural gas.

As you can see, nothing. No other fuels are used to produce natural gas.

This is one reason your gas appliances help make America's energy go farther. When compared to electricity, gas does the same amount of work for half the amount of total energy used.

For home heating, cooking, water heating and clothes drying —stick with gas.

San Francisco — Rose as dawn cracked the sky and hustled the children off to school. I got a second cup of coffee. Heavenly days it was quiet! (The worker ants have stored their wheat. The giddy grasshopper is trying to get a loan from the banker Ant.)

In the White House, Betty Ford is suffering a pain in the neck. She has the same thing I have. If the President and his wife are ever in my town, she can borrow my dog collar — I have a spare.

The collar props up your neck so you can't turn your head. It demands attention: "What happened to you?"

Sometimes sympathy: "What a shame! How long do you have to wear it?"

You don't have to do the chivalry gig when a lady comes to the table: "Please! Don't get up. I just stopped to say hello."

It is a collar for all seasons.

President Ford had a pain in the neck that no collar could relieve.

He said: "Unfortunately there has been a misunderstanding. What Betty was trying to say—."

What Betty said — coast to coast TV — was that she would not crack up if daughter Susan said she was having an affair. (Frankness does not win friends or influence voters.)

All the world watched as the President pulled one sticky foot after the other out of the quicksand.

"What Betty was trying to say," he said, "was that in the closeness of our family, we are deeply concerned about our moral standards of how a family is raised."

(If that was what Betty was trying to say, she missed it a country mile.)

☆ ☆ ☆

"Any boy in this room can grow up to be President!" cried Miss Batchelor, our teacher. "Old Batch" we called her privately.

What "Old Batch" was trying to say was that humble beginnings didn't keep you down. Look at Honest Abe the rail splitter.

Humbleness is an asset for any President. Campaign chairmen work hard to make their candidates ordinary folks.

President Harding sat in a rocking chair. He campaigned from his front porch.

President Coolidge kept his mouth shut. He became known as "Silent Cal."

No boy in my class grew up to be President. What "Old Batch" may have been trying to say was any boy could be President if he had the money.

President Kennedy (no humble fellow) was astounded to find his winning campaign cost $25 million.

☆ ☆ ☆

After Betty Ford made her famous remark, reporters rushed all around for reaction. They asked Susan what she thought about it, hey?

Susan said she wasn't having an affair. So why ask her?

A number of people in the midwest Bible Belt said it was a shame that you find such goings-on in the White House.

The same feeling came up in the hush puppies and grits land of the Deep South.

☆ ☆ ☆

First ladies have a lot to do with the president's image. Like the vice president, they don't do much but they are watched closely.

For Jack Kennedy, Jackie was just right. Rich and good looking.

Eleanor was a carbon copy of F. D. Roosevelt. She wrote a column and did good works. Lincoln's wife was a real pain in the neck for Honest Abe.

What "Old Batch" was trying to say was think twice before you grow up about being president. You may not like it.

Use Of Hospital Beds For Long-Term Nursing Care Studied

EDITOR'S NOTE: In big cities, hospital beds are in short supply; in small rural towns they may be vacant. Lorraine Smith reports on one scheme for matching supply and demand from her Dallas base with McGraw-Hill World News.)

By LORRAINE SMITH

Dallas — It's tragic to be old and ill. In small towns and rural areas the problem is compounded for those who must move far away from friends, loved ones and family doctor in order to obtain long-term skilled nursing care. Licensed facilities offering this kind of care usually are located in metropolitan areas but they have few, if any, vacancies. At the same time, small hospitals in rural communities face a struggle for survival because of losses resulting from vacant beds.

Why not put patients needing long-term care in those vacant beds, you ask, so they can stay in their own communities and also provide rural hospitals with additional income? Health care agencies and the Social Security Administration (SSA) are asking the same question.

Under current SSA regulations, acute care patients cannot be housed with those needing long-term skilled nursing care. Separate buildings and separate staffs are required.

Now a 3½-year research program is getting under way in Texas which is designed to provide benefits in three areas. Treatment for the elderly would be more humane, since they could remain near family and friends. Small hospitals would receive financial relief. Soaring costs of Medicare and Medicaid should be reduced.

With the $650,000 study, SSA, the Texas Hospital Association (THA), the Texas Department of Public Welfare, the Texas Department of Health Resources, Blue Cross-Blue Shield of Texas and about 40 rural Texas hospitals will try to help control both Medicare costs and costs for routine hospital patients by spreading overhead expenses.

The program will be implemented only where there are no facilities in the immediate area for skilled long-term nursing care.

Nationally, 52% of all hospitals have fewer than 100 beds, and most of these are rural.

Texas was chosen for study because its needs are particularly acute. some 71% of its 600 hospitals have under 100 beds — the average is 45 — and two thirds of these small hospitals are operating at less than 65% of capacity. The state has 4.9% of all Medicare beneficiaries, but only 2.9% of skilled nursing care beds.

The Texas Hospital Association cites this example of what the new program can mean to a hospital financially. If the hospital charges $100 a day for a bed, it will have a continuing expense of about $65 a day even when the bed is empty simply because of overhead costs. The $25 per day which SSA pays for long-term patient care would bring down this daily loss by almost one third.

In an attempt to reduce overhead even further, SSA will urge rural hospitals to try other methods of cutting costs, offering them an annual incentive payment equal to one half of any savings realized.

The project, designed to serve as a model for other states, will be conducted under the supervision of THA.

According to Texas Hospital Association President, O. Ray Hurst, "This will cut costs and improve service to everyone involved. While the concept is simple, the benefits of the experiment could be enormous. It offers hope for three of the nation's most vexing problems: the cost of Medicare, the problems of the elderly, and the plight of the rural health care delivery system."

Life Begins At Forty:

Older Players Tie For Lead In Golf Classic

By JOANNE FARRIS

Readers of Life Begins at Forty do not need to be golf fans to have enjoyed the final round of the prestigious Westchester Golf Classic, played last month over the Westchester Country Club course, Harrison, N.Y.

One of the richest of all American professional golf tournaments, with a first prize of $50,000, the Classic was hotly contested by most of the leading golfers.

When the complete 72-hole scores were up on the leader board that Sunday in August when the temperature hovered close to 100 degrees, two famous and revered golfers were tied for the lead. Their names — Gene Littler and Julius Boros. Their ages — Littler, 45; Boros, 55.

Anyone who watched that final round on television could feel the warm response of the gallery to each fine shot made by either of these two men.

There was something about their success in pitting their skill against all the exciting young men who grace the pro circuit that gave everyone a thrill.

Perhaps not the least of it is the fact that most of the spectators on the golf course and by the TV sets are middle-aged or older!

At any rate, the two middle-aged men, tied at the end of the regulation 72 holes, ended the tournament with a brief, anticlimatic one-hole playoff.

Littler earned the victory with a par on the first playoff hole.

Boros, whose steps seemed to slow perceptively as the hot, muggy afternoon wore on, just did not have any reserve of energy to draw on for the extra hole.

For those who do not follow golf or don't know much about it, each of the contestants in a medal play golf tournament plays 18 holes a day for four consecutive days. The Westchester course is hillier than most, and in the extreme heat that prevailed that weekend no breeze disturbed the muggy air.

Yet, under these trying conditions, Boros and Littler outplayed men much younger than they, a few of whom had not even been born when Boros played in his first tournament.

As for Gene Littler, this quiet, brave man suffered through the trauma of an operation for lymph cancer in 1972. Yet, this was his third tour victory of this year. He is an inspiration to anyone who sees him.

Littler shot a hole in one on the 14th hole of the final round at Westchester, winning the $8,000 hole-in-one prize.

In what those who know him termed "a typical Gene Littler gesture," he donated his hole-in-one prize money to the American Cancer Society in the name of Gary Sanders, a 25-year-old touring golf professional who had died the week before the tournament, shortly before he was scheduled to undergo a lymph cancer operation.

Mao, Chou Send Hanoi Greetings

Hong Kong (UPI) — Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Prime Minister Chou En-lai, in a joint message of greeting to Hanoi on the 30th anniversary of the founding of North Vietnam, wished the "revolutionary friendship" between the two countries would grow in strength and develop daily, the New China News Agency (NCNA) reported.

In praising the April 30 Communist takeover of South Vietnam, the message said, "In the face of U.S. imperialist aggression, the Vietnamese people, holding high the banner of 'firm resolve to fight and win' of President Ho Chi Minh and fearing no sacrifice, fought arduously and bravely ... and finally drove out the aggressor ..."

Grant Finances Third Volume Of State Atlas

The final volume of a three-volume Nebraska atlas is being financed by a $15,000 grant from the state Office of Planning and Programming, the University of Nebraska has announced.

Major economic features of the state will be presented in the final volume, which will consist of maps, photos, graphs and an accompanying text.

The first two volumes, a climatological atlas and an agricultural atlas, are currently being prepared for publication. The University of Nebraska Press, which is publishing the series, expects the first volume to be issued by the spring of 1976.

Music news is covered thoroughly in the "Sunday Journal and Star."

Some Nations Not Keen On Literacy

PARIS (AP) — A 10-year experimental literacy campaign indicates there is little hope that the world's 800 million illiterates will ever learn to read or write, partly because their governments don't particularly want an informed, demanding population.

A report on the experimental world literacy program sponsored by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) calls illiteracy "mankind's last scourge" and frankly acknowledges there is little hope of eradicating it.

The report is to be published at the end of this year, but its main findings were included in a UNESCO statement released on the occasion of World Literacy Day celebrated Monday.

The program, which involved one million learners in 13 countries, was to have paved the way for a world literacy campaign, the report said. But its objective was not attained "unless (the program) can be said to have shown that achieving world literacy will take more time and involve more difficulty than was optimistically thought."

"Neither literacy nor development can be willed into existence by international agencies," the report said. "At best, they can perhaps prick the conscience of national governments."

Without naming names, the report indicated some participating governments were less than keen on approving an all-out national literacy campaign in their countries. The governments provided two-thirds of the more than $30 million cost of the program.

As one country which did throw everything into the fight against illiteracy, the report mentioned Cuba, which was not involved in the 10-year experiment. In 1961 alone, the report said, Cuba cut its illiteracy rate from 23% to 4%.

But to do this, it added, Cuba closed regular schools so pupils could be used as literacy teachers "and this kind of approach was not used in the — UNESCO — program."

One problem confronting the international program was differences among governments and agencies over whether literacy was to be aimed at simply helping people in their jobs or making it possible for them to participate in the social and political development around them.

"More important than any tricks of the trade is a critical awareness which will enable new literates to master and transform their own circumstances," the report said.

This suggested that some governments were unwilling to suddenly have on their hands a mass of people who could read, write and demand more abundance than governments could provide.

Only 11 countries participating in the experiment were identified in the report — Algeria, Ethiopia, Guinea, Malagasy Republic, Mali, Sudan, Tanzania, Ecuador, India, Iran and Syria.

Pony Express Rider Needs Another Horse

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — A self-appointed and somewhat disgusted Bicentennial Pony Express rider issued a public plea on Monday for a new horse.

His last mount apparently is galloping about the wilds of Montana, complete with saddle and saddlebags containing some of the mail to be delivered along his transcontinental ride.

Robert H. Hamilton of Olympia, Wash., a 32-year-old unemployed logger, lost his second horse Friday when it spooked on his approach to the city. He suffered a smashed hand when the animal stepped on him as it headed for the horizon.

Hamilton lost his first horse in Walla Walla, Wash., when it was repossessed. He said he leased the animal for a monthly fee, but when the check didn't arrive the owners said he broke his contract and retrieved the animal. "I'm still putting out tracers — the check is lost in the U.S. mail," he said.

Hamilton left Olympia Aug. 1 with 3,800 pieces of mail, including about 30 letters from Washington Gov. Daniel J. Evans to governors along Hamilton's round-trip route to Washington, D.C.

Barring cancellation, Hamilton is to arrive in Washington, D.C., July 3, 1976, and hopes to return to Olympia, Wash., by November 1976.

Iran Wants Price Hike

Tehran, Iran (UPI) — Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi indicated Monday that Iran would press for sizable price increases at a meeting of oil producers in Vienna Sept. 24 and warned the west not to resort to "gunboat diplomacy" to keep prices down.

In an address to a joint session of the Iranian parliament, the shah said Iran's demand for the increases to offset inflation running at 27% in some industrialized countries was "reasonable and legitimate."

"It is a perfectly logical move to revise oil prices (upwards), as it has a direct relation with the unstable economic situation in the industrialized world," he said.

He said the industrialized nations' inflation "has been exported" and therefore oil-producing countries had a right to show "some reaction of their own."

"Such reaction could not be stopped by gunboat diplomacy, which is a thing of the past," he said.

Broken Legs Mystery To All At Party

Sheriff's deputies were still attempting Monday to piece together how Annette Marie Jackson broke both legs early Sunday morning at a "kegger" in a field southeast of Lincoln.

Jackson, 18, of 2348 O, told police she didn't know how her legs were broken. She was listed in fair condition at St. Elizabeth Health Center Monday night.

Other people contacted who were at the party also said they did not know how the woman's legs were broken, deputies said.

Deputies said they suspect her legs, which each sustained multiple breaks, were struck or driven over by a vehicle. Investigation was continuing.

"It's amazing how much people don't know on these deals," Capt. Glen Allen commented.

Phone Service Interrupted By Cable Accident

Approximately 600 Lincoln homes and businesses were without telephone service for eight hours Monday when a buried cable was cut in a construction accident shortly after noon in the vicinity of 58th and Pioneers.

The area affected was the extreme southeastern section of Lincoln in addition to some rural customers, according to Jim Vanderslice, spokesman for the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Service was restored to all customers by about 8 p.m.

University Will Institute Towing Policy At Games

Illegally parked vehicles on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln campus during football games will be towed away this year, according to NU Parking Coordinator John Duve.

The new policy was passed because of extensive damage to university and city property, the interference with emergency services and community pressure.

The university will tow away vehicles parked on the grass, sidewalks and other illegal areas.

Impounded vehicles will be held at 1000 No. 17th St. The owner will pay a towing fee, expected to range between $10 and $15, to recover his car.

Duve said the Lincoln Police Department also plans to tow and impound cars illegally parked on city property at the 17th St. location.

Egypt Wants To Use N-Bombs For Canal

(c) Chicago Daily News

Cairo — Egypt wants to use nuclear bombs to blast a canal through 42 miles of mountainous desert to create the world's largest manmade lake and a hydroelectric station with five times the generating capacity of the Aswan High Dam.

The canal would run from the Mediterranean Sea to the northern tip of the desolate Kattara Depression, a basin of nearly 5,000 square miles about 400 feet below sea level in the Western Desert.

A West German feasibility study indicates that conventional means of cutting the canal would be too costly, since mountains reaching as high as 300 feet would have to be removed, but that nuclear blasting would be technically and economically feasible.

Whether it would be politically feasible is quite another matter. Both technology and nuclear devices for the project would have to be supplied either by the United States or the Soviet Union who, under the nuclear test ban treaty, would have to approve all details and jointly supervise the blasting.

But Maher Abaza, Egypt's deputy minister of electricity, says the project already has been discussed with Soviet nuclear experts and U.S. atomic energy officials, whose response has been "100% encouraging."

The basic idea is for water from the sea to run through the surface canal and plunge down the steep slope of the depression, turning huge generators.

The depression would be filled with sea water to a depth of 100 to 200 feet, at which point water put into the basin would be controlled so that it equaled only the amount removed by normal evaporation.

A salt water lake then would cover about 4,300 square miles — an area about the size of Switzerland.

To increase the generating capacity, water from the lake would be pumped up to a storage facility at the top of the slope at night when demand for electricity is low and allowed to run back down turning the generators during the daylight hours of peak electricity demand.

Abaza believes the project could have several beneficial side effects in addition to power generation.

The lake would be available for recreational purposes, he said, and evaporation from the huge body of water would cause rainfall in sufficient quantity to make it feasible to cultivate some of the desert around the depression.

Creating the lake also would make it possible to use conventional offshore drilling techniques to tap oil reserves in the depression.

Because of the vast amount of evaporation, he went on, the mineral content of the lake would become increasingly concentrated as time went on, creating another valuable resource.

Some Nations Not Keen On Literacy

PARIS (AP) — A 10-year experimental literacy campaign indicates there is little hope that the world's 800 million illiterates will ever learn to read or write, partly because their governments don't particularly want an informed, demanding population.

A report on the experimental world literacy program sponsored by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) calls illiteracy "mankind's last scourge" and frankly acknowledges there is little hope of eradicating it.

The report is to be published at the end of this year, but its main findings were included in a UNESCO statement released on the occasion of World Literacy Day celebrated Monday.

The program, which involved one million learners in 13 countries, was to have paved the way for a world literacy campaign, the report said. But its objective was not attained "unless (the program) can be said to have shown that achieving world literacy will take more time and involve more difficulty than was optimistically thought."

"Neither literacy nor development can be willed into existence by international agencies," the report said. "At best, they can perhaps prick the conscience of national governments."

Without naming names, the report indicated some participating governments were less than keen on approving an all-out national literacy campaign in their countries. The governments provided two-thirds of the more than $30 million cost of the program.

As one country which did throw everything into the fight against illiteracy, the report mentioned Cuba, which was not involved in the 10-year experiment. In 1961 alone, the report said, Cuba cut its illiteracy rate from 23% to 4%.

But to do this, it added, Cuba closed regular schools so pupils could be used as literacy teachers "and this kind of approach was not used in the — UNESCO — program."

One problem confronting the international program was differences among governments and agencies over whether literacy was to be aimed at simply helping people in their jobs or making it possible for them to participate in the social and political development around them.

"More important than any tricks of the trade is a critical awareness which will enable new literates to master and transform their own circumstances," the report said.

This suggested that some governments were unwilling to suddenly have on their hands a mass of people who could read, write and demand more abundance than governments could provide.

Only 11 countries participating in the experiment were identified in the report — Algeria, Ethiopia, Guinea, Malagasy Republic, Mali, Sudan, Tanzania, Ecuador, India, Iran and Syria.

Pony Express Rider Needs Another Horse

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — A self-appointed and somewhat disgusted Bicentennial Pony Express rider issued a public plea on Monday for a new horse.

His last mount apparently is galloping about the wilds of Montana, complete with saddle and saddlebags containing some of the mail to be delivered along his transcontinental ride.

Robert H. Hamilton of Olympia, Wash., a 32-year-old unemployed logger, lost his second horse Friday when it spooked on his approach to the city. He suffered a smashed hand when the animal stepped on him as it headed for the horizon.

Hamilton lost his first horse in Walla Walla, Wash., when it was repossessed. He said he leased the animal for a monthly fee, but when the check didn't arrive the owners said he broke his contract and retrieved the animal. "I'm still putting out tracers — the check is lost in the U.S. mail," he said.

Hamilton left Olympia Aug. 1 with 3,800 pieces of mail, including about 30 letters from Washington Gov. Daniel J. Evans to governors along Hamilton's round-trip route to Washington, D.C.

Barring cancellation, Hamilton is to arrive in Washington, D.C., July 3, 1976, and hopes to return to Olympia, Wash., by November 1976.

Iran Wants Price Hike

Tehran, Iran (UPI) — Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi indicated Monday that Iran would press for sizable price increases at a meeting of oil producers in Vienna Sept. 24 and warned the west not to resort to "gunboat diplomacy" to keep prices down.

In an address to a joint session of the Iranian parliament, the shah said Iran's demand for the increases to offset inflation running at 27% in some industrialized countries was "reasonable and legitimate."

"It is a perfectly logical move to revise oil prices (upwards), as it has a direct relation with the unstable economic situation in the industrialized world," he said.

He said the industrialized nations' inflation "has been exported" and therefore oil-producing countries had a right to show "some reaction of their own."

"Such reaction could not be stopped by gunboat diplomacy, which is a thing of the past," he said.

Broken Legs Mystery To All At Party

Sheriff's deputies were still attempting Monday to piece together how Annette Marie Jackson broke both legs early Sunday morning at a "kegger" in a field southeast of Lincoln.

Jackson, 18, of 2348 O, told police she didn't know how her legs were broken. She was listed in fair condition at St. Elizabeth Health Center Monday night.

Other people contacted who were at the party also said they did not know how the woman's legs were broken, deputies said.

Deputies said they suspect her legs, which each sustained multiple breaks, were struck or driven over by a vehicle. Investigation was continuing.

"It's amazing how much people don't know on these deals," Capt. Glen Allen commented.

Libraries Popular

HONG KONG (AP) — The southern Chinese city of Canton has 56 libraries and other book-lending facilities and an average of 3,500 persons use them daily, a broadcast from Canton monitored in Hong Kong reported.

Phone Service Interrupted By Cable Accident

Approximately 600 Lincoln homes and businesses were without telephone service for eight hours Monday when a buried cable was cut in a construction accident shortly after noon in the vicinity of 58th and Pioneers.

The area affected was the extreme southeastern section of Lincoln in addition to some rural customers, according to Jim Vanderslice, spokesman for the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Service was restored to all customers by about 8 p.m.

University Will Institute Towing Policy At Games

Illegally parked vehicles on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln campus during football games will be towed away this year, according to NU Parking Coordinator John Duve.

The new policy was passed because of extensive damage to university and city property, the interference with emergency services and community pressure.

The university will tow away vehicles parked on the grass, sidewalks and other illegal areas.

Impounded vehicles will be held at 1000 No. 17th St. The owner will pay a towing fee, expected to range between $10 and $15, to recover his car.

Duve said the Lincoln Police Department also plans to tow and impound cars illegally parked on city property at the 17th St. location.

Chute Failure Kills Sky Diver

Barnesville, Minn. (UPI) — A Fargo, N.D., man was killed when his parachute failed to open while he was sky-diving near here.

Authorities identified the victim as Gene Huseth, 21, a member of the Valley Sky Divers, Inc., of Kindred, N.D.

(c) Chicago Daily News

Cairo — Egypt wants to use nuclear bombs to blast a canal through 42 miles of mountainous desert to create the world's largest manmade lake and a hydroelectric station with five times the generating capacity of the Aswan High Dam.

The canal would run from the Mediterranean Sea to the northern tip of the desolate Kattara Depression, a basin of nearly 5,000 square miles about 400 feet below sea level in the Western Desert.

A West German feasibility study indicates that conventional means of cutting the canal would be too costly, since mountains reaching as high as 300 feet would have to be removed, but that nuclear blasting would be technically and economically feasible.

Whether it would be politically feasible is quite another matter. Both technology and nuclear devices for the project would have to be supplied either by the United States or the Soviet Union who, under the nuclear test ban treaty, would have to approve all details and jointly supervise the blasting.

But Maher Abaza, Egypt's deputy minister of electricity, says the project already has been discussed with Soviet nuclear experts and U.S. atomic energy officials, whose response has been "100% encouraging."

The basic idea is for water from the sea to run through the surface canal and plunge down the steep slope of the depression, turning huge generators.

The depression would be filled with sea water to a depth of 100 to 200 feet, at which point water put into the basin would be controlled so that it equaled only the amount removed by normal evaporation.

A salt water lake then would cover about 4,300 square miles — an area about the size of Switzerland.

To increase the generating capacity, water from the lake would be pumped up to a storage facility at the top of the slope at night when demand for electricity is low and allowed to run back down turning the generators during the daylight hours of peak electricity demand.

Abaza believes the project could have several beneficial side effects in addition to power generation.

The lake would be available for recreational purposes, he said, and evaporation from the huge body of water would cause rainfall in sufficient quantity to make it feasible to cultivate some of the desert around the depression.

Creating the lake also would make it possible to use conventional offshore drilling techniques to tap oil reserves in the depression.

Because of the vast amount of evaporation, he went on, the mineral content of the lake would become increasingly concentrated as time went on, creating another valuable resource.

Galbreath Peps Mizzou's Upset Over Alabama

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Alabama Coach Bear Bryant had warned the second-ranked Crimson Tide that they had better beware of Missouri running back Tony Galbreath.

The Tide, which had lost only one of its 44 previous regular season games, went up against the Missouri Tigers as 20-point favorites in a Monday night nationally televised game and came away a 20-7 looser because it couldn't do what Bryant was afraid it couldn't do — stop Galbreath.

The 225-pound senior tailback rolled up 89 of his 120 yards in the first half as the Tigers, scoring all of their points in that first 30 minutes, completely dominated the shocked Crimson Tide.

Bryant, who had warned his players ahead of time that Galbreath "can fly," stood solemnly on the sidelines as the Missouri ace time and again ripped through and around the Alabama line for hugh chunks of yardage. The only time Alabama stopped Missouri the entire first half was during the few minutes that Galbreath, shaken up by a vicious tackle, was forced to rest on the sidelines.

Then, to add insult to injury, when Galbreath returned to action, he immediately completed the only pass he threw, a 11-yard strike that started the Tigers on their way to their final points of the night.

Galbreath also scored the Tigers' first touchdown of the night, a 3-yard plunge midway through the first period.

Missouri scored four of the five times it had possession of the ball in the first half. Galbreath's touchdown run capped a 58-yard drive the first time the Tigers got the ball and they scored on a 9-yard run by fullback John Blakeman and on 44 and 46-yard field goals by Tim Gibbons.

Alabama, which had lost only one of its last 44 regular season games, got a series of breaks in the second half, but the only time the highly-regarded Crimson Tide offense could score came on a 14-yard pass from Richard Todd to Ozzie Newsome with 10:24 left in the game.

Even that score required some luck since the ball was tipped by a Missouri defender and Newsome caught it while laying on his back in the end zone.

Galbreath, who wound up with a total of 120 rushing yards in 32 carries, gained 45 of those first 58 yards Missouri needed to take a 7-0 lead with eight minutes gone in the first period.

The next time the Tigers got the ball, they marched from their own 28 to the Alabama 27 with Galbreath getting 24 yards in two carries. When their drive bogged down there, Gibbons kicked his first field goal with 1.53 remaining in the first period.

The Tigers recovered an Alabama fumble at the Crimson Tide 32 just before the period ended, and marched right in for their second touchdown with only 3:09 gone in the second period. That touchdown, on

Bonness Said 'Questionable'

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska's All-American center Rik Bonness was reported "very questionable" for the Cornhusker season opening football game Saturday against Louisiana State in Memorial Stadium.

Rik Bonness
Doubtful Starter

The 6-4, 223-pound senior from Bellevue suffered a knee injury in a drill last Friday and the knee swelled up on him Monday after walking stadium steps.

"We have to think about the whole season," Coach Tom Osborne said in reporting the doubtful status of Bonness. "I'm sure Rik wants to play and we'd like to have him."

If he doesn't play, the Huskers probably will open with Tom Davis, 6-3, 242-pound sophomore from Omaha. Backups would be Tom Thomas, senior from Culver City, Calif., and Rich Varner, junior from Wichita, Kan.

There were few changes in the depth chart for the opener after a study of movies of Saturday's final pre-season scrimmage.

"The top people on offense did pretty well," Osborne said. "They had five or six possessions and scored three times. Twice they stopped themselves with fumbles. I was disappointed with the second offense, though."

Defensively, the top defense did a pretty good job, Osborne reported, noting that the scout team. which in past scrimmages has moved the ball some, couldn't move it Saturday.

The offensive lineup, barring aggravations of minor injuries between now and Saturday, probably will look like this:

Tight end: Larry Mushinskie, 6-2, 217, Sr., Temple City, Calif.
Left guard: Dan Schmidt, 6-2, 222, Jr., North Platte.
Center: Bonness or Davis
Right guard: Rich Costanzo, 6-4, 255, Sr., Jersey City, N.J.
Right tackle: Steve Hoins, 6-3, 246 Jr , Bellevue
Split end: Chuck Malito, 6-2, 173, Jr Lakewood, Colo
Quarterback: Terry Luck, 6-3, 212, Sr., Fayetteville, N.C.
I-back: Monte Anthony, 6-3, 207, So. Bellevue.
Wingback: Curtis Craig, 5-10, 185, So. Davenport, Ia.
Fullback: Tony Davis, 5-11, 214, Sr., Tecumseh.

Bobby Thomas, a 5-8, 162-pound junior from Bridgeport, Pa., is running with Malito on the first unit. At I-back, Dave Gillespie, a 6-1, 202-pound junior from Saratoga, Calif., is listed with Anthony on the top unit.

On defense, there appear to be no tight battles for starting jobs although two first-stringers, Jimmy Burrow at safety and Ray Phillips at end, are ineligible for the opener.

Burrow's spot will be taken by Larry Valasek, 5-10, 166-pound sophomore from Silver Creek or Ted Harvey, another sophomore who is 5-10 and 168 and is from Lexington.

Co-captain Bob Martin will move from right to left end for Phillips with Dave Redding moving into Martin's spot.

Right tackle: Mike Fultz, 6-5, 275, Jr , Lincoln.
Right end: Dave Redding, 6-2, 208, Sr , North Platte.
Linebacker: Cletus Pillen, 6-1, 207, Jr., Monroe.
Linebacker: Jim Wightman, 6-3, 213, So , Omaha
Monster: Wonder Monds, 6-2, 204, Sr., Ft. Pierce, Fla.
Cornerback: Dave Butterfield, 5-10, 182, Jr., Kersey, Colo.
Cornerback: Chuck Jones, 6-0, 183, Jr., Beatrice.
Safety: Larry Valasek, 5-10, 166, So., Silver Creek, or Ted Harvey, 5-10, 168, So., Lexington.

One position change was revealed by Osborne. Larry Young, a sophomore linebacker from Jersey City, N.J., went to monster man and is listed with Tim Borg on the third unit.

"We had too many guys at linebacker and since he wasn't doing well there and since we feel he has some speed we decided to move him to monster," Osborne said.

At one of the linebacker positions, Jeff Hansen, sophomore from Sacramento, Calif., and freshman Lee Kunz, from Lakewood, Colo., are battling for the backup spot behind Wightman.

Osborne said Monday's practice "wasn't a particularly good one," partially because of the heat and humidity. "I'd have thought that the Monday before the first came they would have come out more charged up," the coach said. "But it was hot and that beats you down. I hope it's hot again tomorrow because Saturday also could be very warm."

There will be virtually no hitting this week, but the Huskers will run quite a bit Tuesday and some on Wednesday, when the squad will begin tapering for the game.

Bombs And Blasts Lift East, 40-7

By CHUCK SINCLAIR
Prep Sports Writer

Omaha Gross' insistence on playing East High after a scheduling mixup forced the preseason No. 1 rated Class A Spartans into playing two games in a four day span.

After watching East quarterback Dave Waters and all-state fullback Sam Yowell pepper his young defense 40-7 Monday night with a barrage of bombs, and blasts, Gross coach Stan Macaitis might rather have stayed home and watched the Missouri-Alabama game on national television.

But 3,270 spectators ignored the lure of the collegiate upset and were treated to a powerful offensive show with East rolling to 502 yards total offense.

At the end of the rout, the Spartans had amassed an identical 251 yards on the ground and through the airways.

Waters threw from all 251 yards in the air connecting on 14 of 28 passes accounting for the first three East touchdowns, two to splitend Ken Rejda.

Second 100 Yards

Yowell turned in his second 100-yard plus rushing effort in four days earning 134 yards on 14 carries.

In East's disappointing 6-6 tie with North Platte Thursday, Yowell was contained much of the first half, but piled up more than 100 yards in the second half alone.

Contrary to his North Platte effort, Yowell wasted no time gaining yards Monday with 111 first-half yards in just 11 attempts for a 10 yard average.

Near the end of the first half with East leading 20-0 on three Waters' passes, two to Rejda for 15 and six yards and another to Dave Stear for 10 yards, Yowell blasted through the middle of the Gross line and rambled 38 yards for a touchdown giving East a 27-0 halftime lead, virtually sealing the victory.

Picked Apart

Even in the second half, Waters repeatedly picked the inexperienced Gross secondary apart for numerous completions.

"We were very young back there and it really showed up." Macaitis said. "I told Lee (East coach Lee Zentic) they ought to play every four days."

The domination of the Spartans impressed the Gross mentor.

"Their execution was very impressive for this early in the season," he said. "And they really finessed well. I wasn't disappointed with our kids. We had good offensive movement but we just couldn't keep it going."

East rebounded admirably after its disappointment last week.

"The kids were kind of unhappy after last Thursday at North Platte. They knew they didn't play very well," Zentic offered. "I thought we fired off the line a lot better tonight and Dave threw real well."

Could Move

Gross showed it could move the ball during the second half, but it was too late to start

"We had good movement then," Macaitis said. "But coming out 27-0 isn't anything like starting 0-0

"We were outplayed, outcoached and outscored." Macaitis said. "And I thought we were well prepared. We (the coaching staff) just weren't able to make the needed adjustments fast enough in the first half."

While Yowell rushed for 111 first-half yards. Waters was just under 200 passing with 10 of 17 for 180 yards.

No East player besides Rejda scored more than once with Brian Moreland and Craig Bohl picking up second half touchdowns.

The Spartans might have suffered the loss of its leading receivers when Rejda returned a kickoff in the second half and injured his collarbone.

Rejda Injured

"I'm afraid we might have lost Rejda for the year." Zentic said. "They took him for X-rays and he might have broken his collarbone "

Rejda, a 148-pound senior end, caught four passes for 54 yards and two touchdowns.

Neither team has much time for rest as Gross plays Omaha Northwest Thursday and East waits another four days to play Grand Island on Friday at Seacrest Field.

Monday's game was the season-opener for Gross putting its record at 0-1 while East improved its early season mark to 1-0-1.

Olshan Off To Good Start

Mort Olshan, nationally syndicated sports handicapper whose ratings will appear in The Lincoln Star for the second year in a row, got off to a good start in his first list of picks last Saturday. He had a perfect day.

"We have 'good feelings' about this season," Mort wrote last week when he sent his first "Pigskin Prophecy" of the season. That will be a regular Saturday morning feature in The Star throughout both the football and basketball seasons

Olshan has been handicapping football and basketball for 25 years, having started as editor of the Minneapolis Gridiron Record and Basketball Record He more recently has been editor and publisher of The Gold Sheet, and most famous and respected of all the publications of football and basketball in the nation.

Mort Olshan
Handicapper

Through the years, Olshan has developed some theories on forecasting sports events and has put his thoughts on paper in the form of a book published this month by Simon and Schuster. It's title is "Winning Theories of Sports Handicapping "

A football coach friend of mine, after reading Olshan's book, said he probably wouldn't have gone into coaching if he had been able to read it many years ago.

One of the chapters concerns what Olshan calls the "top ten" theory; another is "the Brown" theory. What they add up to is that the winners will keep winning and the losers will keep losing Unfortunately, my friend was coaching for a perennial loser.

Poor Vince Gibson

Speaking of losers, Vince Gibson coached last year at Kansas State, one of the "Brown" theory teams. Brown, incidentally, is the all-time last-place team in the Ivy League.

Vince won 33 games in eight seasons at Kansas State, which might not seem like many to Nebraska fans. But, consider the fact that in the 16 seasons before Gibson arrived in Manhattan, Kan., the Wildcats won a total of only 37 games.

Well, Gibson was fired, as all losers are, and took over at Louisville, which had some success under Lee Corso. But, and here's the problem Vince faces, Louisville's 1976 schedule includes such new opponents as Alabama, Pittsburgh, Rutgers and Boston University.

And, in 1977: Alabama and William and Mary; in 1978: Southern Methodist, Villanova and Maryland. Later on, the UL Cardinals will play such teams as Miami of Florida, Southern Mississippi, Duke, Florida State and Kansas.

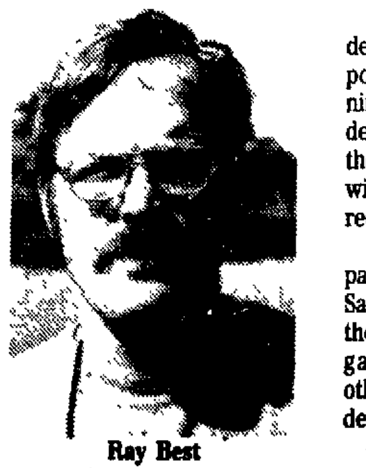
The current schedule opens Saturday against Western Kentucky and other games include Drake, Cincinnati, Wichita State, Memphis State, Mississippi State, Tulsa, Dayton and Northeast Louisiana.

That's more like Louisville's speed. The Cards were 4-7 last year with a similar card although they lost to three Southeastern Conference teams (Auburn 16-3, Vanderbilt 44-0, and Mississippi State 56-7.

Winner Best Changes According To Personnel

By KEN HAMBLETON
State College Writer

Doane football coach Ray Best didn't earn his 28-9-2 record over the past four years by sitting still.



Ray Best
Doane Coach

Best has changed the offense and defense subtly over the past seasons and this year is no exception, as he installed the veer into the Tiger offense.

"We felt that with our style of quarterbacks and running backs it was the offense most conducive to our success," said Best.

"With the exceptions of a number of little mistakes like being drawn offsides and other mental mistakes, we had a good start last weekend," Best said referring to Doane's 15-3 season opening win over Trinity University of Texas.

"We were disappointed with the first half, but we really got going with a good drive in the second half," Best noted. "Gary Knapp came off the bench and got things going for us."

Another boost for the Tigers was the strong performances of fullback Steve Schulz and freshman running back Ted Elm of North Platte, who accounted for 50 yards rushing and a 62-yard punt return.

"We have a lot of speed to run to the outside and with Schulz's blocking should have a lot of success there," Best said.

Best was pleased with the defense. "The defense scored six points and the offense only nine," Best said. Sophomore defensive end Jim Matese tallied the touchdown for the defense with a 56-yard return of a fumble recovery.

"We'll have to improve our pass rush for Chadron (Doane's Saturday foe in Crete) because they have such a good passing game," said Best. "But otherwise I was pleased with the defense."

"We'll also have to start on the right foot offensively, and not make those mental mistakes," he added.

Looking ahead to the Chadron game Best added, "they gave us something to remember last year when they won in the last 16 seconds." And Best isn't likely to let his team forget.

Another offensive surprise this past weekend was the Nebraska Wesleyan Plainsmen running up 409 total yards in scoring a 15-10 win over highly regarded Colorado College.

Junior quarterback Dan Klaus connected on 11 of 19 passes for 191 yards to pace the Plainsmen to their fifth win in a row over Colorado College since 1963.

Running backs Byron Stallworth and Paul Cramer accounted for most of the 218 rushing yards for the Plainsmen with Stallworth scoring a 41-yard touchdown.

In other games last weekend UNO upset North Dakota State behind the efforts of freshman back Harold Young who scored on a 29-yard reverse and Curt Bilka's 30-yard field goal. The win was the first for new coach Bill Danenhauer and the first win for UNO over N.D. State since 1940.

Midland started the season off with a powerful showing while tromping over Peru 54-26. Sophomore halfback Dexter Brown scored twice as did Rick Klugg, who also rolled up 128 yards in 11 carries. Gary Rosenbeck paced the losing Bobcats with three touchdowns.

Hastings also picked up where it left off last season with a 40-14 win over Benedictine (Kan.) as senior quarterback Rod Schultz fired three touchdown passes and freshman quarterback Tom Wissig fired for two more. The two quarterbacks combined for more than 300 passing yards to help the Broncos take a step towards improving on last year's passing offense which was ranked eighth in the NAIA final statistics.

While the Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference teams ran up four wins and one loss against non-conference foes, the Nebraska College Conference teams didn't fare as well. All four conference teams suffered defeats in their openers.

Gross showed it could move the ball during the second half, but it was too late to start.

"We had good movement then," Macaitis said. "But coming out 27-0 isn't anything like starting 0-0.

"We were outplayed, outcoached and outscored," Macaitis said. "And I thought we were well prepared. We (the coaching staff) just weren't able to make the needed adjustments fast enough in the first half."

While Yowell rushed for 111 first-half yards, Waters was just under 200 passing with 10 of 17 for 180 yards.

No East player besides Rejda scored more than once with Brian Moreland and Craig Bohl picking up second half touchdowns.

The Spartans might have suffered the loss of its leading receivers when Rejda returned a kickoff in the second half and injured his collarbone.

Rejda Injured

"I'm afraid we might have lost Rejda for the year," Zentic said. "They took him for X-rays and he might have broken his collarbone."

Rejda, a 148-pound senior end, caught four passes for 54 yards and two touchdowns.

Neither team has much time for rest as Gross plays Omaha Northwest Thursday and East waits another four days to play Grand Island on Friday at Seacrest Field.

Monday's game was the season-opener for Gross putting its record at 0-1 while East improved its early season mark to 1-0-1.

Olshan Off To Good Start

Mort Olshan, nationally syndicated sports handicapper whose ratings will appear in The Lincoln Star for the second year in a row, got off to a good start in his first list of picks last Saturday. He had a perfect day.

"We have 'good feelings' about this season," Mort wrote last week when he sent his first "Pigskin Prophecy" of the season. That will be a regular Saturday morning feature in The Star throughout both the football and basketball seasons.

Mort Olshan
Handicapper

Olshan has been handicapping football and basketball for 25 years, having started as editor of the Minneapolis Gridiron Record and Basketball Record. He more recently has been editor and publisher of The Gold Sheet, and most famous and respected of all the publications of football and basketball in the nation.

Through the years, Olshan has developed some theories on forecasting sports events and has put his thoughts on paper in the form of a book published this month by Simon and Schuster. It's title is "Winning Theories of Sports Handicapping."

A football coach friend of mine, after reading Olshan's book, said he probably wouldn't have gone into coaching if he had been able to read it many years ago.

One of the chapters concerns what Olshan calls the "top ten" theory; another is "the Brown" theory. What they add up to is that the winners will keep winning and the losers will keep losing. Unfortunately, my friend was coaching for a perennial loser.

Poor Vince Gibson

Speaking of losers, Vince Gibson coached last year at Kansas State, one of the "Brown" theory teams. Brown, incidentally, is the all-time last-place team in the Ivy League.

Vince won 33 games in eight seasons at Kansas State, which might not seem like many to Nebraska fans. But, consider the fact that in the 16 seasons before Gibson arrived in Manhattan, Kan., the Wildcats won a total of only 37 games.

Well, Gibson was fired, as all losers are, and took over at Louisville, which had some success under Lee Corso. But, and here's the problem Vince faces, Louisville's 1976 schedule includes such new opponents as Alabama, Pittsburgh, Rutgers and Boston University.

And, in 1977: Alabama and William and Mary; in 1978: Southern Methodist, Villanova and Maryland. Later on, the UL Cardinals will play such teams as Miami of Florida, Southern Mississippi, Duke, Florida State and Kansas.

The current schedule opens Saturday against Western Kentucky and other games include Drake, Cincinnati, Wichita State, Memphis State, Mississippi State, Tulsa, Dayton and Northeast Louisiana.

That's more like Louisville's speed. The Cards were 4-7 last year with a similar card although they lost to three Southeastern Conference teams (Auburn 16-3, Vanderbilt 44-0, and Mississippi State 56-7.

Winner Best Changes According To Personnel

Ray Best
Doane Coach

Doane football coach Ray Best didn't earn his 28-9-2 record over the past four years by sitting still.

Best has changed the offense and defense subtly over the past seasons and this year is no exception, as he installed the veer into the Tiger offense.

"We felt that with our style of quarterbacks and running backs it was the offense most conducive to our success," said Best.

"With the exceptions of a number of little mistakes like being drawn offsides and other mental mistakes, we had a good start last weekend," Best said referring to Doane's 15-3 season opening win over Trinity University of Texas.

"We were disappointed with the first half, but we really got going with a good drive in the second half," Best noted. "Gary Knapp came off the bench and got things going for us."

Another boost for the Tigers was the strong performances of fullback Steve Schulz and freshman running back Ted Elm of North Platte, who accounted for 50 yards rushing and a 62-yard punt return.

"We have a lot of speed to run to the outside and with Schulz's blocking should have a lot of success there," Best said.

Best was pleased with the defense. "The defense scored six points and the offense only nine," Best said. Sophomore defensive end Jim Matese tallied the touchdown for the defense with a 56-yard return of a fumble recovery.

"We'll have to improve our pass rush for Chadron (Doane's Saturday foe in Crete) because they have such a good passing game," said Best. "But otherwise I was pleased with the defense."

"We'll also have to start on the right foot offensively, and not make those mental mistakes," he added.

Looking ahead to the Chadron game Best added, "they gave us something to remember last year when they won in the last 16 seconds." And Best isn't likely to let his team forget.

Another offensive surprise this past weekend was the Nebraska Wesleyan Plainsmen running up 409 total yards in scoring a 15-10 win over highly regarded Colorado College.

Junior quarterback Dan Klaus connected on 11 of 19 passes for 191 yards to pace the Plainsmen to their fifth win in a row over Colorado College since 1963.

Running backs Byron Stallworth and Paul Cramer accounted for most of the 218 rushing yards for the Plainsmen with Stallworth scoring a 41-yard touchdown.

In other games last weekend UNO upset North Dakota State behind the efforts of freshman back Harold Young who scored on a 29-yard reverse and Curt Bilka's 30-yard field goal. The win was the first for new coach Bill Danenhauer and the first win for UNO over N.D. State since 1940.

Midland started the season off with a powerful showing while tromping over Peru 54-26. Sophomore halfback Dexter Brown scored twice as did Rick Klugg, who also rolled up 128 yards in 11 carries. Gary Rosenbeck paced the losing Bobcats with three touchdowns.

Hastings also picked up where it left off last season with a 40-14 win over Benedictine (Kan.) as senior quarterback Rod Schultz fired three touchdown passes and freshman quarterback Tom Wissig fired for two more. The two quarterbacks combined for more than 300 passing yards to help the Broncos take a step towards improving on last year's passing offense which was ranked eighth in the NAIA final statistics.

While the Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference teams ran up four wins and one loss against non-conference foes, the Nebraska College Conference teams didn't fare as well. All four conference teams suffered defeats in their openers.

Good, Ol' Sound Country Beating Bryant Claims

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — "All in all, it was a good ol' sound country beating," Coach Bear Bryant said of Missouri's 20-7 upset of his second-ranked Alabama football team Monday night.

Coach Al Onofrio of Missouri said, amid chants of "We're No. 1" in the winning dressing room, "I've never had a Missouri team fight any harder than this one."

Some Missouri players said they had been pointing to the game for a long time.

"I could have played them last Christmas," said Randy Frisch, a defensive tackle.

"We had been wanting this game since the end of last season," said Blaine Henningsen, a defensive end.

Onofrio said he was particularly proud of his team for fighting back after Alabama picked up some steam in the second half.

"I think we caught them by surprise in the first half and like a typical Alabama team they came back hard in the second half," he said.

Onofrio, whose team piled up 257 yards to only 118 for Alabama, said Bryant told him after the game, "You kicked the hell out of us; good luck."

Onofrio said Tigers halfback Tony Galbreath "proved he's one of the best runners in the country." Galbreath gained 120 yards on 32 carries and completed his only pass for 11 yards.

"It's a big deal to us because we wanted to show everyone we're a good team," Galbreath said. "We had good blocking and I had faith in our defense."

"We knew what we had to do and we just went out and did it," quarterback Steve Pisarkiewicz said.

The offense, he said, was geared to run right at Alabama early because of the Crimson Tide's excellent pursuit, "and it worked so well we just kept it up."

Onofrio said he rated the victory among the best in Missouri history. "Especially beating Alabama down here in Birmingham. By the time Alabama woke up, they had a good football team. But we met force with force in the second half."

In the subdued Alabama dressing room, Bryant said Missouri "ate us on the line of scrimmage, which is where it all starts; particularly their defense against our offense."

Bryant said he could not recall "anybody keeping the ball that much against us" in a decade. Missouri ran 75 plays to 57 for Alabama.

"I had no idea they would shut us off the way they did," Bryant said.

Braves' Spectators Very Few

By The Associated Press

Not too people saw it but Cesar Cedeno put on a one-man offensive show Monday night in leading the Houston Astros to a 9-6 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Before 737 spectators in Atlanta, Cedeno blasted two home runs and knocked in six runs to help rally the Astros over the Braves.

Cedeno's two-run double keyed a three-run Houston first, and his solo homer made it 4-0 in the third. But the Braves came back and a two-run homer by Darrel Evans in the seventh gave Atlanta a 5-4 lead.

Cedeno, however, wasn't finished entertaining the few fans who showed up. His three-run blast, his 11th homer of the season, put the Astros in front for good.

Elsewhere in the National League, Pittsburgh beat the Chicago Cubs 4-1, Philadelphia tripped St. Louis 6-3 and Montreal beat the New York Mets twice, 6-5 and 6-1.

In the American League, Cleveland beat Boston 4-1, the New York Yankees blanked Detroit 3-0 and Baltimore trimmed Milwaukee 6-2.

Dock Ellis and Ramon Hernandez combined on a six-hitter and Al Oliver sparked a three-run rally with a triple to lead Pittsburgh past Chicago.

Ellis, making his first start since the Pirates lifted his suspension Aug. 30, pitched six full innings in helping Pittsburgh to its fourth victory in a row.

The victory, coupled with St. Louis' loss to Philadelphia left the the second-place Cardinals 6½ games behind the Pirates in the NL East.

Greg Luzinski cracked a single and double, driving in three runs in Philadelphia's victory. Luzinski upped his NL leading total of runs batted in to 110.

Pat Scanlon's bases-loaded single in the ninth gave Montreal the opener and Don Carrithers' eight-hitter in the second game sent the Mets to their seventh doubleheader loss of the year.

Don Hood outdueled Rick Wise and Cleveland took advantage of three Boston errors in the fourth inning to beat the Red Sox. John Lowenstein smacked a solo homer for the Indians.

Rudy May tossed a seven-hitter and Graig Nettles blasted a solo home run to pace Yankees past Detroit. Mickey Lolich, 11-17, served up the home run pitch to Nettles, his 19th homer of the year.

Tommy Davis had three hits, including a two-run homer, and Mike Torrez pitched a six-hitter to carry Baltimore past Milwaukee.

The victory and Boston's loss left the Orioles six games back of the first-place Red Sox with 20 games to play for both teams in the AL East.

LSU Foursome To Miss Game

Baton Rouge, La. (UPI) — Louisiana State's young football squad held a lengthy workout Monday to prepare for Saturday's season opener against Nebraska.

"This is a young team, the youngest I have had in my 14 seasons as head coach," said coach Charles McClendon. "But these kids have great spirit and they're itching for the season to get under way."

McClendon said nagging knee injuries will prevent four starters from last year's offensive unit from making the Nebraska trip.

They are split end Richard Romain, center Greg Bienvenu, guard Steve Ferrer and tight end Mitch Dinkle.

Galbreath Throws Pass

Blakeman's run, was set up by a beutiful fake by Missouri quarterback Steve Pisarkiewicz.

Alabama, which gained only a total of 56 yards in the first half, launched its only symbalnce of an offense after Missouri had taken a 17-0 lead, but bogged down at the Tiger 41, Alabama's deepest penetration in the first half.

The only time Missouri failed to score in the first half came when Galbreath was forced to leave the game temporarily after being shaken up, but the Tigers got the ball back two plays later on a pass interception by Kenny Downing. The Tigers, helped by Galbreath's pass completion, moved to the Alabama 29 and Gibbons made it 20-0 with 1:40 left before the half with his second field goal.

Alabama, which saw its hopes for a fourth perfect regular season in five years end in a hurry, started getting the breaks in the second half, but couldn't do much with them.

A bad snap from center on an attempted Missouri punt gave the Tide the ball at the Missouri 24 early in the third period and four plays later they turned the ball over at the 22. The next time Alabama got the ball, it marched to the Missouri 27 before running out of downs.

Alabama recovered two Missouri fumbles early in the final period, and it was after the second recovery that three straight pass completions by Todd gave the Tide their only score.

Alabama's last chance came on a pass interception at the Missouri 43 three plays after its touchdown. But although the Tide drove to the Missouri 24, the Tigers pushed them all the way back to their 48 by sacking Todd twice for long losses while he was trying to pass.

Missouri dominated the final half of the final period, and was on the Alabama 10-yard line when the game ended.

Soccer Team Gains Victories

The University of Nebraska soccer club opened its season with two victories last week.

The NU squad downed UNO in Omaha, 5-2, then topped Seward Concordia, 5-1, last Saturday.

Hugo Hamdan paced the Huskers with three goals against Concordia, while Dave Egr and Jose Diez each had one.

Nebraska will next be in action this Saturday in a four-team tournament at Concordia. NU plays Dana College, with the host school and York College tangling in the other opening round game. The winners meet later in the day for the title.

Race Group Slates Meeting

Omaha — The Nebraska State Racing Commission is scheduled to hear five hearings at a 9 a.m. meeting on Sept. 18 at 9700 West Dodge Road.

The hearings involved owner-trainer Tony Veneziano, pony boy Jerry Breemes, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Masters, tack shop operator Jerry Gitter and Richard Boushka and H.A. Mayor Jr. owners of the horse Bold Trap.

A report on the recently-completed Broken Bow quarter horse meeting and a discussion of the Sept. 16 election for Sunday racing in Dakota County is also on the agenda.

Good, Ol' Sound Country Beating Bryant Claims

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — "All in all, it was a good ol' sound country beating," Coach Bear Bryant said of Missouri's 20-7 upset of his second-ranked Alabama football team Monday night.

Coach Al Onofrio of Missouri said, amid chants of "We're No. 1" in the winning dressing room, "I've never had a Missouri team fight any harder than this one."

Some Missouri players said they had been pointing to the game for a long time.

"I could have played them last Christmas," said Randy Frisch, a defensive tackle.

"We had been wanting this game since the end of last season," said Blaine Henningsen, a defensive end.

Onofrio said he was particularly proud of his team for fighting back after Alabama picked up some steam in the second half.

"I think we caught them by surprise in the first half and like a typical Alabama team they came back hard in the second half," he said.

Onofrio, whose team piled up 257 yards to only 118 for Alabama, said Bryant told him after the game, "You kicked the hell out of us; good luck."

Onofrio said Tigers halfback Tony Galbreath "proved he's one of the best runners in the country." Galbreath gained 120 yards on 32 carries and completed his only pass for 11 yards.

"It's a big deal to us because we wanted to show everyone we're a good team," Galbreath said. "We had good blocking and I had faith in our defense."

"We knew what we had to do and we just went out and did it," quarterback Steve Pisarkiewicz said.

The offense, he said, was geared to run right at Alabama early because of the Crimson Tide's excellent pursuit, "and it worked so well we just kept it up."

Onofrio said he rated the victory among the best in Missouri history. "Especially beating Alabama down here in Birmingham. By the time Alabama woke up, they had a good football team. But we met force with force in the second half."

In the subdued Alabama dressing room, Bryant said Missouri "ate us on the line of scrimmage, which is where it all starts; particularly their defense against our offense."

Bryant said he could not recall "anybody keeping the ball that much against us" in a decade. Missouri ran 75 plays to 57 for Alabama.

"I had no idea they would shut us off the way they did," Bryant said.

Braves' Spectators Very Few

By The Associated Press

Not too people saw it but Cesar Cedeno put on a one-man offensive show Monday night in leading the Houston Astros to a 9-6 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Before 737 spectators in Atlanta, Cedeno blasted two home runs and knocked in six runs to help rally the Astros over the Braves.

Cedeno's two-run double keyed a three-run Houston first, and his solo homer made it 4-0 in the third. But the Braves came back and a two-run homer by Darrel Evans in the seventh gave Atlanta a 5-4 lead.

Cedeno, however, wasn't finished entertaining the few fans who showed up. His three-run blast, his 11th homer of the season, put the Astros in front for good.

Elsewhere in the National League, Pittsburgh beat the Chicago Cubs 4-1, Philadelphia tripped St. Louis 6-3 and Montreal beat the New York Mets twice, 6-5 and 6-1.

In the American League, Cleveland beat Boston 4-1, the New York Yankees blanked Detroit 3-0 and Baltimore trimmed Milwaukee 6-2.

Dock Ellis and Ramon Hernandez combined on a six-hitter and Al Oliver sparked a three-run rally with a triple to lead Pittsburgh past Chicago.

Ellis, making his first start since the Pirates lifted his suspension Aug. 30, pitched six full innings in helping Pittsburgh to its fourth victory in a row.

The victory, coupled with St. Louis' loss to Philadelphia left the the second-place Cardinals 6½ games behind the Pirates in the NL East.

Greg Luzinski cracked a single and double, driving in three runs in Philadelphia's victory. Luzinski upped his NL leading total of runs batted in to 110.

Pat Scanlon's bases-loaded single in the ninth gave Montreal the opener and Don Carrithers' eight-hitter in the second game sent the Mets to their seventh doubleheader loss of the year.

Don Hood outdueled Rick Wise and Cleveland took advantage of three Boston errors in the fourth inning to beat the Red Sox. John Lowenstein smacked a solo homer for the Indians.

Rudy May tossed a seven-hitter and Graig Nettles blasted a solo home run to pace Yankees past Detroit. Mickey Lolich, 11-17, served up the home run pitch to Nettles, his 19th homer of the year.

Tommy Davis had three hits, including a two-run homer, and Mike Torrez pitched a six-hitter to carry Baltimore past Milwaukee.

The victory and Boston's loss left the Orioles six games back of the first-place Red Sox with 20 games to play for both teams in the AL East.

LSU Foursome To Miss Game

Baton Rouge, La. (UPI) — Louisiana State's young football squad held a lengthy workout Monday to prepare for Saturday's season opener against Nebraska.

"This is a young team, the youngest I have had in my 14 seasons as head coach," said coach Charles McClendon. "But these kids have great spirit and they're itching for the season to get under way."

McClendon said nagging knee injuries will prevent four starters from last year's offensive unit from making the Nebraska trip.

They are split end Richard Romain, center Greg Bienvenu, guard Steve Ferrer and tight end Mitch Dinkle.

Galbreath Throws Pass

Blakeman's run, was set up by a beutiful fake by Missouri quarterback Steve Pisarkiewicz.

Alabama, which gained only a total of 56 yards in the first half, launched its only symbalnce of an offense after Missouri had taken a 17-0 lead, but bogged down at the Tiger 41, Alabama's deepest penetration in the first half.

The only time Missouri failed to score in the first half came when Galbreath was forced to leave the game temporarily after being shaken up, but the Tigers got the ball back two plays later on a pass interception by Kenny Downing. The Tigers, helped by Galbreath's pass completion, moved to the Alabama 29 and Gibbons made it 20-0 with 1:40 left before the half with his second field goal.

Alabama, which saw its hopes for a fourth perfect regular season in five years end in a hurry, started getting the breaks in the second half, but couldn't do much with them.

A bad snap from center on an attempted Missouri punt gave the Tide the ball at the Missouri 24 early in the third period and four plays later they turned the ball over at the 22. The next time Alabama got the ball, it marched to the Missouri 27 before running out of downs.

Alabama recovered two Missouri fumbles early in the final period, and it was after the second recovery that three straight pass completions by Todd gave the Tide their only score.

Alabama's last chance came on a pass interception at the Missouri 43 three plays after its touchdown. But although the Tide drove to the Missouri 24, the Tigers pushed them all the way back to their 48 by sacking Todd twice for long losses while he was trying to pass.

Missouri dominated the final half of the final period, and was on the Alabama 10-yard line when the game ended.

Soccer Team Gains Victories

The University of Nebraska soccer club opened its season with two victories last week.

The NU squad downed UNO in Omaha, 5-2, then topped Seward Concordia, 5-1, last Saturday.

Hugo Hamdan paced the Huskers with three goals against Concordia, while Dave Egr and Jose Diez each had one.

Nebraska will next be in action this Saturday in a four-team tournament at Concordia. NU plays Dana College, with the host school and York College tangling in the other opening round game. The winners meet later in the day for the title.

Race Group Slates Meeting

Omaha — The Nebraska State Racing Commission is scheduled to hear five hearings at a 9 a.m. meeting on Sept. 18 at 9700 West Dodge Road.

The hearings involved owner-trainer Tony Veneziano, pony boy Jerry Breemes, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Masters, tack shop operator Jerry Gitter and Richard Boushka and H.A. Mayor Jr. owners of the horse Bold Trap.

A report on the recently-completed Broken Bow quarter horse meeting and a discussion of the Sept. 16 election for Sunday racing in Dakota County is also on the agenda.

A Sports Roundup

FOOTBALL

Good luck seems to be the Baylor Bears' middle name. Just hours after coach Grant Teaff was told starting quarterback Mark Jackson broke his shoulder and would be out for the year, the Baylor trainer said X-rays showed the shoulder was just separated and Jackson would be back by the middle of October.

Ohio State coach Woody Hayes, saying he was abiding by a request from the Michigan State University president, declined to comment on whether he was responsible for the NCAA investigation of alleged recruiting violations against MSU. The NCAA executive director Walter Byers came to Hayes' defense and said the Ohio State mentor wasn't responsible for the probe.

Purdue football coach Alex Agase said he will dress 60 players for home games, but doubts he will play more than for road games 48 — as specified by new NCAA limits. "Now we won't be able to use those players even at home games because a coach can't afford to change his specialty teams from week to week," Agase said.

New England Patriots quarterback Jim Plunkett will undergo surgery to repair the left shoulder he separated in Sunday's exhibition game.

After being treated for an intestinal virus, Pittsburgh Steeler quarterback Terry Bradshaw was released and took part in a light drill.

The Chicago Bears released veterans Charlie Wade and Perry Williams and rookie Eddie Sheats, a linebacker from Kansas, on waivers.

Kermit Alexander, president of the NFL Players Association, asked the NFL owners to maintain the 47 man squad limit for the 1975 season because of the number of "serious injuries" to first line players this year.

The Buffalo Bills signed free agent Charlie Ford to help shore up an injury-riddled defensive backfield.

Emory Ratcliffe, Fresno State University's first football coach and one of its most ardent sports fans, has died at the age of 96.

Bleeding of the heart muscle, not a heart attack, caused the death of Chris Angeloff, the 20-year-old University of Akron football player who collapsed during a game Saturday.

Players could move a step closer to their freedom in the English Soccer League under revolutionary proposals in the Professional Footballers Association which seek to implement a free agent status simular to the one in American football.

Miami Dolphins coach Don Shula said he is considering placing linebacker Nick Buoniconti and safety Dick Anderson on the injured reserve list, which would make them ineligible for the season. Buoniconti broke his thumb and will be out for at least six weeks and Anderson reinjured his knee and will sit out six to eight weeks for cartilage damage to heal.

BASEBALL

The Texas Rengers said their No. 1 draft choice, Jim Gideon of the University of Texas, will pitch his first major league baseball game Saturday against Chicago. Gideon helped lift Texas to the College World Series title last spring.

Cincinnati first baseman Tony Perez was named National League "Player of the Month" for his .398 batting average in August, which included three homers and 26 RBI's.

The American League player of the week was the New York Yankees' Catfish Hunter, who pitched two shutouts to become a 20-game winner for the fifth straight time.

OTHER SPORTS

The Cincinnati Reds, who have attracted a club record 2,196.115 fans this year, are also receiving a record 125,000 ticket requests for the upcoming National League playoffs.

The Texas Rangers will obtain Oakland catcher Ray Fosse in return for Cesar Tovar, who was traded to the A's last week.

The Minnesota Fighting Saints and the WHA virtually lost all hope for a chance to sign superstar Bobby Orr of the Boston Bruins. Indications are that Orr will sign with Boston this week.

Norval J. Ritchey, the athletic director at the University of Oregon for the past five years, resigned and will accept a new position within the school's administration.

Hubert Green, winner of the Southern Open, is the latest pro golfer to join the tour's $100,000 money winning list for 1975. Although Green jumped to $110,298, it didn't change the top ten list. Jack Nicklaus is first with $251,849.

Nicklaus is followed by Hale Irwin with $205,015; Tom Weiskopf, $204,940; Johnny Miller, $190,035; Gene Littler, $173,608; Al Gieberger, $170,957; Tom Watson, $152,287; John Mahaffey, $130,515; Bruce Crampton, $126,775 and Bob Murphy, $126.731. Watson earned $50,000 for the World Series of Golf, but that money is not counted in official tour winnings.

The New York Nets traded center Bill Paultz to the San Antonio Spurs for four players, including 6-8 forward Rich Jones.

Bjorn Borg, Birger Andersson, Ove Bengston and Rolf Norberg were named to the Swedish Davis Cup team which will meet Chile in the best-of-five matches Sept. 19-21.

The deadline for negotiating live world television coverage of next year's Montreal Olympic Gemes was extended for one week.

Lightheavyweights Mike Quarry of Orlando, Fla., and Mike Rossman of Turnersville, N.J., will meet in a 10-round fight at Madison Square Garden on Sept. 30.

Billy Bremner and four other Scottish International Soccer players have been banned for life from playing for Scotland, the Scottish Football Association said.

Sooners To Start Frosh Duo

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Injuries will force No. 1 ranked Oklahoma to start a pair of freshman Saturday in the Sooners' season-opening game with Oregon, coach Barry Switzer said Monday.

They will be linebacker Daryl Hunt and tight end Victor Hicks, both from Texas prep circles.

Those two areas have caused Switzer the deepest concern in spring practice and that concern was heightened by injuries to Bill Dahlke, who had the best spring of all Sooner linebackers, and tight end Reggie Mathis, a JUCO transfer counted on heavily.

Jamie Thomas will be the other linebacker. He is the only linebacker with any game experience because of the void created by the graduation of All-American Rod Shoate and Gary Gibbs.

Switzer said other linebacking prospects, including redshirt soph Obie Moore, have looked good in some practices, "but Hunt and Thomas have been the most consistent."

He said it was difficult to evaluate Oregon, 2-9 a year ago, but noted they played Southern California a tough game, losing 16-7 late last season. He singled out cornerback Mario Clark as "probably their best pro prospect."

Switzer said the Ducks operate a 5-2 defense similar to the Sooners' and work out of a pro set and I-formation on offense, sometimes running the Houston veer.

He said he did not know much about their kicking game, but hoped "they can punt it about 45 yards in three seconds down there to Joe Washington."

Switzer has indicated Washington may seen more duty than in past seasons because of the NCAA player limits, a tougher schedule, and also because his limited duty last season hurt his Heisman Trophy chances.

But when asked if Washington will still be in the lineup if Oklahoma jumps out to a 45-0 lead, he said. "No he will not...If Oregon jumps out to a 45-0 lead, then you'll see him a lot."

Asked what the OU coaches could do to help enhance Washington's chances of of winning' the coveted trophy, Switzer shrugged, then added the Sooners had one play in which "Joe is going to snap the ball and run back and punt it. That should about cinch it for him."

Switzer indicated he felt better about the offense after a good effort Saturday. Joining Washington in the backfield will be returning starters Steve Dacis at quarterback and Jim Littrell at fullback and soph sensation Elvis Peacock at the other halfback spot. Switzer said redshirt halfback Horace Ivory also will see action "early in the ball game . . . I'm not afraid to play him anytime.

Colts' Jones Riddles Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Baltimore quarterback Bert Jones riddled Houston's disorganized defense for 20 points in the second quarter to lead the Colts to a 26-21 National Football League preseason victory over the Oilers Monday night.

The Colts, who had scored only 16 points since the first week of the preseason, rallied in the second period after the Oilers took a 7-0 lead on a 12-yard touchdown pass from Lynn Dickey to running back Fred Willis.

Toni Linhart's 45-yard field goal early in the second quarter started the Colts' decisive spurt.

Jones, who completed 13 of 19 first-half passes, engineered the Colts to 17 points over the final 5:58 of the second quarter. Jones hit running back Lydell Mitchell on a 10-yard toss for the go-ahead touchdown at 5:58.

Following a 44-yard pass interference penalty against Houston's Zeke Moore that put the ball on the Oilers' one-yard line, rookie Roosevelt Leaks scored with 1:07 left in the half.

Houston rookie Don Hardeman fumbled on the Oilers' second play following the ensuing kickoff to set up a 42-yard field goal by Linhart as time expired in the half.

Baltimore extended its lead in the second half as Jones scored on a four-yard run. The Oilers countered with Dan Pastorini's 30-yard aerial strike to tight end John Sawyer.

The Oilers made it close in the final minutes after they blocked a Baltimore punt and Pastorini hit Billy Parks with a 24-yard touchdown pass with 3:05 left.

The Oilers' fourth-quarter rally ended with 1:26 left in the game when Baltimore cornerback Nelson Munsey intercepted a Pastorini pass and returned it 18 yards to the Houston 14.

That interception ended a string 140 passes by Oiler quarterbacks without an interception.

Oiler mistakes resulted 10 points for the Colts, who upped their preseason record to 2-3. Hardeman's second-quarter fumble set up Linhart's second field goal, and a blocked punt by Baltimore's Steve Williams resulted in Jones' third-period touchdown run.

The Oilers, who won seven of their last eight games last season and opened with two straight victories in the preseason, now have lost three in a row for a 2-3 record.

Kansas-Husker Tickets Sold

Lawrence, Kan. (AP) — Kansas has sold out its ticket allotment for the Oct. 11 football game at Nebraska but says it has tickets for all other home and away games.

Doug Messer, assistant athletic director, said the game with Kansas State Nov. 1 at Lawrence is approaching a sellout and all tickets are expected to be sold in a couple weeks.

He said ticket sales for Jayhawk football are up more than five per cent above last year.

'Pokes Pick Quarterback, Tri-Captains

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP)—Charlie Weatherbie was selected as Oklahoma State's starting quarterback against Wichita State and tri-captains were also chosen following the Cowboy's practice Monday.

"Who is going to start at quarterback? Most likely, it will be Charlie," said head coach Jim Stanley. "He executed best in our last scrimmage. But count on seeing Scott Burk in there too. We told all of them we'd probably go through the Wichita game before we make a decision."

Seniors James White, Brent Robinson, and Gary Chlouber were selected as tri-captains for the season. "It was tough choosing the captains but I think the players made a good decision," Stanley said. "These men have shown a lot of leadership this year."

Reserve offensive tackle Robert James was lost for the season following knee surgery Monday morning. The sophomore from Colorado Springs, Colo., sustained the injury in Saturday's scrimmage.

Thunder's Barton Fired As Coach

Portland, Oreg. (AP) — Greg Barton, 29-year-old head coach of the Portland Thunder, was fired by the World Football League team Monday night after a four-month career during which his team recorded one win and five losses.

Bob Brodhead, Thunder general manager who fired Barton, said he would personally take over as interim head coach until a replacement for Barton could be found.

Cyclones Gain, Lose Players

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Iowa State's football squad regained the services of two regulars Monday but may have lost a squad member for the rest of the season.

Offensive tackle Randy Young and linebacker Greg Pittman, injured in a scrimmage last week, practiced lightly Monday, and Coach Earle Bruce said both should be at full speed for Tuesday's workout.

Reserve defensive back Wayne Lyles may be lost indefinitely after reinjuring a knee Monday.

Broncos' Anderson Traded To Dallas

Denver (UPI) — Denver Broncos fullback Bobby Anderson, a local favorite since his prep days at nearby Boulder High School, said Monday he was traded to Dallas and hoped he could develop into a "Walt Garrison" type running back for the Cowboys.

Neither team would comment on the trade, but sources said the Broncos received a future draft choice for Anderson, who was a consensus all-America quarterback at the University of Colorado in 1969. A formal announcement was expected Tuesday.

13 Benefits of MICROFILM!
Here are three of them

1. Security
Your business files should be available to authorized people only They should be protected from fire and theft Insulated locking file cabinets are expensive, compared to placing your microfilm records in existing safe or dinsulated files.

2. Easy conversion to paper.
Microfilm records are easily converted to paper via the copying process. No time wasted in putting files back in order. Microfilm records may be converted to rapid computer print out at much higher speeds than a normal computer printer.

3. Dimensional Uniformity.

Good luck seems to be the Baylor Bears' middle name. Just hours after coach Grant Teaff was told starting quarterback Mark Jackson broke his shoulder and would be out for the year, the Baylor trainer said X-rays showed the shoulder was just separated and Jackson would be back by the middle of October.

Ohio State coach Woody Hayes, saying he was abiding by a request from the Michigan State University president, declined to comment on whether he was responsible for the NCAA investigation of alleged recruiting violations against MSU. The NCAA executive director Walter Byers came to Hayes' defense and said the Ohio State mentor wasn't responsible for the probe.

Purdue football coach Alex Agase said he will dress 60 players for home games, but doubts he will play more than for road games 48 — as specified by new NCAA limits. "Now we won't be able to use those players even at home games because a coach can't afford to change his specialty teams from week to week," Agase said.

New England Patriots quarterback Jim Plunkett will undergo surgery to repair the left shoulder he separated in Sunday's exhibition game.

After being treated for an intestinal virus, Pittsburgh Steeler quarterback Terry Bradshaw was released and took part in a light drill.

The Chicago Bears released veterans Charlie Wade and Perry Williams and rookie Eddie Sheats, a linebacker from Kansas, on waivers.

Kermit Alexander, president of the NFL Players Association, asked the NFL owners to maintain the 47 man squad limit for the 1975 season because of the number of "serious injuries" to first line players this year.

The Buffalo Bills signed free agent Charlie Ford to help shore up an injury-riddled defensive backfield.

Emory Ratcliffe, Fresno State University's first football coach and one of its most ardent sports fans, has died at the age of 96.

Bleeding of the heart muscle, not a heart attack, caused the death of Chris Angeloff, the 20-year-old University of Akron football player who collapsed during a game Saturday.

Players could move a step closer to their freedom in the English Soccer League under revolutionary proposals in the Professional Footballers Association which seek to implement a free agent status similar to the one in American football.

Miami Dolphins coach Don Shula said he is considering placing linebacker Nick Buoniconti and safety Dick Anderson on the injured reserve list, which would make them ineligible for the season. Buoniconti broke his thumb and will be out for at least six weeks and Anderson reinjured his knee and will sit out six to eight weeks for cartilage damage to heal.

BASEBALL

The Texas Rengers said their No. 1 draft choice, Jim Gideon of the University of Texas, will pitch his first major league baseball game Saturday against Chicago. Gideon helped lift Texas to the College World Series title last spring.

Cincinnati first baseman Tony Perez was named National League "Player of the Month" for his .398 batting average in August, which included three homers and 26 RBI's.

The American League player of the week was the New York Yankees' Catfish Hunter, who pitched two shutouts to become a 20-game winner for the fifth straight time.

OTHER SPORTS

The Cincinnati Reds, who have attracted a club record 2,196,115 fans this year, are also receiving a record 125,000 ticket requests for the upcoming National League playoffs.

The Texas Rangers will obtain Oakland catcher Ray Fosse in return for Cesar Tovar, who was traded to the A's last week.

The Minnesota Fighting Saints and the WHA virtually lost all hope for a chance to sign superstar Bobby Orr of the Boston Bruins. Indications are that Orr will sign with Boston this week.

Norval J. Ritchey, the athletic director at the University of Oregon for the past five years, resigned and will accept a new position within the school's administration.

Hubert Green, winner of the Southern Open, is the latest pro golfer to join the tour's $100,000 money winning list for 1975. Although Green jumped to $110,298, it didn't change the top ten list. Jack Nicklaus is first with $251,849.

Nicklaus is followed by Hale Irwin with $205,015; Tom Weiskopf, $204,940; Johnny Miller, $190,035; Gene Littler, $173,608; Al Gieberger, $170,957; Tom Watson, $152,287; John Mahaffey, $130,515; Bruce Crampton, $126,775 and Bob Murphy, $126,731. Watson earned $50,000 for the World Series of Golf, but that money is not counted in official tour winnings.

The New York Nets traded center Bill Paultz to the San Antonio Spurs for four players, including 6-8 forward Rich Jones.

Bjorn Borg, Birger Andersson, Ove Bengston and Rolf Norberg were named to the Swedish Davis Cup team which will meet Chile in the best-of-five matches Sept. 19-21.

The deadline for negotiating live world television coverage of next year's Montreal Olympic Gemes was extended for one week.

Lightheavyweights Mike Quarry of Orlando, Fla., and Mike Rossman of Turnersville, N.J., will meet in a 10-round fight at Madison Square Garden on Sept. 30.

Billy Bremner and four other Scottish International Soccer players have been banned for life from playing for Scotland, the Scottish Football Association said.

Sooners To Start Frosh Duo

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Injuries will force No. 1 ranked Oklahoma to start a pair of freshman Saturday in the Sooners' season-opening game with Oregon, coach Barry Switzer said Monday.

They will be linebacker Daryl Hunt and tight end Victor Hicks, both from Texas prep circles.

Those two areas have caused Switzer the deepest concern in spring practice and that concern was heightened by injuries to Bill Dahlke, who had the best spring of all Sooner linebackers, and tight end Reggie Mathis, a JUCO transfer counted on heavily.

Jamie Thomas will be the other linebacker. He is the only linebacker with any game efperience because of the void created by the graduation of All-American Rod Shoate and Gary Gibbs.

Switzer said other linebacking prospects, including redshirt soph Obie Moore, have looked good in some practices, "but Hunt and Thomas have been the most consistent."

He said it was difficult to evaluate Oregon, 2-9 a year ago, but noted they played Southern California a tough game, losing 16-7 late last season. He singled out cornerback Mario Clark as "probably their best pro prospect."

Switzer said the Ducks operate a 5-2 defense similar to the Sooners' and work out of a pro set and I-formation on offense, sometimes running the Houston veer.

He said he did not know much about their kicking game, but hoped "they can punt it about 45 yards in three seconds down there to Joe Washington."

Switzer has indicated Washington may seen more duty than in past seasons because of the NCAA player limits, a tougher schedule, and also because his limited duty last season hurt his Heisman Trophy chances.

But when asked if Washington will still be in the lineup if Oklahoma jumps out to a 45-0 lead, he said. "No he will not...If Oregon jumps out to a 45-0 lead, then you'll see him a lot."

Asked what the OU coaches could do to help enhance Washington's chances of of winning' the coveted trophy, Switzer shrugged, then added the Sooners had one play in which "Joe is going to snap the ball and run back and punt it. That should about cinch it for him."

Switzer indicated he felt better about the offense after a good effort Saturday. Joining Washington in the backfield will be returning starters Steve Dacis at quarterback and Jim Littrell at fullback and soph sensation Elvis Peacock at the other halfback spot. Switzer said redshirt halfback Horace Ivory also will see action "early in the ball game . . . I'm not afraid to play him anytime.

Colts' Jones Riddles Houston

HOUSTÓN (AP) — Baltimore quarterback Bert Jones riddled Houston's disorganized defense for 20 points in the second quarter to lead the Colts to a 26-21 National Football League preseason victory over the Oilers Monday night.

The Colts, who had scored only 16 points since the first week of the preseason, rallied in the second period after the Oilers took a 7-0 lead on a 12-yard touchdown pass from Lynn Dickey to running back Fred Willis.

Toni Linhart's 45-yard field goal early in the second quarter started the Colts' decisive spurt.

Jones, who completed 13 of 19 first-half passes, engineered the Colts to 17 points over the final 5:58 of the second quarter. Jones hit running back Lydell Mitchell on a 10-yard toss for the go-ahead touchdown at 5:58.

Following a 44-yard pass interference penalty against Houston's Zeke Moore that put the ball on the Oilers' one-yard line, rookie Roosevelt Leaks scored with 1:07 left in the half.

Houston rookie Don Hardeman fumbled on the Oilers' second play following the ensuing kickoff to set up a 42-yard field goal by Linhart as time expired in the half.

Baltimore extended its lead in the second half as Jones scored on a four-yard run. The Oilers countered with Dan Pastorini's 30-yard aerial strike to tight end John Sawyer.

The Oilers made it close in the final minutes after they blocked a Baltimore punt and Pastorini hit Billy Parks with a 24-yard touchdown pass with 3:05 left.

The Oilers' fourth-quarter rally ended with 1:26 left in the game when Baltimore cornerback Nelson Munsey intercepted a Pastorini pass and returned it 18 yards to the Houston 14.

That interception ended a string 140 passes by Oiler quarterbacks without an interception.

Oiler mistakes resulted 10 points for the Colts, who upped their preseason record to 2-3. Hardeman's second-quarter fumble set up Linhart's second field goal, and a blocked punt by Baltimore's Steve Williams resulted in Jones' third-period touchdown run.

The Oilers, who won seven of their last eight games last season and opened with two straight victories in the preseason, now have lost three in a row for a 2-3 record.

Kansas-Husker Tickets Sold

Lawrence, Kan. (AP) — Kansas has sold out its ticket allotment for the Oct. 11 football game at Nebraska but says it has tickets for all other home and away games.

Doug Messer, assistant athletic director, said the game with Kansas State Nov. 1 at Lawrence is approaching a sellout and all tickets are expected to be sold in a couple weeks.

He said ticket sales for Jayhawk football are up more than five per cent above last year.

'Pokes Pick Quarterback, Tri-Captains

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP)—Charlie Weatherbie was selected as Oklahoma State's starting quarterback against Wichita State and tri-captains were also chosen following the Cowboy's practice Monday.

"Who is going to start at quarterback? Most likely, it will be Charlie," said head coach Jim Stanley. "He executed best in our last scrimmage. But count on seeing Scott Burk in there too. We told all of them we'd probably go through the Wichita game before we make a decision."

Seniors James White, Brent Robinson, and Gary Chlouber were selected as tri-captains for the season. "It was tough choosing the captains but I think the players made a good decision," Stanley said. "These men have shown a lot of leadership this year."

Reserve offensive tackle Robert James was lost for the season following knee surgery Monday morning. The sophomore from Colorado Springs, Colo., sustained the injury in Saturday's scrimmage.

Thunder's Barton Fired As Coach

Portland, Oreg. (AP) — Greg Barton, 29-year-old head coach of the Portland Thunder, was fired by the World Football League team Monday night after a four-month career during which his team recorded one win and five losses.

Bob Brodhead, Thunder general manager who fired Barton, said he would personally take over as interim head coach until a replacement for Barton could be found.

Cyclones Gain, Lose Players

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Iowa State's football squad regained the services of two regulars Monday but may have lost a squad member for the rest of the season.

Offensive tackle Randy Young and linebacker Greg Pittman, injured in a scrimmage last week, practiced lightly Monday, and Coach Earle Bruce said both should be at full speed for Tuesday's workout.

Reserve defensive back Wayne Lyles may be lost indefinitely after reinjuring a knee Monday.

Broncos' Anderson Traded To Dallas

Denver (UPI) — Denver Broncos fullback Bobby Anderson, a local favorite since his prep days at nearby Boulder High School, said Monday he was traded to Dallas and hoped he could develop into a "Walt Garrison" type running back for the Cowboys.

Neither team would comment on the trade, but sources said the Broncos received a future draft choice for Anderson, who was a consensus all-America quarterback at the University of Colorado in 1969. A formal announcement was expected Tuesday.

13 Benefits of MICROFILM!
Here are three of them
1. Security
Your business files should be available to authorized people only. They should be protected from fire and theft. Insulated locking file cabinets are expensive, compared to placing your microfilm records in existing safe or dinsulated files.
2. Easy conversion to paper.
Microfilm records are easily converted to paper via the copying process. No time wasted in putting files back in order. Microfilm records may be converted to rapid computer print out at much higher speeds than a normal computer printer.
3. Dimensional Uniformity.

Market Letters Vary In Accuracy, Mood

By JANE BRYANT QUINN

Jane Bryant Quinn

New York — The crazy swings in stock prices over the past 10 years have made investors more dependent on professional advice. But how good is the advice they get?

Forecasts put out by brokerage houses have a strong bias in favor of buying, no matter what the market weather. So investors in search of a more independent opinion usually turn to market letters.

Financial World magazine recently compared the record of eight popular market letters over the past two years.

They made no attempt to evaluate the performance of the writers' favored stocks. Instead, they judged whether the letter (1) got its subscribers out of the market in late 1972, before the long decline; (2) kept them out during the 1973-74 bear market; and (3) got them back into stocks at the end of 1974, in time for the 1975 advance. Here's the record:

The Dines Letter ($150 for 26 issues) — Although the market started to fall in January 1973, Dines didn't believe it until four months later (when stocks were already down 200 points). He was properly bearish for the rest of 1973 and 1974, but got so stuck in his rut he missed the big advance of 1975.

The Drew Odd Lot Studies ($110 for 45 issues) — This letter incorrectly forecast higher stock prices all the way through the bad 1973 market, not turning pessimistic until January, 1974. Drew did catch the upturn at the end of 1974, although by then subscribers had a lot less money to play with.

Edson Gould's Findings & Forecasts ($500 for 24 issues)— Gould's was the only letter studied that called the turns correctly. His only weakness was that he kept expecting a setback in early 1975 (which never materialized), and therefore advised his clients to put only a small percentage of their cash into the rally.

Dow Theory Letters ($125 for 35 issues) — Richard Russell has been pessimistic for a long time, missing some good markets in the interim. But he correctly called the big upturn of late 1974.

Dow Theory Comment ($40 a year, biweekly) — Perry Greiner's advice is "difficult to decode," says Financial World. Their best reading of his work puts him cautiously optimistic for four months into the 1973 decline (although at the start of it, he advised subscribers to defer commitments). After that, he correctly held with the bear market through the end of 1974, spotting the upswing in January 1975, just a month after it began. But he turned cautious fast, advising people in late February 1975 to defer purchases — not, as it turned out, good advice.

Wright's Investors Service (available through stock brokers) — This letter errs on the side of optimism, says Financial World. Wright grew cautious early in 1973, but then incorrectly forecast a major upswing in prices. He didn't change his position until the spring of 1974 (by which time his followers were out a lot of cash). Wright foresaw the 1975 upturn, but advised purchases three months ahead of the bottom.

Shaefer's The Dow Theory Trader ($240 for 46 issues) — The editor, a gold fancier, leapt to his death last year after putting out a surprise sell recommendation on gold and then changing his mind. His son carries on. Both Schaefers flashed nothing but pessimism during the entire period of the survey.

The Zweig Forecast ($95 for 18 issues) — Martin Zweig was right about the 1973 downturn. He caught the small rally in the fall of 1973, but stuck with it too long, losing all his gains. He turned bullish again early in 1974, a big mistake. He has since reworked his indicators, which he hopes will do better by him the next time.

What this study shows is that only Gould was 100% right on market timing during this two-year period, yet even he hedged his commitment to the big 1975 advance. His current view is that the market will soon swing up again, making this a good time to buy Naturally, some market analysts disagree with him.

If the Financial World study proved anything, it's this: (1) Stick to a market letter's long-term advice, rather than trying to catch small rallies (2) Analysts with a pessimistic outlook tend to miss upturns, while optimists miss downturns — a warning that you shouldn't get too cozy with a letter that shows a pronounced bias one way or the other. (3) Professionals are wrong at least part of the time, which means that in the long run, buy and sell decisions are yours alone. If you're nervious about making them, don't risk your money in stocks as long as the market remains this volatile.

Nebraska Will Share In VA Grants

St Paul, Minn. (AP — Nebraska programs will share in more than $13 8 million in Veterans Administration grants to medical schools and health manpower training programs in five Midwestern states.

The Area Health Education Consortium for Southeast Nebraska has been given a seven-year, $206,050 grant to assist in the continuing education of health professionals and health care workers in a 17-county predominantly rural area. The program is affiliated with the VA Hospital in Lincoln.

Nationally, VA grants to 31 medical and other health professional schools total more than $40 million.

Hall County Sales Growth Tops In State

Grand Island (UPI) — Hall County's retail sales growth for the first quarter of this year topped all counties in Nebraska with just over a 12% increase over the same quarter a year ago.

Dick Good, Chamber of Commerce executive secretary, reported the county's increase, in dollars, was $5 4 million.

In percentages, Good noted, Lancaster reported a 2 8% increase while the state's largest county in terms of population, Douglas, recorded a .9 of 1% increase.

Good attributed Hall County's increase to an expanding trade area tied with expansion of shopping facilities.

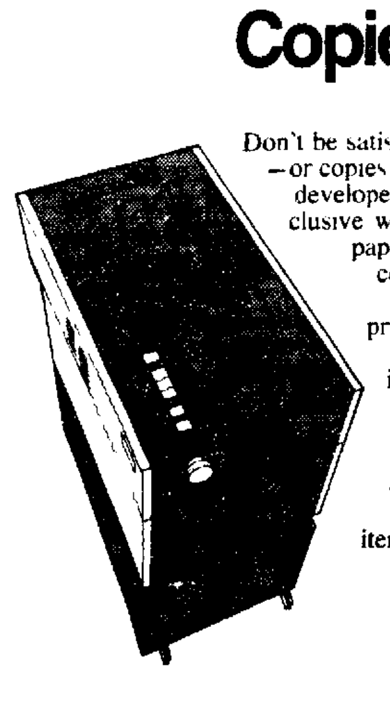
Improve copy quality with the new A. B. Dick Bond 901 Copier



Don't be satisfied with "gray" copies — or copies that feel gritty. A newly developed imaging material — exclusive with the Bond 901 plain paper copier — will give you copies so black, so clean, you'll think they were printed. This new imaging material is permanently installed and is replaced at no charge — for the life of the unit — if it ever deteriorates in quality. This eliminates the cost of one supply item that needs regular replacement with other copiers. Call for a demonstration.

Stock Market Gains Slight, Scattered

NEW YORK (AP) —Stocks posted some slight and scattered gains Monday with a late upturn apparently sparked by anticipation of a possible resolution of New York City's money problems.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, down more than a point as late as 2:30 p.m., wound up with a 4.14 gain at 840.11.

Advancing issues barely trailed those declining 659 to 640 among the 1,763 traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Big Board volume remained light at 11.50 million shares, compared with 11.68 million on Friday.

The NYSE's composite index rose .09 to 45.65, and Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was up .27 at 85.89.

For the first three-quarters of the session, prices moved weakly and sluggishly as investors kept an eye out for developments at a special session of the New York State Legislature called to try to agree on a plan for dealing with New York City's financial difficulties.

The market also had to contend with results of a monthly survey of corporate purchasing agents by a trade group, which found more buying executives paying higher prices for materials last month than at any time since last December.

"An unwelcome return of price increases gives cause for concern," the report on the survey concluded.

But at mid-afternoon a few buyers began moving in.

Charles Jensen at Merkin & Co noted some apparent short covering-repurchasing of borrowed shares sold earlier-and buying by traders aiming to benefit should a resolution of the city's situation arise that might set off a rally in the market.

By the close the state legislators were reported still at work trying to reach agreement on a bill

Sony, the Big Board volume leader, accounted for nearly one-tenth of all the day's activity, slipping ⅝ to 9¾ on turnover of 1.14 million shares, including a series of large block.

The brokerage firms with influential standing among investing institutions lowered their immediate estimates of the company's earnings because economic recovery failed to develop in Japan as rapidly as had been expected

The biggest contribution to the Dow's gain were the steels. U.S. Steel, up 1¾ at 70¼, and Bethlehem Steel, ahead 1 at 39½ Brokers have related recent strength in the steel group to buying the institutions turning to the cyclical, basic-industry issues as an alternative to the growth stocks that have long dominated their portfolios.

Huyck Corp. picked up 1 to 13¼ A Barron's magazine article discussed the possibility of a recovery in the company's business next year.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index added .13 to 85.58.

The NASDAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market closed at 77.46, down .32.

Omaha To Aid Wilson Workers If Plant Closes

Omaha (AP) — The city will assist workers of the Wilson and Co. packing plant if the facility is permanently closed.

Robert Armstrong, director of the city's office of management and budget, said the plan includes making food stamps and welfare services available, as well as job training and placement.

Armstrong also said the plan could be used in the event of the closing of any plant with a large number of workers.

Wilson officials say there are no plans to close the plant, although there have been layoffs. The firm recalled 400 workers Monday. However, 300 employes are still laid off.

Armstrong said union officials representing Wilson employes asked for help four weeks ago. The assistance plan was a result of the request, he said.

Cattle Prices Stay Steady

OMAHA. Neb. (AP)—Cattle managed a steady call as supplies ballooned Monday on the Omaha livestock market, but hogs hit the skids.

The day's hog run was estimated at about 5,500 head, with barrows and gilts seeing moderately active trade. However, the butcher trend was steady to 25-cents lower, instances 50-cents off, with top-grading uniform handyweights bulking from $58.75-$59 25, 27 head averaging 244-pounds cleared the day's top at $59 35.

Sows turned steady to 50¢-cents higher on tickets showing markings from $53.00-$56.50.

There were about 7.500 cattle and calves on offer. Slaughter steers and heifers were called steady in moderately active trade, and cows trended firm to 50-cents higher

There were about 1.200 sheep on hand Slaughter lambs turned $1 00-to-$1 50 higher, with shorn lambs at the full upturn. Ewes trended steady.

Strong Selling Pressure Hits Farm Futures

Chicago (AP) — Farm commodity futures came under strong selling pressure on the Chicago Board of Trade Monday.

Losses ranged from 19¾ cents in soybeans, just 4 short of a limit move, to 11½ in wheat, nearly 4 in corn, and about 3 cents in oats. Soybean meal declined $5 a ton and soybean oil lost some 75 points. Iced broilers were steady to 1 cent a pound higher under a good late demand and short covering.

Gold futures closed $2 to nearly $3 an ounce lower, reflecting a weakness in spot gold prices abroad Silver futures were down about 10 cents an ounce.

Market Letters Vary In Accuracy, Mood

By JANE BRYANT QUINN

Jane Bryant Quinn

New York — The crazy swings in stock prices over the past 10 years have made investors more dependent on professional advice. But how good is the advice they get?

Forecasts put out by brokerage houses have a strong bias in favor of buying, no matter what the market weather. So investors in search of a more independent opinion usually turn to market letters.

Financial World magazine recently compared the record of eight popular market letters over the past two years.

They made no attempt to evaluate the performance of the writers' favored stocks. Instead, they judged whether the letter (1) got its subscribers out of the market in late 1972, before the long decline; (2) kept them out during the 1973-74 bear market; and (3) got them back into stocks at the end of 1974, in time for the 1975 advance. Here's the record:

The Dines Letter ($150 for 26 issues) — Although the market started to fall in January 1973, Dines didn't believe it until four months later (when stocks were already down 200 points). He was properly bearish for the rest of 1973 and 1974, but got so stuck in his rut he missed the big advance of 1975.

The Drew Odd Lot Studies ($110 for 45 issues) — This letter incorrectly forecast higher stock prices all the way through the bad 1973 market, not turning pessimistic until January, 1974. Drew did catch the upturn at the end of 1974, although by then subscribers had a lot less money to play with.

Edson Gould's Findings & Forecasts ($500 for 24 issues)— Gould's was the only letter studied that called the turns correctly. His only weakness was that he kept expecting a setback in early 1975 (which never materialized), and therefore advised his clients to put only a small percentage of their cash into the rally.

Dow Theory Letters ($125 for 35 issues) — Richard Russell has been pessimistic for a long time, missing some good markets in the interim. But he correctly called the big upturn of late 1974.

Dow Theory Comment ($40 a year, biweekly) — Perry Greiner's advice is "difficult to decode," says Financial World. Their best reading of his work puts him cautiously optimistic for four months into the 1973 decline (although at the start of it, he advised subscribers to defer commitments). After that, he correctly held with the bear market through the end of 1974, spotting the upswing in January 1975, just a month after it began. But he turned cautious fast, advising people in late February 1975 to defer purchases — not, as it turned out, good advice.

Wright's Investors Service (available through stock brokers) — This letter errs on the side of optimism, says Financial World. Wright grew cautious early in 1973, but then incorrectly forecast a major upswing in prices. He didn't change his position until the spring of 1974 (by which time his followers were out a lot of cash). Wright foresaw the 1975 upturn, but advised purchases three months ahead of the bottom.

Shaefer's The Dow Theory Trader ($240 for 46 issues) — The editor, a gold fancier, leapt to his death last year after putting out a surprise sell recommendation on gold and then changing his mind. His son carries on. Both Schaefers flashed nothing but pessimism during the entire period of the survey.

The Zweig Forecast ($95 for 18 issues) — Martin Zweig was right about the 1973 downturn. He caught the small rally in the fall of 1973, but stuck with it too long, losing all his gains. He turned bullish again early in 1974, a big mistake. He has since reworked his indicators, which he hopes will do better by him the next time.

What this study shows is that only Gould was 100% right on market timing during this two-year period, yet even he hedged his commitment to the big 1975 advance. His current view is that the market will soon swing up again, making this a good time to buy. Naturally, some market analysts disagree with him.

If the Financial World study proved anything, it's this: (1) Stick to a market letter's long-term advice, rather than trying to catch small rallies (2) Analysts with a pessimistic outlook tend to miss upturns, while optimists miss downturns — a warning that you shouldn't get too cozy with a letter that shows a pronounced bias one way or the other. (3) Professionals are wrong at least part of the time, which means that in the long run, buy and sell decisions are yours alone. If you're nervious about making them, don't risk your money in stocks as long as the market remains this volatile.

Hall County Sales Growth Tops In State

Grand Island (UPI) — Hall County's retail sales growth for the first quarter of this year topped all counties in Nebraska with just over a 12% increase over the same quarter a year ago.

Dick Good, Chamber of Commerce executive secretary, reported the county's increase, in dollars, was $5.4 million.

In percentages, Good noted, Lancaster reported a 2.8% increase while the state's largest county in terms of population, Douglas, recorded a .9 of 1% increase.

Good attributed Hall County's increase to an expanding trade area tied with expansion of shopping facilities.

Improve copy quality with the new A. B. Dick Bond 901 Copier

Don't be satisfied with "gray" copies — or copies that feel gritty. A newly developed imaging material — exclusive with the Bond 901 plain paper copier — will give you copies so black, so clean, you'll think they were printed. This new imaging material is permanently installed and is replaced at no charge — for the life of the unit — it it ever deteriorates in quality. This eliminates the cost of one supply item that needs regular replacement with other copiers. Call for a demonstration.

Stock Market Gains Slight, Scattered

NEW YORK (AP) —Stocks posted some slight and scattered gains Monday with a late upturn apparently sparked by anticipation of a possible resolution of New York City's money problems.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, down more than a point as late as 2:30 p.m., wound up with a 4.14 gain at 840.11.

Advancing issues barely trailed those declining 659 to 640 among the 1,763 traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Big Board volume remained light at 11.50 million shares, compared with 11.68 million on Friday.

The NYSE's composite index rose .09 to 45.65, and Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was up .27 at 85.89.

For the first three-quarters of the session, prices moved weakly and sluggishly as investors kept an eye out for developments at a special session of the New York State Legislature called to try to agree on a plan for dealing with New York City's financial difficulties.

The market also had to contend with results of a monthly survey of corporate purchasing agents by a trade group, which found more buying executives paying higher prices for materials last month than at any time since last December.

"An unwelcome return of price increases gives cause for concern," the report on the survey concluded.

But at mid-afternoon a few buyers began moving in.

Charles Jensen at Merkin & Co. noted some apparent short covering-repurchasing of borrowed shares sold earlier-and buying by traders aiming to benefit should a resolution of the city's situation arise that might set off a rally in the market.

By the close the state legislators were reported still at work trying to reach agreement on a bill.

Sony, the Big Board volume leader, accounted for nearly one-tenth of all the day's activity, slipping ⅝ to 9¾ on turnover of 1.14 million shares, including a series of large block.

The brokerage firms with influential standing among investing institutions lowered their immediate estimates of the company's earnings because economic recovery failed to develop in Japan as rapidly as had been expected.

The biggest contribution to the Dow's gain were the steels. U.S. Steel, up 1¾ at 70¼, and Bethlehem Steel, ahead 1 at 39½. Brokers have related recent strength in the steel group to buying the institutions turning to the cyclical, basic-industry issues as an alternative to the growth stocks that have long dominated their portfolios.

Huyck Corp. picked up 1 to 13¼. A Barron's magazine article discussed the possibility of a recovery in the company's business next year.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index added .13 to 85.58.

The NASDAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market closed at 77.46, down .32.

Omaha To Aid Wilson Workers If Plant Closes

Omaha (AP) — The city will assist workers of the Wilson and Co. packing plant if the facility is permanently closed.

Robert Armstrong, director of the city's office of management and budget, said the plan includes making food stamps and welfare services available, as well as job training and placement.

Armstrong also said the plan could be used in the event of the closing of any plant with a large number of workers.

Wilson officials say there are no plans to close the plant, although there have been layoffs. The firm recalled 400 workers Monday. However, 300 employes are still laid off.

Armstrong said union officials representing Wilson employes asked for help four weeks ago. The assistance plan was a result of the request, he said.

Cattle Prices Stay Steady

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Cattle managed a steady call as supplies ballooned Monday on the Omaha livestock market, but hogs hit the skids.

The day's hog run was estimated at about 5,500 head, with barrows and gilts seeing moderately active trade. However, the butcher trend was steady to 25-cents lower, instances 50-cents off, with top-grading uniform handyweights bulking from $58.75-$59.25; 27 head averaging 244-pounds cleared the day's top at $59.35.

Sows turned steady to 50¢-cents higher on tickets showing markings from $53.00-$56.50.

There were about 7,500 cattle and calves on offer. Slaughter steers and heifers were called steady in moderately active trade, and cows trended firm to 50-cents higher.

There were about 1,200 sheep on hand. Slaughter lambs turned $1.00-to-$1.50 higher, with shorn lambs at the full upturn. Ewes trended steady.

Strong Selling Pressure Hits Farm Futures

Chicago (AP) — Farm commodity futures came under strong selling pressure on the Chicago Board of Trade Monday.

Losses ranged from 19¾ cents in soybeans, just 4 short of a limit move, to 11½ in wheat, nearly 4 in corn, and about 3 cents in oats. Soybean meal declined $5 a ton and soybean oil lost some 75 points. Iced broilers were steady to 1 cent a pound higher under a good late demand and short covering.

Gold futures closed $2 to nearly $3 an ounce lower, reflecting a weakness in spot gold prices abroad. Silver futures were down about 10 cents an ounce.

Begorra! Town Honors St. Pat

Jefferson City, Mo. (UPI) — The Missouri Tourism Division says St. Patrick, Mo., is the only town in the nation named for the patron saint of Ireland.

The legendary fifth century apostle is honored by a shrine there.

Education 'Think Tank' Stresses Coordination

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

A "think tank" of almost 300 Nebraskans sat down in Lincoln Monday morning and agreed seven hours later that "coordination' of education in the state should win top priority

Nebraska Education Commissioner Anne Campbell said the participants brain-storming not only stressed coordination among education institutions, but joint community support to present clearly needs and goals that are well formed

This action-oriented confab ignored self-serving, back-patting and negative head-shaking about unattended problems Instead Nebraskans from business labor industry agriculture and education emphasized the possible the attainable

The final report on issues and solutions from the Priority One Conference on Education in Nebraska will take a month to prepare But Denver-based Communications Development Inc (CDI) headed by ex-Lincolnite Donald Ferguson, boiled down the preliminary consensus — emerging from 1 200 ideas and 300 priorities — of the diverse group

Joseph P Rowson Lincoln Public Schools administrator and CDI senior consultant reported conferees exploring university issues agreed

— There is a need for a statewide governing board with substantial power to coordinate higher education s missions

— A communication gap exists between campuses and community needs While avenues for improvement exist they must be used more fully

— Business agriculture industry and labor must be involved more in the education process

The participants examining public school programs agreed

— Basic skills are a prerequisite to self esteem among students necessary for them to contribute to society Reading math reasoning and other skills should be taught on an individualized basis

— Schools career exploration offerings must change to reflect skills needed by business industry and agriculture

— Schools must have adequate money sources based on equitable taxation general aid or alternative aid programs

In identifying priorities for technical community colleges conferees agreed the two-year schools

— Must provide locally based performance-oriented learning programs Those low cost comprehensive opportunities should be determined by area people to meet area needs

— Have a responsibility to produce informed citizens and more rounded individuals Thus training programs should be complemented by academic and informal courses coordinated with other schools and with transferrable credits

— Must seek a state-level clear definition of their control governance and financing to be able to develop effective long term goals

— Must receive broad based public funding built on public understanding with each dependent upon a coordinated communication program involving entire communities

On the university level conference participants agreed a central governing board would enable Nebraska education institutions to reduce confusion eliminate power struggles and save resources — including money

Conferees agreed the teacher is not only central to the mission of higher education but should also be properly rewarded with competitive pay benefits and working conditions

The group believed that involvement of students parents faculty industry alumni and professional organizations is essential Rowson reported so that teaching may be critical creative and responsive to the needs of society

Participants eyeing all three areas of Nebraska education agreed community advisory committees could be valuable to establish badly needed two way communication and to inform legislators of education needs and priorities

Business industry agriculture labor and citizen advisory groups can be the backbone of school communications the technical community college group agreed

Locally they could help schools develop and provide expertise for technical and occupational programs to meet local employment demands and grass roots support then would foster backing for required financial educational and technical training needs

The conferees dissecting higher education agreed institutions need to re-evaluate goals and objectives They said communication gaps could be solved through programs that bring various community representatives to student-faculty campus meetings

Higher education citizen educator advisory councils Rowson said could determine public needs and necessary campus responses To identify needs the conferees proposed a public service extension agency

Education finance won much attention Participants favored studying it with the goal of long term excellence ranging from goals to policies They decided that would help set responsibility for various levels of education eliminate gaps and duplication improve communications and insure quality

Commissioner Campbell declared that a partnership of educators and communities is necessary as Nebraskans increasingly place a higher priority on education

'I Will' Indispensable In Today's Education

Beyond the I Q the I will is the indispensable ingredient in education today Nebraska Education Commissioner Anne Campbell said Monday

And she lamented that if the school has fallen down the home has failed as miserably in building students mental discipline to acquire knowledge and skills needed in today s world even though such learning is often difficult and boring

This is an era of permissiveness where there is lack of respect for rules and authority Dr Campbell told participants at the Priority One Conference on Education in Nebraska

While this is not just a school s problem Mrs Campbell said work has been prescribed as the cure all to straighten it out

I am distrubed she said by the asumption that the main purpose of schooling is to prepare people for specific jobs and that it is somehow wrong to provide an education that will not be used directly in a vocation

That idea Dr Campbell said implies that schooling and education for individuals should cease when they have received enough to carry out their jobs and that any instruction or learning beyond that point is wasteful and even corruptive

The cope off the job quality education is becoming a basic necessity the commissioner said declaring America is entering an Age of Education

Beyond schooling or the basic skills today s students need education to be effective human beings she said The blurred distinction between the two has contributed to the turmoil in public education as powerful critics abound

She submitted the issues must be separated to make valid and proper decisions for expectations of public schools which cannot be everything to everybody

Dr Campbell said she believes entire communities must take part in the planning that schoolhouse doors should open both ways Students must be helped to overcome the anxiety of uncertainty owing to society wide problems

Industry business and agriculture as well could become scapegoats for education s shortcomings she said urging new cooperation to reverse unnecessary competition such as for school dollars

We are in a time of hesitancy about public education goals she said observing a mood of drawing back and lack of vision and courage

HAND-CARVED DECOY . . . at least 50 years old.

Fowl Hunters' Art Form On Display At Sheldon

By TOM VINT
Outdoor Writer

As America stretched its muscles through the 1830s feeling its way into industrialization and expansion westward the American hunter was looked upon as a provider

The professional or market hunters flourished The waterfowling man carved decoys from blocks of wood for use in those days Through the 1920s he continued using his wooden models to lure millions of ducks and geese to tables across the land

Now these art forms pieces of American history are on display in The Bird Decoy An American Art Form a waterfowl decoy exhibit opening Tuesday at the Sheldon Art Gallery on the University of Nebraska campus

I think it s the greatest display of old decoys from across the country that s ever been or probably ever will be held says Dr George Starr decoy collecting expert from Duxbury Mass

Dr Starr author of Decoys of the Atlantic Flyway is among the top experts in decoy history according to Lincoln s Bob Wehlers Wehlers is a member of the Central Flyway Decoy Carvers and Collectors Club which is cooperating with the Nebraska Art Association in sponsoring the Sheldon exhibit

This is an American art form says Starr of the ancient wooden models There are lots of good decoy carvers now but there is a difference between the collecting of the old as compared to the contemporary

The birds on display at Sheldon for the next month are the old birds according to Starr They range in date from around 1830 to the 1920s the period of activity for the waterfowl market hunter

It wasn t the decoy carvers but the market gunners the men shooting for a living who made these birds," Starr said ' They are all working decoys '

The East Coast birds on display are 50 years old or better says Starr who brought 26 of his own decoys All of the makers of the decoys on display are no longer living, giving added emphasis to the value of the birds on display

There is no telling the exact age of decoys although estimates seem to be fairly close says the decoy specialist

The only way we know how old they are or how far they go back is that more and more keep coming out of the woodwork all the time Starr said They re the same as any antique You keep hoping some old widow lady will come to one of these shows and say Oh I ve got a lot of those things my husband left me up in the attic You keep dreaming of something like that

Decoy collecting rates with coin or antique furniture collecting, says Starr The only difference being that coin collectors know how many coins of what year or mint were circulated and furniture collectors know the approximate value and era of the furniture they collect Decoy collectors aren t sure how many decoys in what year or by which maker were produced

They are becoming more expensive and harder to find and the field of collecting is growing and these old makers aren t making any more Starr said in explaining the problems and demands on antique decoy collecting in modern times

A catalog of the decoys displayed at Sheldon is in the works says Starr who says such a catalog will be a worthy addition to any decoy carving or collecting book on the market today

They re more than just decoys says Starr They are folk art primitive American art forms

Lottery Sale Set Sept. 23

Omaha (AP) — The Big Green lottery will sell its first 50 cent tickets Sept 23 lottery director Sam Schwartzkopf said Monday

Schwartzkopf said it s expected that at least 200 000 tickets will be sold at about 400 retail outlets He said about 250 stores have agreed to sell tickets and others will soon be enlisted

If 200 000 tickets are sold there would be two prizes of $5 000 four prizes of $1 000 six of $500 and 1 200 of $10

Chance of winning any prize would be about 165 to one

Schwartzkopf said for every one million tickets sold 45 per cent of the revenue would be used to pay prizes He said the 45 per cent figure would be reached through awarding a $50 000 grand prize

The $50 000 prize Schwartzkopf said will be awarded by a drawing after each one million tickets are sold He said it s estimated that many tickets will be sold each four to five weeks

Tickets for the lottery must be purchased in Omaha he said although it is possible that they may someday be sold outside the city However he said there are no immediate plans to expand the sale of tickets outside Omaha

Real Estate Brokers May Lose Licenses

Two Lincoln real estate brokers face possible revocation of their licenses for alleged unethical conduct in the sale of a Lincoln home

The Nebraska Real Estate Commission has filed a complaint against Stanley Portsche and Gerald F Gulland both of Town & Country Realty of Lincoln Hearings began Monday into the transaction

The complaint charges that Portsche approached Mrs Muriel Vogt of Omaha about selling her Lincoln home at 1728 S 26th St after Gulland expressed an interest to Portsche about the house

At that time the complaint says Mrs Vogt was not aware that Gulland and Portsche were partners in Town & Country Realty Furthermore, the complaint alleges that Portsche never showed the house to anyone but Gulland

Both Portsche and Gulland the complaint says were aware the house s market value was $16 000 but offered Mrs Vogt no more than $13 500

In March 1971 Mrs Vogt agreed to sell Gulland the house for $13 500 In 1973 Gulland sold the house for $28 500

Mrs Vogt subsequently learned of Gulland s selling the home for $28 500 and of his relationship with Portsche

She then went to court In July the Nebraska Supreme Court ruled that Town & Country and Portsche had breached their public trust in the transaction and awarded Mrs Vogt $2,500 in damages and the $810 commission plus interest

Gulland in reply claimed that when he purchased the house it was only worth $13,500 Due to improvements in the house and inflation, Gulland said he was later able to sell the house for $28,500

Inmate, His Crutches Leap To Freedom

Education 'Think Tank' Stresses Coordination

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

A "think tank" of almost 300 Nebraskans sat down in Lincoln Monday morning and agreed seven hours later that "coordination" of education in the state should win top priority.

Nebraska Education Commissioner Anne Campbell said the participants' brain-storming not only stressed coordination among education institutions, but joint community support to present clearly needs and goals that are well formed.

This action-oriented confab ignored self-serving, back-patting and negative head-shaking about unattended problems. Instead, Nebraskans from business, labor, industry, agriculture and education emphasized the possible, the attainable.

The final report on issues and solutions from the "Priority One Conference on Education in Nebraska" will take a month to prepare. But Denver-based Communications Development Inc. (CDI), headed by ex-Lincolnite Donald Ferguson, boiled down the preliminary consensus — emerging from 1,200 ideas and 300 priorities — of the diverse group.

Joseph P. Rowson, Lincoln Public Schools administrator and CDI senior consultant, reported conferees exploring university issues agreed:

— There is a need for a statewide governing board with substantial power to coordinate higher education's missions.

— A communication gap exists between campuses and community needs. While avenues for improvement exist, they must be used more fully.

— Business, agriculture, industry and labor must be involved more in the education process.

The participants examining public school programs agreed:

— Basic skills are a prerequisite to self-esteem among students, necessary for them to contribute to society. Reading, math, reasoning and other skills should be taught on an individualized basis.

— Schools' career exploration offerings must change to reflect skills needed by business, industry and agriculture.

— Schools must have adequate money sources, based on equitable taxation, general aid or alternative aid programs.

In identifying priorities for technical community colleges, conferees agreed the two-year schools:

— Must provide locally-based, performance-oriented learning programs. Those low-cost, comprehensive opportunities should be determined by area people to meet area needs.

— Have a responsibility to produce informed citizens and more rounded individuals. Thus, training programs should be complemented by academic and informal courses coordinated with other schools and with transferrable credits.

— Must seek a state-level, clear definition of their control, governance and financing, to be able to develop effective, long-term goals.

— Must receive broad-based public funding, built on public understanding, with each dependent upon a coordinated communication program involving entire communities.

On the university level, conference participants agreed, a central governing board would enable Nebraska education institutions to reduce confusion, eliminate power struggles and save resources — including money.

Conferees agreed "the teacher is not only central to the mission of higher education, but should also be properly rewarded," with competitive pay, benefits and working conditions.

"The group believed that involvement of students, parents, faculty, industry, alumni, and professional organizations is essential," Rowson reported, "so that teaching may be critical, creative and responsive to the needs of society."

Participants eyeing all three areas of Nebraska education agreed community advisory committees could be valuable to establish badly needed two-way communication, and to inform legislators of education needs and priorities.

"Business, industry, agriculture, labor and citizen advisory groups can be the backbone" of school communications, the technical community college group agreed.

Locally, they could help schools develop and provide expertise for technical and occupational programs to meet local employment demands, and grass-roots support then would foster backing for required financial, educational and technical training needs.

The conferees dissecting higher education agreed institutions need to re-evaluate goals and objectives. They said communication gaps could be solved through programs that bring various community representatives to student-faculty campus meetings.

Higher education "citizen-educator advisory councils" Rowson said, could "determine public needs and necessary campus responses." To identify needs, the conferees proposed a "public service extension agency."

Education finance won much attention. Participants favored studying it with the goal of long-term excellence, ranging from goals to policies. They decided that would help set "responsibility for various levels of education, eliminate gaps and duplication, improve communications and insure quality."

Commissioner Campbell declared that a partnership of educators and communities is necessary as Nebraskans increasingly place a higher priority on education.

'I Will' Indispensable In Today's Education

Beyond the I.Q., the "I will" is the "indispensable ingredient in education" today, Nebraska Education Commissioner Anne Campbell said Monday.

And she lamented that if the school has fallen down, the home has failed as miserably in building students' mental discipline, to acquire "knowledge and skills needed in today's world, even though such learning is often difficult and boring."

"This is an era of permissiveness where there is lack of respect for rules and authority," Dr. Campbell told participants at the "Priority One Conference on Education in Nebraska."

While "this is not just a school's problem," Mrs. Campbell said, work has been prescribed as the cure-all to straighten it out.

"I am distrubed", she said, by the "asumption that the main purpose of schooling is to prepare people for specific jobs, and that it is somehow wrong to provide an education that will not be used directly in a vocation."

That idea, Dr. Campbell said, "implies that schooling and education for individuals should cease when they have received enough to carry out their jobs; and that any instruction or learning beyond that point is wasteful and even corruptive."

The cope off the job, "quality education is becoming a basic necessity," the commissioner said, declaring, "America is entering an Age of Education."

Beyond "schooling" or the basic skills, today's students need "education" to be effective human beings, she said. The blurred distinction between the two "has contributed to the turmoil in public education," as "powerful critics" abound.

She submitted "the issues must be separated" to make "valid and proper decisions" for expectations of public schools, which "cannot be everything to everybody."

Dr. Campbell said she believes entire communities must take part in the planning, that "schoolhouse doors should open both ways." Students must be helped to overcome the "anxiety of uncertainty" owing to society-wide problems.

Industry, business and agriculture, as well, could become scapegoats for education's shortcomings, she said, urging new cooperation to reverse unnecessary competition, such as for school dollars.

"We are in a time of hesitancy" about public education goals, she said, observing "a mood of drawing back" and "lack of vision and courage."

HAND-CARVED DECOY . . . at least 50 years old.

Fowl Hunters' Art Form On Display At Sheldon

By TOM VINT

As America stretched its muscles through the 1830s, feeling its way into industrialization and expansion westward, the American hunter was looked upon as a provider.

The professional or market hunters flourished. The waterfowling man carved decoys from blocks of wood for use in those days. Through the 1920s he continued using his wooden models to lure millions of ducks and geese to tables across the land.

Now these art forms, pieces of American history, are on display in "The Bird Decoy; An American Art Form," a waterfowl decoy exhibit opening Tuesday at the Sheldon Art Gallery on the University of Nebraska campus.

"I think it's the greatest display of old decoys from across the country that's ever been or probably ever will be held," says Dr. George Starr, decoy collecting expert from Duxbury, Mass.

Dr. Starr, author of "Decoys of the Atlantic Flyway," is among the top experts in decoy history, according to Lincoln's Bob Wohlers. Wohlers is a member of the Central Flyway Decoy Carvers and Collectors Club which is cooperating with the Nebraska Art Association in sponsoring the Sheldon exhibit.

"This is an American art form," says Starr of the ancient wooden models. "There are lots of good decoy carvers now, but there is a difference between the collecting of the old as compared to the contemporary."

The birds on display at Sheldon for the next month are the old birds, according to Starr. They range in date from around 1830 to the 1920s, the period of activity for the waterfowl market hunter.

"It wasn't the decoy carvers but the market gunners, the men shooting for a living, who made these birds," Starr said. "They are all working decoys."

The East Coast birds on display are 50 years old or better, says Starr, who brought 26 of his own decoys. All of the makers of the decoys on display are no longer living, giving added emphasis to the value of the birds on display.

There is no telling the exact age of decoys, although estimates seem to be fairly close, says the decoy specialist.

"The only way we know how old they are or how far they go back is that more and more keep coming out of the woodwork all the time," Starr said. "They're the same as any antique. You keep hoping some old widow lady will come to one of these shows and say, 'Oh, I've got a lot of those things my husband left me up in the attic.' You keep dreaming of something like that."

Decoy collecting rates with coin or antique furniture collecting, says Starr. The only difference being that coin collectors know how many coins of what year or mint were circulated and furniture collectors know the approximate value and era of the furniture they collect. Decoy collectors aren't sure how many decoys in what year or by which maker were produced.

"They are becoming more expensive and harder to find, and the field of collecting is growing, and these old makers aren't making any more," Starr said in explaining the problems and demands on antique decoy collecting in modern times.

A catalog of the decoys displayed at Sheldon is in the works, says Starr, who says such a catalog will be a worthy addition to any decoy carving or collecting book on the market today.

"They're more than just decoys," says Starr, "They are folk art, primitive American art forms."

Lottery Sale Set Sept. 23

Omaha (AP) — The "Big Green" lottery will sell its first 50-cent tickets Sept. 23, lottery director Sam Schwartzkopf said Monday.

Schwartzkopf said it's expected that at least 200,000 tickets will be sold at about 400 retail outlets. He said about 250 stores have agreed to sell tickets and others will soon be enlisted.

If 200,000 tickets are sold, there would be two prizes of $5,000, four prizes of $1,000, six of $500 and 1,200 of $10.

Chances of winning any prize would be about 165 to one.

Schwartzkopf said for every one million tickets sold, 45 per cent of the revenue would be used to pay prizes. He said the 45 per cent figure would be reached through awarding a $50,000 grand prize.

jthe $50,000 prize, Schwartzkopf said, will be awarded by a drawing after each one million tickets are sold. He said it's estimated that many tickets will be sold each four to five weeks.

Tickets for the lottery must be purchased in Omaha, he said, although it is possible that they may someday be sold outside the city. However, he said there are no immediate plans to expand the sale of tickets outside Omaha.

New Yorker Sees Sculpture As Art To Frame Nature

Lincoln Star Special

Seward — New York sculptor Paul von Ringelheim, who designed "Arrival," to be placed at the Seward-Milford rest stop on Interstate 80 as part of Nebraska's Bicentennial project, described his sculpture Monday as art that will "frame nature."

Talking with a group of students at Concordia College in Seward, he explained that in all of his work he is concerned with relationships in space. As a person moves around and under the project sculpture, his view of its relationship to the space around it should continually change, the sculptor believes.

Responding positively to the fact that Nebraskans hold differing opinions about what his sculpture represents, he stressed that it is non-representational and abstract. He said that viewers might see it as a bird-like figure, as something light and uplifting, or perhaps as gigantic pretzels.

He doesn't want to limit what it represents.

"The only thing I would consider bad," he continued, "is if people have no emotional reaction at all."

Von Ringelheim's visit with the Concordia students Monday included a brief slide presentation of his work and a drawing of his I-80 sculpture "Arrival."

He is spending two days at Concordia and in the Seward community discussing his sculpture. Tuesday, he will be on the I-80 site at 10:15 a.m. for the filming of a Nebraska Educational Television documentary.

Students from Southeast Nebraska Technical College at Milford will take soil samples for testing at that time in order for work on the sculpture to proceed.

Blaze At Omaha School Deliberately Set — Officer

Omaha (AP) — Investigators say a Sunday night fire in Pershing School is a case of arson.

The fire, according to Chief Arson Investigator Horton Dahlquist, was deliberately set in the school's library.

The blaze was confined to one room, but officials said the flames destroyed the library.

It is hoped that the school will be reopened for classes Tuesday.

Dahlquist said firemen found an empty kerosene container in the library. The container belongs to the school.

It is not known how the intruders found the kerosene, but they apparently gained entrance to the library by kicking the door, Dahlquist said.

School Principal Jack Lee said about 5,000 books and some audio-visual materials were destroyed in the fire, but an immediate damage estimate was not available.

It took firemen about an hour to control the flames.

Sales Tax Revenue Is Growing

State sales tax revenue continues to grow, while income tax revenue is still lagging behind 1974 totals, State Tax Commissioner William E. Peters reported Monday.

Sales tax revenue was up 6.1% for June 1975 over the June 1974 total. However, individual income tax revenue for June was almost 1% below the June 1974 level.

Corporation income tax receipts were up 4.8% for June as well as sales taxes on motor vehicles which were up by 10.7%.

Cigarette taxes were down slightly in June, while liquor tax revenue climbed.

East Meets West In UNL Symposium

The impact of Eastern culture on Western man will be explored in a symposium scheduled for Sept. 15-28 at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln campus.

The series will begin with free showings of the film "Sunseed," a documentary which examines where and how East meets West. Continuous shows will be held Sept. 15, 16, and 17 from noon until 7:30 p.m. in the Nebraska Union.

Dr. Khigh Alx Dhiegh will discuss Chinese philosophy in a free lecture Sept. 18 at 3:30 p.m. in union in the second event of the symposium.

Indian musician Ali Akbar Khan will perform in concert at the union Sept. 23 at 8 p.m. Admission is $1.50 for UNL Students, $2.50 for the general public.

In the final event of the series, Ram Dass, former Harvard psychologist, will discuss spiritual enlightenment in a lecture Sept. 28 at 3 p.m. in the Sheldon Sculpture Gardens. In the event of rain, the program will be shifted to the student union.

Nebraska Demos To Attend Confab

Nebraska Democrats will be represented at a 10-state issue and candidate conference in Minneapolis Saturday and Sunday.

Democratic presidential candidates attending the conference will be questioned by party workers, trade union political activists, representatives of various organizations and individuals.

Democratic National Committeewoman Frances Olmstede of Guide Rock will attend the two-day event.

Panel discussions on jobs and the economy and on party reform will also be held during the conference.

More Than $33,000 Netted In Weekend Omaha Burglaries

Omaha (AP) — Two weekend burglaries here netted thieves more than $33,000 in valuables.

Jewelry valued at more than $25,000 was reported taken from the apartment of Thomas Kizer. Kizer told police intruders removed the jewelry sometime between 6:46 p.m. and 10:15 p.m. Friday night. The loot included a platinum and diamond watch valued at $8,000.

Jewelry, coins, a television set and a mink cape valued at more than $8,000 were taken from the Stanley Passer residence Sunday, police said.

Passer told detectives his home was entered between 6 p.m. and 9;45 p.m. while he was away.

Coins Cite Marcos

MANILA, The Philippines (AP) — The central bank announced new coins are to be put in circulation to commemorate the third anniversary of President Ferdinand E. Marcos' martial law regime. The set includes a gold piece worth $150, and a $7 silver coin, both bearing portraits of Marcos.

Old West Trail Group Creates Vacation Guide

Rapid City, S.D. (UPI) — The Old West Trail Foundation said Monday it has developed a publication designed to increase vacation travel and extend lengths of stays in its four-state area of Nebraska, Montana and the Dakotas.

The foundation said the "Old West Trail Vacation Guide '76" will have a printing of 500,000 copies on slick paper with every page in full color, including display advertising. It will offer an easy-to-use directory for restaurants, lodging, campgrounds, city circle tours and gift shops.

The foundation said the printing will be completed in February, and 300,000 copies will be mailed to those families who have requested travel literature from the member states.

The balance of 200,000 copies will be distributed to highway travelers through rest areas in the individual states, chambers of commerce, major attractions and other quality distribution points.

In Nebraska, advertisings sales for the brochure will be handled by Outlook Public Relations Associates of Ogallala.

The Old West Trail Foundation is a regional nonprofit tourism promotion organization based in Rapid City.

NU Plans Headquartering SUN Chief At Scottsbluff

The University of Nebraska said Monday the new coordinator for continuing education and the State University of Nebraska (SUN) project in western Nebraska will headquarter at Scottsbluff.

The NU Board of Regents Saturday approved the appointment of James J. Bowman for the job. He will be located in the Elliott Building at the NU Panhandle Station.

D. B. Varner, NU president, said the office should serve as a coordinating point for all of the university's programs in western Nebraska and not just the SUN operation. SUN is a program designed to provide home college study through television, newspapers and other media.

Specifically, Bowman will be responsible for overseeing programs of the Extension Division, supervising the SUn learning center and developing relationships with students and other institutions in western Nebraska.

Bowman, a native of Bertrand, has been serving as assistant director of the study commission on undergraduate education and the education of teachers at the NU Lincoln campus.

New Yorker Sees Sculpture As Art To Frame Nature

Lincoln Star Special

Seward — New York sculptor Paul von Ringelheim, who designed "Arrival," to be placed at the Seward-Milford rest stop on Interstate 80 as part of Nebraska's Bicentennial project, described his sculpture Monday as art that will "frame nature."

Talking with a group of students at Concordia College in Seward, he explained that in all of his work he is concerned with relationships in space. As a person moves around and under the project sculpture, his view of its relationship to the space around it should continually change, the sculptor believes.

Responding positively to the fact that Nebraskans hold differing opinions about what his sculpture represents, he stressed that it is non-representational and abstract. He said that viewers might see it as a bird-like figure, as something light and uplifting, or perhaps as gigantic pretzels.

He doesn't want to limit what it represents.

"The only thing I would consider bad," he continued, "is if people have no emotional reaction at all."

Von Ringelheim's visit with the Concordia students Monday included a brief slide presentation of his work and a drawing of his I-80 sculpture "Arrival."

He is spending two days at Concordia and in the Seward community discussing his sculpture. Tuesday, he will be on the I-80 site at 10:15 a.m. for the filming of a Nebraska Educational Television documentary.

Students from Southeast Nebraska Technical College at Milford will take soil samples for testing at that time in order for work on the sculpture to proceed.

Blaze At Omaha School Deliberately Set — Officer

Omaha (AP) — Investigators say a Sunday night fire in Pershing School is a case of arson.

The fire, according to Chief Arson Investigator Horton Dahlquist, was deliberately set in the school's library.

The blaze was confined to one room, but officials said the flames destroyed the library.

It is hoped that the school will be reopened for classes Tuesday.

Dahlquist said firemen found an empty kerosene container in the library. The container belongs to the school.

It is not known how the intruders found the kerosene, but they apparently gained entrance to the library by kicking the door, Dahlquist said.

School Principal Jack Lee said about 5,000 books and some audio-visual materials were destroyed in the fire, but an immediate damage estimate was not available.

It took firemen about an hour to control the flames.

Sales Tax Revenue Is Growing

State sales tax revenue continues to grow, while income tax revenue is still lagging behind 1974 totals, State Tax Commissioner William E. Peters reported Monday.

Sales tax revenue was up 6.1% for June 1975 over the June 1974 total. However, individual income tax revenue for June was almost 1% below the June 1974 level.

Corporation income tax receipts were up 4.8% for June as well as sales taxes on motor vehicles which were up by 10.7%.

Cigarette taxes were down slightly in June, while liquor tax revenue climbed.

East Meets West In UNL Symposium

The impact of Eastern culture on Western man will be explored in a symposium scheduled for Sept. 15-28 at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln campus.

The series will begin with free showings of the film "Sunseed," a documentary which examines where and how East meets West. Continuous shows will be held Sept. 15, 16, and 17 from noon until 7:30 p.m. in the Nebraska Union.

Dr. Khigh Alx Dhiegh will discuss Chinese philosophy in a free lecture Sept. 18 at 3:30 p.m. in union in the second event of the symposium.

Indian musician Ali Akbar Khan will perform in concert at the union Sept. 23 at 8 p.m. Admission is $1.50 for UNL Students, $2.50 for the general public.

In the final event of the series, Ram Dass, former Harvard psychologist, will discuss spiritual enlightenment in a lecture Sept. 28 at 3 p.m. in the Sheldon Sculpture Gardens. In the event of rain, the program will be shifted to the student union.

Nebraska Demos To Attend Confab

Nebraska Democrats will be represented at a 10-state issue and candidate conference in Minneapolis Saturday and Sunday.

Democratic presidential candidates attending the conference will be questioned by party workers, trade union political activists, representatives of various organizations and individuals.

Democratic National Committeewoman Frances Ohmstede of Guide Rock will attend the two-day event.

Panel discussions on jobs and the economy and on party reform will also be held during the conference.

More Than $33,000 Netted In Weekend Omaha Burglaries

Omaha (AP) — Two weekend burglaries here netted thieves more than $33,000 in valuables.

Jewelry valued at more than $25,000 was reported taken from the apartment of Thomas Kizer. Kizer told police intruders removed the jewelry sometime between 6:46 p.m. and 10:15 p.m. Friday night. The loot included a platinum and diamond watch valued at $8,000.

Jewelry, coins, a television set and a mink cape valued at more than $8,000 were taken from the Stanley Passer residence Sunday, police said.

Passer told detectives his home was entered between 6 p.m. and 9;45 p.m. while he was away.

Coins Cite Marcos

MANILA, The Philippines (AP) — The central bank announced new coins are to be put in circulation to commemorate the third anniversary of President Ferdinand E. Marcos' martial law regime. The set includes a gold piece worth $150, and a $7 silver coin, both bearing portraits of Marcos.

Old West Trail Group Creates Vacation Guide

Rapid City, S.D. (UPI) — The Old West Trail Foundation said Monday it has developed a publication designed to increase vacation travel and extend lengths of stays in its four-state area of Nebraska, Montana and the Dakotas.

The foundation said the "Old West Trail Vacation Guide '76" will have a printing of 500,000 copies on slick paper with every page in full color, including display advertising. It will offer an easy-to-use directory for restaurants, lodging, campgrounds, city circle tours and gift shops.

The foundation said the printing will be completed in February, and 300,000 copies will be mailed to those families who have requested travel literature from the member states.

The balance of 200,000 copies will be distributed to highway travelers through rest areas in the individual states, chambers of commerce, major attractions and other quality distribution points.

In Nebraska, advertisings sales for the brochure will be handled by Outlook Public Relations Associates of Ogallala.

The Old West Trail Foundation is a regional nonprofit tourism promotion organization based in Rapid City.

NU Plans Headquartering SUN Chief At Scottsbluff

The University of Nebraska said Monday the new coordinator for continuing education and the State University of Nebraska (SUN) project in western Nebraska will headquarter at Scottsbluff.

The NU Board of Regents Saturday approved the appointment of James J. Bowman for the job. He will be located in the Elliott Building at the NU Panhandle Station.

D. B. Varner, NU president, said the office should serve as a coordinating point for all of the university's programs in western Nebraska and not just the SUN operation. SUN is a program designed to provide home college study through television, newspapers and other media.

Specificially, Bowman will be responsible for overseeing programs of the Extension Division, supervising the SUn learning center and developing relationships with students and other institutions in western Nebraska.

Bowman, a native of Bertrand, has been serving as assistant director of the study commission on undergraduate education and the education of teachers at the NU Lincoln campus.

Communist Black Markets Thrive

© The New York Times

Belgrade, Yugoslavia — Despite the theoretical risk of jail or execution for "economic crimes in Communist countries the black markets of eastern Europe are thriving

Tourists and other visitors from the West are after startled by the contrast between an official facade of strict Communist probity and the reality of grossly obtrusive corruption

The foreigner these days can expect to be accosted by illegal money changers at the Hermitage museum in Leningrad at the former Auschwitz concentration camp in Poland, at Dracula s castle in Romania, on the steps of foreign ministries, and at many other improbable places

He may be offered a free tank of gasoline at a Romanian filling station in exchange for a pack or two of American cigarettes The taxi service in Prague is free to the customer who accepts an offer to change money

Even nationally produced items can bring big black market prices

The distribution of food products in the Soviet Union is so inadequate that fresh Soviet fruit can be sold at huge prices in the Moscow black market at certain times Prices are sometimes so high that big profits can be made by buying a cheap air ticket on the Soviet airline to some agricultural town in the Kuban or Ukraine, purchasing a suitcase full of melons or other fruits, and flying them back to Moscow for illegal sale

Major services, taken for granted in the West, may be inaccessible in the East without large under-the-table payments or huge tips

On snowy nights in Moscow, cruising taxi drivers wait for groups of prospective passengers to gather The would-be riders then bid against each other for the size of the tip they will give for the ride, the high bidder getting the car

Gratuities facilitate life at every level

In one city, residents have found that the time spent in endless lines waiting to see doctors can be reduced drastically by presentation of a carton of cigarettes

In Prague, it is not uncommon to have to wait up to 15 years for an apartment, but on payment of a properly laundered gratuity of about $20,000 to the right person, an apartment can often be obtained in a matter of weeks.

The black market in hard Western currencies, while strictly illegal in Communist countries, has become so pervasive in some of them that it is practically an alternate economic system and is tacitly tolerated or even encouraged by the Communist governments

Notable exceptions are Yugoslavia and Hungary, whose relatively hard currencies are valued realistically by their governments There is no perceptible currency black market in either country.

"Let us be honest," an economist in one Communist country said

"The black market could be rigorouly suppressed, but what would we have? As it is, they are immoral, perhaps inconsistent with Marxist-Leninist theory, but they are real, free markets They let people get things that wouldn't otherwise be available, and they soak up the excess cash that's always floating around the consumers of the Socialist world That is not a bad thing "

The enormous police establishments of Communist eastern Europe are obviously fully aware of the black market operations all around them but generally choose to ignore them Statistics are not made public, but arrests seem to be rare

Household Divided Item By Item

Four Tupperware containers — to him.

Three Easter baskets — to her

Two spools of thread and one nail clipper to the husband

They were married in Defiance Ohio And if their divorce property settlement is any indication the two were defiant to the end

The six-page itemized settlement in Lancaster County District Court gets right down to the basics — from the medicine chest (the wife got the Bactine) to the kitchen cupboard (he got six pizza cans)

The settlement is an inventory of household items from furniture (each spouse got one bed) to nine cement blocks two pop tops, tweezers and a corkscrew — all for the husband

The wife cleaned up with a dust pan, broom, one sponge and one yellow bucket

While the husband walked off with three drawer dividers and two cookbooks, not to mention four needles, the wife laid claim to a host of household plants and one black scrubber

Many of the couple's possessions were divided

Some evenly They each got two decks of cards five games eight coasters eight cloth napkins and 25 Christmas decorations

Some not so evenly The wife kept a whole set of measuring cups while her spouse walked out with only one two-cup container

One thing was not divided . . . the children The couple had none

Two Escape With $1.3 Million

PARIS (AP) — Two gunmen escaped with $1 35 million Monday night after releasing unharmed seven hostages seized during a bank holdup and eluding police in a high-speed chase

The robbers had held the hostages for more than 10 hours in a bank in central Paris while negotiating for the money and a getaway car

When police delivered the money and a white limousine the gunmen fled taking three women hostages with them but freeing four men

Police cars pursued the around 11 30 a m — 5 30 a m CDT They let two customers go after entering the bank but forced seven other persons to remain inside

When they abandoned the first car they left one of the woman hostages behind and jumped into a car on the northern edge of Paris with the other two women The second car was found in south Paris with the two women inside chained but unhurt and witnesses said the bandits drove away in a third car

Commissioner Robert Groussard head of the elite antigang squad said We almost got them it was touch and go for a few moments there

Witnesses in the bank said the men were young perfectly calm and very decided At one point they fired warning shots in the air but no one was hurt

The ransom money had been delivered in two sacks and left at the door of the bank but the gunmen waited almost four more hours before agreeing to the getaway arrangements

Police cleared a route for their escape and as the gunmen drove off they were followed by police cars ambulances and newsmen in a mad chase through the city s winding streets

The robbers armed with automatic pistols and a sawed-off shotgun entered the bank around 11 30 a m — 6 30 a m EDT They let two customers go after entering the bank but forced seven other persons to remain inside

More than 250 policemen including sharpshooters surrounded the bank near the Invalides which houses Napoleon s tomb Police closed off all streets around the busy Left Bank intersection near the small bank and subway trains ran through the station without stopping

In Milan Italy meanwhile three bank robbers armed with pistols and a submachine gun surrendered to police and released 11 hostages they had held for more than seven hours The bandits had threatened to kill the hostages one by one unless given $320 000 and two getaway cars

Two of the bandits drove away with police after their surrender The third was kept in the bank because he feared being lynched by a crowd of 15 000 outside

3 Reformatory Inmates Caught At Local Home

Three escaped inmates of the State Reformatory were apprehended in a Lincoln home Monday on a tip from the Federal Bureau of Investigation

City police, state patrolmen and FBI officers converged on 4227 Cleveland and arrested the escapees without a struggle the police reported

Police said that persons in the home were apparently acquainted with one of the escapees The inmates were returned to the reformatory No charges have been filed against the residents

The three inmates escaped Sunday from a reformatory work detail

Communist Black Markets Thrive

©The New York Times

Belgrade, Yugoslavia — Despite the theoretical risk of jail or execution for "economic crimes" in Communist countries, the black markets of eastern Europe are thriving.

Tourists and other visitors from the West are after startled by the contrast between an official facade of strict Communist probity and the reality of grossly obtrusive corruption.

The foreigner these days can expect to be accosted by illegal money changers at the Hermitage museum in Leningrad, at the former Auschwitz concentration camp in Poland, at Dracula's castle in Romania, on the steps of foreign ministries, and at many other improbable places.

He may be offered a free tank of gasoline at a Romanian filling station in exchange for a pack or two of American cigarettes. The taxi service in Prague is free to the customer who accepts an offer to change money.

In some Communist capitals, the visitor can illegally earn $70 for a used and ragged pair of American blue jeans.

Even nationally produced items can bring big black market prices.

The distribution of food products in the Soviet Union is so inadequate that fresh Soviet fruit can be sold at huge prices in the Moscow black market at certain times. Prices are sometimes so high that big profits can be made by buying a cheap air ticket on the Soviet airline to some agricultural town in the Kuban or Ukraine, purchasing a suitcase full of melons or other fruits, and flying them back to Moscow for illegal sale.

Major services, taken for granted in the West, may be inaccessible in the East without large under-the-table payments or huge tips.

On snowy nights in Moscow, cruising taxi drivers wait for groups of prospective passengers to gather. The would-be riders then bid against each other for the size of the tip they will give for the ride, the high bidder getting the car.

Gratuities facilitate life at every level.

In one city, residents have found that the time spent in endless lines waiting to see doctors can be reduced drastically by presentation of a carton of cigarettes.

In Prague, it is not uncommon to have to wait up to 15 years for an apartment, but on payment of a properly laundered gratuity of about $20,000 to the right person, an apartment can often be obtained in a matter of weeks.

The black market in hard Western currencies, while strictly illegal in Communist countries, has become so pervasive in some of them that it is practically an alternate economic system and is tacitly tolerated or even encouraged by the Communist governments.

Notable exceptions are Yugoslavia and Hungary, whose relatively hard currencies are valued realistically by their governments. There is no perceptible currency black market in either country.

"Let us be honest," an economist in one Communist country said.

"The black market could be rigorouly suppressed, but what would we have? As it is, they are immoral, perhaps inconsistent with Marxist-Leninist theory, but they are real, free markets. They let people get things that wouldn't otherwise be available, and they soak up the excess cash that's always floating around the consumers of the Socialist world. That is not a bad thing."

The enormous police establishments of Communist eastern Europe are obviously fully aware of the black market operations all around them but generally choose to ignore them. Statistics are not made public, but arrests seem to be rare.

Household Divided Item By Item

Four Tupperware containers — to him.

Three Easter baskets — to her.

Two spools of thread and one nail clipper to the husband.

They were married in Defiance, Ohio. And if their divorce property settlement is any indication, the two were defiant to the end.

The six-page itemized settlement in Lancaster County District Court gets right down to the basics — from the medicine chest (the wife got the Bactine) to the kitchen cupboard (he got six pizza cans).

The settlement is an inventory of household items from furniture (each spouse got one bed) to nine cement blocks, two pop tops, tweezers and a corkscrew — all for the husband.

The wife cleaned up with a dust pan, broom, one sponge and one yellow bucket.

While the husband walked off with three drawer dividers and two cookbooks, not to mention four needles, the wife laid claim to a host of household plants and one black scrubber.

Many of the couple's possessions were divided.

Some evenly. They each got two decks of cards, five games, eight coasters, eight cloth napkins, and 25 Christmas decorations.

Some not so evenly. The wife kept a whole set of measuring cups while her spouse walked out with only one two-cup container.

One thing was not divided . . . the children. The couple had none.

Two Escape With $1.3 Million

PARIS (AP) — Two gunmen escaped with $1.35 million Monday night after releasing unharmed seven hostages seized during a bank holdup and eluding police in a high-speed chase.

The robbers had held the hostages for more than 10 hours in a bank in central Paris while negotiating for the money and a getaway car.

When police delivered the money and a white limousine, the gunmen fled, taking three women hostages with them but freeing four men.

Police cars pursued the around 11:30 a.m. — 5:30 a.m. CDT. They let two customers go after entering the bank but forced seven other persons to remain inside.

When they abandoned the first car they left one of the woman hostages behind and jumped into a car on the northern edge of Paris with the other two women. The second car was found in south Paris with the two women inside, chained but unhurt, and witnesses said the bandits drove away in a third car.

Commissioner Robert Groussard, head of the elite antigang squad, said, "We almost got them, it was touch and go for a few moments there."

Witnesses in the bank said the men were "young, perfectly calm and very decided." At one point they fired warning shots in the air but no one was hurt.

The ransom money had been delivered in two sacks and left at the door of the bank but the gunmen waited almost four more hours before agreeing to the getaway arrangements.

Police cleared a route for their escape and as the gunmen drove off they were followed by police cars, ambulances and newsmen in a mad chase through the city's winding streets.

The robbers, armed with automatic pistols and a sawed-off shotgun, entered the bank around 11:30 a.m. — 6:30 a.m. EDT. They let two customers go after entering the bank but forced seven other persons to remain inside.

More than 250 policemen, including sharpshooters, surrounded the bank, near the Invalides which houses Napoleon's tomb. Police closed off all streets around the busy Left Bank intersection near the small bank and subway trains ran through the station without stopping.

In Milan, Italy, meanwhile, three bank robbers armed with pistols and a submachine gun surrendered to police and released 11 hostages they had held for more than seven hours. The bandits had threatened to kill the hostages one by one unless given $320,000 and two getaway cars.

Two of the bandits drove away with police after their surrender. The third was kept in the bank because he feared being lynched by a crowd of 15,000 outside.

3 Reformatory Inmates Caught At Local Home

Three escaped inmates of the State Reformatory were apprehended in a Lincoln home Monday on a tip from the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

City police, state patrolmen and FBI officers converged on 4227 Cleveland and arrested the escapees without a struggle, the police reported.

Police said that persons in the home were apparently acquainted with one of the escapees. The inmates were returned to the reformatory. No charges have been filed against the residents.

The three inmates escaped Sunday from a reformatory work detail.

LET'S BE HONEST
If you weren't looking for a new career you wouldn't be reading this ad. And if we weren't looking for someone to do a job, this ad would not be here.

Now personally, I'm tired of interviewing men who are content to earn $125/$150/week . . . men with no ambition.

I'm interested in talking to men who want to make $1500/mo. Men who know how to take on a job and do what it takes to get it done! To that kind of man, we offer:

$300 - $500 per week!
Guaranteed yearly increases.

For a personal and confidential interview, call 466-2394 between 9:00 am and 12:30 pm, Monday through Thurs. 9

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast for Tuesday

The Gemini native is ruled by Mercury and the sign is symbolized by the twins. These people have a brilliant mentality and the ability to speak eloquently. They are quick to use ideas in a charming and often unique way. The jewel for Gemini is agate, the colors yellow and blue, the active day Wednesday.

☆ ☆ ☆

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Good for money, especially savings and investments. Changes tend to be for the better. Concessions can be made wisely. Agreeable travel conditions evident. Real estate can be inspected with a great deal of confidence. Seek out a Virgo for facts.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Sort and sift early. Fine opportunity for creative talent. Family pride is starred. An endearing gift received. Sharing is highlighted, so are joint efforts. An overdue debt is paid. Protect assets. Settle differences with Scorpio.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Be ready for appreciation, rewards and love. Good health makes you beam radiantly. Show a smiling attitude. Cycle favors shopping, planning, taking thought for home and loved ones. Money budgeted wisely. Leo appears to be dominant.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Career prestige, status and reputation well served. Fine time for traveling, sightseeing, feeling one with the oncoming fall season. Some assessing of resources could be profitable. Flashing eyes attract tonight, but be careful.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Money picks up momentum. You have the green light for business and job transactions. Domestic interests blocked in interest of outside matters. Emotional harmony and social pleasure accented happily this evening. Seek out Sagittarius.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Retreat and take stock. Someone may be pulling the proverbial wool over your eyes. Insist on proof of facts. Shrug off rumors. Avoid fanciful thinking. Look beyond the obvious. Young Aquarian is likely to be in the picture.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Rather than trying to accomplish too much in a short time, be satisfied to do less but complete it. Considerable expense saved by planning purchases ahead of time. Hold off a trip if possible. Make adjustments through diplomatic approach.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Avoid overreaching too soon, too fast. One who knows trends is observing. Be sure rather than hasty. In personal area, be sensitive to needs of one who has experienced emotional turmoil. Get perspective where ambitions are concerned.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Accent is on what you want as opposed to what you need. Idea is to make contacts beyond current contacts. If you do this, then goal is achieved. Otherwise, prepare yourself for role in the also ran list. Ward off ennui.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Accent is on special relationships, creativity and self-expression. You come alive. You are more aware of who you are and how to focus your potential. You hear the sound of your own voice. Glory in self-discovery.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Practical issues dominate. You get to the core of matters. An experienced individual puts cards face up on the table. Admire frankness. View beyond the immediate scene. Your sales appeal runs high. Talk things over with Taurus.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Friendly counsel may lack facts. Know it and act accordingly. Libra could prove helpful. If married, be very considerate toward mate. Slacken pace to be aware of subtle nuances. Some questions are ready to be answered.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY variety and progress receive the greatest stimulus. Occasionally, things may happen so quickly that you feel as if you were being whirled about. However, the excitement should prove exhilarating. Success through personal initiative is highlighted next spring.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

THE HEART OF JULIET JONES

by Stan Drake

A MILLION-DOLLAR LEGACY WAS TO GO TO ALICIA NEENE, UNLESS... AND HERE'S THE KEY... SHE "BESMIRCHED THE FAMILY NAME." THOSE ARE THE EXACT WORDS.
AND WHEN ALICIA WENT TO PRISON FOR MURDER, SHE...
"BESMIRCHED THE FAMILY NAME"... LET'S GO-

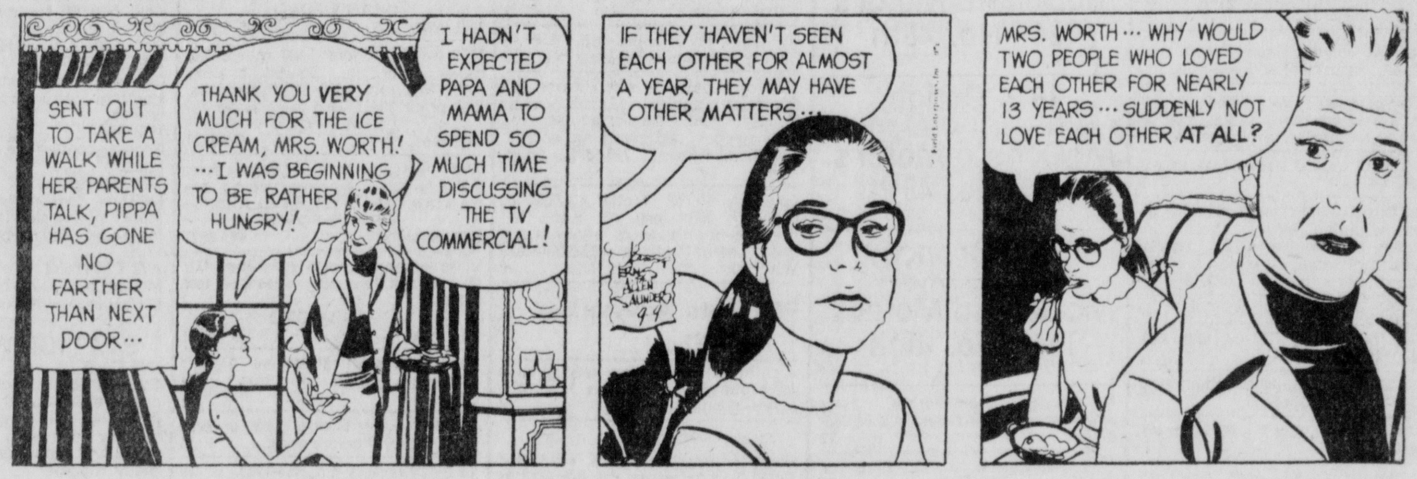
WHERE ARE WE GOING?
BACK TO MRS. MARGATE'S HOUSE. THERE JUST MAY BE A CLUE THAT'LL GIVE US A KEY— TAXI!
BUS STOP

MARY WORTH

by Ken Ernst



SENT OUT TO TAKE A WALK WHILE HER PARENTS TALK, PIPPA HAS GONE NO FARTHER THAN NEXT DOOR...
THANK YOU VERY MUCH FOR THE ICE CREAM, MRS. WORTH! ...I WAS BEGINNING TO BE RATHER HUNGRY!
I HADN'T EXPECTED PAPA AND MAMA TO SPEND SO MUCH TIME DISCUSSING THE TV COMMERCIAL!
IF THEY HAVEN'T SEEN EACH OTHER FOR ALMOST A YEAR, THEY MAY HAVE OTHER MATTERS...
MRS. WORTH... WHY WOULD TWO PEOPLE WHO LOVED EACH OTHER FOR NEARLY 13 YEARS... SUDDENLY NOT LOVE EACH OTHER AT ALL?

WHAT'S IT ABOUT?
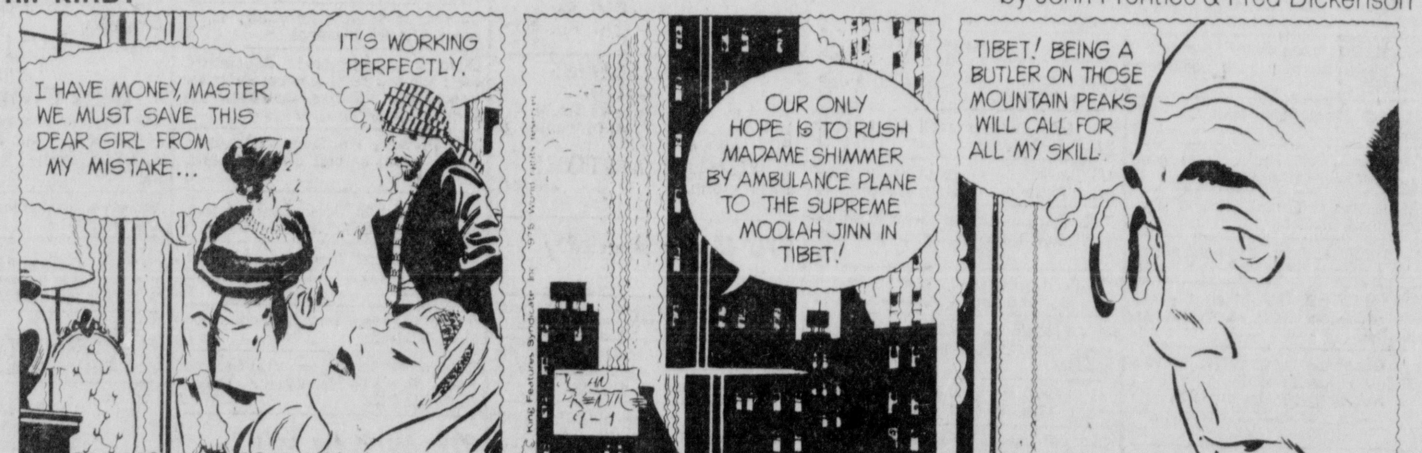
WHO'S IN IT?
I FORGET HIS NAME
MORT WALKER
HOW IS IT?
I FIND IT PSYCHOLOGICALLY COMPLEX, DWELLING ON PARALLEL THEMES ABOUT DISJUNCTURE AND AMBIGUITY

RIP KIRBY

by John Prentice & Fred Dickenson



I HAVE MONEY, MASTER WE MUST SAVE THIS DEAR GIRL FROM MY MISTAKE...
IT'S WORKING PERFECTLY.
OUR ONLY HOPE IS TO RUSH MADAME SHIMMER BY AMBULANCE PLANE TO THE SUPREME MOOLAH JINN IN TIBET!
TIBET! BEING A BUTLER ON THOSE MOUNTAIN PEAKS WILL CALL FOR ALL MY SKILL.
